The Fairy Amazonian Light Guards go lightly through their magnificent and picturesque evolutions and military exercises in the course of the performances of "King Charming," at the Broadway Theatre.

Genin's Holiday Card.—The Christmas week, the season of gaiety and social festivities, is upon us, and to the fitting accompaniment Genin has the pleasure of announcing his

HOLIDAY HAT

for 1855, the most fascinating and elegant dress chapeau that has been placed on an American head, or carried in the hand of a gentleman into an American drawing room on the first of January. Manufactured of the finest materials, shaped symmetrically, and finished with the utmost taste; it is a brilliant example of how far the poetry of art may be introduced in the fabrication of the simplest article of costume. As a visiting hat it stands unrivalled in lightness, richness and distingue appearance. The display of

LADIES' FURS

is also particularly select and attractive, comprising cable, regalia, marten, mink, chinchilla, &c. made up as Talmas, muffs, sleeves, victorines, gloves and cuffs, in the newest French mode. Mink sets from $20 to $100 each. The sale at $100 are probably the most beautiful as well as the cheapest specimens of the best quality of this fashionable fur ever exhibited for sale in this country. The attention of the public is also invited to Genin's immense assortment of suitable for business men, travellers, sportsmen, &c., and embracing every shade of color and variety of style that have yet been introduced either in this country or in Europe. The boys' soft hat department also presents an almost unlimited field for choice as regards size and colors. In

SOFT HATS,

CHILDREN'S PLAIN AND FANCY HATS AND CAPS, adapted to the season, an absolutely bewildering diversity of styles is offered. The imported stock in this department was received by the steamers of the present month, and contains everything attractive that is now to be found in Paris or London. The holiday style from the Genin factory are also particularly rich and becoming, and parents who wish to crown their darlings with a new grace, this winter would do well to call during the present week. All the above named articles are of the class that sensible people approve as being at once ornamental and serviceable. In accordance with the rule to which he owes his success, the undersigned offers every article in his stock at a very moderate advance on first cost, and has even reduced his present tariff of prices for all goods sold during the holidays.

HOLIDAY GIFTS,

GENIN, 214 Broadway, opposite St. Paul's.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

10,000 COPIES SOLD IN THIRTY DAYS!
AND 12TH 1,000 PRINTING.
Such is the unprecedented sale of
THE WIDOW BEDOTT PAPERS.

Says Prentice, of the Louisville Journal—It rivals the sarcasm of the "Potiphar Papers," as well as the drollery and humor of "Sam Slick."

Says the New York Observer—A volume more full of genial humor and irresistible Yankee character has not yet been published—not even excepting the experiences of the renowned "Sam Slick."

Says the Albany Argus—Its humor is perfectly irresistible, and those who open it should first look well to their buttons, for they may depend upon it that their risible organs will demand liberal room for exercise.

The author of the humorous pages are interspersed some of the most original "poetry" extant.

The Widow, in speaking of her late relict, Deacon Hezekiah Bedott, says:—

He never jawed in all his life,
He never was onkind—
And, tho' I say it, that was his wife,)
Such men you seldom find.
* * * *
And since it was my lot to be
The wife of such a man,
I tell the men that's after me,
To ketch me if they can.
* * * *
Whisky and rum he tasted not,
He thought it was a sin;
The inconsolable Widow o' Deacon Bedott,
Don't intend to marry agin.

Shortly after the "inconsolable widow" falls in love with the preaching of Elder Sniffles, who is "laid up" with a cold, and indites the following:—

O! reverend sir, I do declare
It drives me almost to frenzy,
To thing of you, a lyin' there,
Down sick with influenzy.
A body'd a thought it was enough
To mourn yer wife's departer,
Without such trouble as this 'ere
To come a follerin' arter.
* * * *
Then mourn not for yer partner's death,
But to sich mill endeever,
For 'spozen she hadent a died so soon,
She couldent a lived for ever!
Oh, I could to yer bedside fly,
And wipe yer weepin' eyes;
And try my best to cure you up,
If I wouldn't create surprise!
* * * *
Both sick and well, you may depend,
You'll never be forgot
By your faithful and affectionate friend,
PRISCILLA POOLE BEDOTT.

The tender sentiment of this poem reached the Elder's heart, as is acknowledged in a tender response. Shortly after the widow retires to a grove, in the rear of Elder Sniffle's house, she down on a log, and sings as follows:—

Ere love had teached my tears to flow,
I was uncommon cheerful,
But now such misery I do know,
I am always sad and fearful;
What peaceful hours I once enjoyed,
All on a summer day!
But O, my comforts were destroyed,
When Shadrach crossed my way.
I heard him preach—I heard him pray—
I heard him sweetly sing—
Dear me! how I did feel that day!
It was a dreadful thing!
Full forty do lars would I give
If we'd continued apart.
For tho' he's made my sperrit live,
He's surely cut my heart!
