BOOKKEEPING OF BABIES SHOW LARGE WASTE OF INFANT LIFE.

Washington, D. C. July 21—Since 1915 the Federal Government has been able to keep a ledger for the birth registration area showing profit and loss in terms of infant life and death. The figures for a five-year period are given for 18 large cities in a brief report entitled "Infant Mortality in Pittsburgh," which has just been issued by the U. S. Department of Labor through the Children's Bureau.

Of the 9 large cities in the birth registration area since it was established in 1915, Washington, Philadelphia and New York show the most satisfactory progress toward a reduction of rates, through Minneapolis has consistently maintained the lowest rate of any of the 9. In each year of the five-year period, 1916-1920, Pittsburgh lost more babies in proportion to its birth than any other of the 9 cities.

In Pittsburgh as a whole, in 1920, there was a loss during infancy of one life out of every 9. The rates varied greatly in different parts of the city, the rate in the most unfavorable ward being 157 deaths for every 1,000 births, while in the most favorable ward the rate was only 64 per 1,000.

Nearly one-half the babies who failed to survive died before they were a month old, when deaths are largely due to natal and prenatal causes. It has been clearly demonstrated that such deaths are largely preventable through care and instruction for the mother before the baby is born, and skilled care at and shortly after birth. Nearly one-fourth of the deaths were caused by gastrointestinal diseases. Deaths from these causes occur for the most part in the heat of summer. They can be reduced through instructions to mothers in the proper care and feeding of babies and through civic supervision to insure purity and proper handling of milk supplies.

Milk stations, maternity and baby clinics, and public health nursing service have been established in Pittsburgh. An extension of such services is necessary if the city is to deal effectively with the problem of infant mortality, and if the ledger for the next five years is to show saving in infant life.

WOULD HAVE WOMEN OF GEORGIA GIVEN BALLOT.

(By A. N. P.)

Atlanta, Ga., July 21.—Demanding the passage of an enabling act to permit the women of Georgia to vote in accordance with the provisions of the national equal suffrage amendment the Gerigia Woman's Suffrage Association through its president, Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, has sent a strong communication to every member of the 1921 General Assembly. The letter points out that, although the equal suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution was ratified last year, the women of Georgia and Mississippi were not allowed to vote because no enabling acts had been passed by the Legislatures of those two states. It also is made clear that the Georgia Woman's Suffrage Association expects the present legislature to pass the necessary statutes. The Negro woman is causing some embarrassment, but it is though, a grandmother's clause will meet this phase of the difficulties."

PECULIAR CONDITION ATTENDS SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—A peculiar condition attendant upon the graduating of some of the scholarships at Howard University seems to have been disclosed in the case of Miss Carrie Sutton of San Antonio.

Miss Carrie J. Sutton graduated last year from the Medical School of Howard. Dr. Sutton applied for and received a $1,200 scholarship given by Julius Rosenwald, through the General Educational Board of New York City, to further the study of Medicine. After receiving the scholarship she found that she could enter Freedman's Hospital as an interne and she asked that the scholarship be deferred until after she had finished her interneship, which would only be for a year.

On the First of July she completed her interne-ship at the hospital, being the only woman that had ever been admitted in such capacity during the history of the hospital.

In May she applied for the scholarship to be used this year, from the General Educational Board. There were three other doctors who applied for scholarships to the General Education Board this year: Dr. W. C. Johnson, now an interne at Freedman's Hospital; Dr. C. C. Cook, and Dr. Hightower, of this city. Each of these young physicians received a letter from the President, Dr. Abraham Flexner ,of the General Educational Board, to the effect that they were ineligible unless they were going to practice in the South.

While Dr. Sutton's home is in San Antonio, she is thinking of practicing in "the Middle West." Dr. Sutton said: "I do not know just where I will locate to pursue my profession; and do not feel that we should be bound by obligating ourselves to practice in any certain section of this country which boasts of being the 'home of the free.' I sent the letter on to my father for his consideration but do not think that I shall press the claim for the scholarship."
