NEWSPAPERS.

NEW YORK
COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER.
COMMENCEMENT OF THE SEVENTIETH YEAR.
OFFICE NO. 13 PINE STREET,
At the corner of William.

With the first day of January, 1864, the NEW YORK COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER passes from the hands of Messrs. Francis Hall & Company, who have been its conductors for more than fifty years, into those of new proprietors, who will be known to the public as the "COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER ASSOCIATION."

In making this change it is not the purpose of those concerned to alter the general character of the journal, or to abandon the independent and elevated tone which it has traditionally brought to the discussion of all political and social questions. It is designed, on the contrary, to give the paper, under its new auspices, fresh and more legitimate claims to the title of a COMMERCIAL JOURNAL. It will devote especial attention to the department of
for which it has organized a correspondence, insuring the amplest and most detailed daily accounts of the movements of shipping on all the waters of the world, thus rendering the paper essential to
THE SHIPPING AND MARINE INSURANCE INTERESTS OF THE COUNTRY.

Its Financial Article, its daily reports of the Wholesale Markets and of the movements in the Dry Goods, Produce and other departments of trade will be distinguished by their fulness and correctness.

While thus vindicating its claim to be a RELIABLE ORGAN OF THE MERCANTILE CLASSES,
the COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER will not be the organ of any other class, or interest, or clique or party. It aims to be thoroughly independent of all partisan influences and to be governed exclusively by the ambition to discover truth, and, as far as practicable, to make it acceptable and current in place of the errors of fact and of political, economical and moral science, to the propagation of which, so large a portion of the contemporary press is lamentably addicted.

Thus, while unalterably and earnestly loyal to the government in its warfare against armed rebellion, the COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER will be constrained to criticize freely such national measures as it deems impolitic or unnecessary or mischievous; and to award censure as impartially as it accords praise where praise is due.

In fact, the "Commercial Advertiser" proposes to itself no aim short of a public recognition that its columns are to be consulted for the frankness and directness of its expressions of opinion, and the zest with which it avoids the stigma of sensation journalism, by marking all unvouched for and questionable news, of which the telegraph is so productive with appropriate doubt, or explicit denial and exposure. The News Department shall not only be remarkable for its promptitude and fulness, but for ACCURACY AND RELIABILITY.

The LITERARY, SCIENTIFIC and ART DEPARTMENTS of the journal will receive more attention than heretofore, and will engage the services of the leading talent of the country. Arrangements to this effect have already been completed.

While the COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER will thus command a position in advance of existing commercial papers, it will abate no claim to rank on terms of equality with the most popular literary and the most trustworthy political journals.

The COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER, a large folio sheet, is published every afternoon (Sundays excepted), the first edition appearing at 1½, the second at 2½, and the third at 4 P. M.
