UNDER ARREST.

Ira Van Camp Must Meet Serious Charges.

Ira Van Camp, formerly connected with a tailoring business here and later traveling representative of R. O. Hall & Son and the Hollister Drug Co., is under arrest at Wailuku, Maui, charged with embezzling funds belonging to his employers. He was arrested Thursday at Kahului and doubtless had a preliminary hearing this morning. The case will ultimately be reviewed in the courts here.

Van Camp is well known in Honolulu and had quite a number of friends who will regret his trouble. He has been an easy going fellow. A short time ago he gave M. G. Johnston, the Boss Candy man, a note for $254 for money loaned and an old account. Upon this note his passport was stopped at Kahului. It is charged he was preparing to embark for San Francisco when Mr. Johnston's agent arrived.

But this is not the serious trouble. At Lahaina some weeks ago he, it is charged, collected $67 for the account of Hall & Son. Other amounts footing up about $150, were also collected. These it is claimed been never reported by Mr. Van Camp and never turned in. His account with Hollister & Co., is understood to be also irregular.

TWO ORDERS.

The International Shoot—New Uniform Plan.

Headquarters First Regiment, N. G. H. Honolulu, R. H., January 18th, 1896.

SPECIAL ORDERS No. 5.

With a desire to promote friendly feeling between the National Guards of the two Republics, and to encourage and increase their efficiency in target practice, Companies "C" and "G" of the 1st Regiment, National Guard of California have challenged the National Guard of Hawaii to shoot a match of 50 men, ten shots each, 200 yards, Creedmore rules, for a suitable trophy to be hereafter decided upon. Said match to be shot between the dates of February 8th and February 11th, omitting Sunday February 9th here, as no official score will be taken on Sunday.

The contestants shall be allowed to use any military rifle permitted by the regulations of their respective governments. The aforesaid challenge is hereby accepted; and Lieut.-Col. J. H. Fisher, assisted by Capt. E. O. White, First Regiment, N. G. H., will superintend the team, a list of which will be published and the members notified.

By command of Col. McLean.

FIRES OF KILAUEA.

LAKE IN HALEMAUMAU CRATER MORE ACTIVE THAN EVER.

Fountains of Living Lava—Spectacular and Impressive Grandeur of Display.

A FLOOD OF FIRE AFTER THIRTEEN MONTHS OF SMOKE.

A Great Rush to the Scene—Looking Down Upon a Carnival of Heat and Glow.

Wm. Brash, of this city, and "Petaluma Ned," a Wilson Line stage driver, picked up the glare of fire from Halemaumau, in the Kilauea crater, at 10:50 the night of the 3d inst. They were sitting on the veranda of the Volcano House, hoping for a return of the fires, when the red tinge was shown in the sky, delicate, but pure and certain, reflecting the live lava. This manifestation came after thirteen months of only smoke and steam from the largest active volcano in the world, the one crater seemingly forever to be depended upon.

Peter Lee, manager of the hotel and director of the Volcano House Company's business at Kilauea, and Albert, the intelligent and experienced native guide of the crater, were roused by Brash and the stage driver.

All the people on the premises were soon viewing the column of red glare, now more defined above the fires that had so long slumbered.

At 3 a. m. on the 4th inst. a descent was made to Halemaumau. It is a trip of three miles into the great crater and to the brink of the pond of liquid lava. Lee, Albert and the rest of the party, found the devil's cauldron once more boiling, and the mixture of red and cooled lava proceeding in lively fashion. The party remained at the Volcano till about 10 a. m.

Lines had been carried and measurements were made. It was found the fire was 450 feet below the surface and the liquid lava body, an oval deposit 200x250 feet. Telephone messages were sent to all ports and settlements on Hawaii and inquiries poured in all day. Mr. Lee wrote to E. C. Macfarlane, C. D. Chase and the steamer people in Honolulu. One letter had a diagram of Halemaumau as an enclosure. This sketch, together with an account of the return of activity, was given in this paper, and a STAR representative was despatched to the scene by the first steamer for Hawaii.

The first tourists to be taken into the crater by Guide Albert were the Queensland Government Officials, now visiting Hawaii, and a number of Americans. This was the night of the 12th. They were very much impressed with the scene.

On the night of the 11th the descent was made by a dozen plantation people who had made up a special party, including C. A. Doyle, the Japanese interpreter. They were treated to one of the rarest of sights. The lake suddenly began to bubble and surge like a great vat of oil into which a foreign substance had been tossed. Then it rushed like a torrent into an arch from which a heavy fire had been playing. For ten minutes there was a torrent of a flow into this opening. The guide and others were fearful that the fire was to disappear. As quickly as the receding movement had started, it set in by the opposite direction and the flood from the arch was longer and stronger than that which had gone into it. After this agitation the live lava was more active than ever, with cracking and seaming and a play of the so-called fountains.

Dr. Jas. T. Wayson of Honolulu, Miss A. M. Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson Brothers of Canada and a few more tourists who had started from Honolulu on the strength of THE STAR's account, with this paper's reporter, comprised the party of the 13th inst.

It is best to leave the Volcano House at 4 p. m. Ponies are available for those not caring to walk. The chap who remarked in the Record Book that it was three miles to Halemaumau and seven miles back, hit it about right. Lanterns are carried and it is not a bad idea to have a bit of a lunch along.

The descent into the great old crater is a sharp one, made by zig-zagging down a declivity little less than perpendicular.

Once on the floor of Kilauea, interest is quickened. One can pick out old and later flows, mounds, hillocks, gulches, chasms, in forms varying as the work of any melting pot.

There is a bridge over one great crack. This break was make of a nightwhen a party was at Halemaumau and found their return cut off by it. A wide detour was made upon the trembling earth, and past the monster fissure the travelers were safe from further earthquake tremblings.

On the journey by daylight the guide points out how scores of lava flows when the lake was at the surface forced as many changes in the trail. Surveyor's marks have been obliterated, several telephone lines washed down and submerged and half a dozen horse stations wiped out. Where the "Little Beggar" crater once played with constancy is a bank of eruption thrown up as the fires beneath failed.

Two hundred yards from Halemaumau one begins to feel the heat. It comes not only from the crater. The guarled, twisted, somber lava beneath the feet is warm and a haze like the fumes of Indian summer air waves and floats from many quarters about the pit.

As the first gaze is made over the brink and the unparalleled exhibition of nature is reached by the vision, there is no more thought of laughterat anative women whomade offerings and chanted wierd incantations to the Goddess Pele on the night of the 12th.

No description of the lake of fire could be extravagant. It has no relative features. In every detail it is superlative and distinct. It possesses all those scenic attributes commonly heaped upon the prairie, the moon, the forest, cataracts, great rivers and lakes, the mighty ocean and such phenomena as geysers and boiling springs.

Down probably now 440 feet, the lake seems very near. The view is better at present than it will be when the overflow stage is reached. All of it can be seen just now and can be looked upon in security. At points the walls are breaking away, but these loose streaks are well defined. Above the clouds are painted a pretty hue or in their absence a shaft of fire stands.

Attention is riveted to the bottom of this well. All of the time at least a third of it is lighted by breaks in the crust of black lava. It foments and boils and seethes and creeps and jumbles and jumps till one thinks all the imps of satan's domain are at frolic on their mill pond, breaking at Spring. There are explosions and collisions, and the movement tosses up fire in glorious showers. One or two of these fountains play almost continually, spouting great flakes and pieces of molten matter sixty to a hundred feet into the air. The fire thus played up falls with a report upon cold or cooling lava and is not yet dead when more follows. One fountain is named "Old Faithful" in memory of a predecessor that performed on schedule time.

At times there will be aside from the fountains, but a half dozen breaks in the lake. These fiery seams change form rapidly and from straight lines transform themselves to shapes unique and quite often with pronounced character. All can easily make out familiar forms, the play of imagery being raped and fascinating. In kaleidoscopic order, or disorder, are revealed outlines of countries, figures of animals, scrolls and artistic designs.

When the lake rumbles and makes a checker board of its surface, the onlooker gazes more intently after an involuntary start back. Then there is play of cloudburst and ice breaks confined in an ampitheater. It is a battle royal of fire fighting fire and such fire as mortal can gaze upon nowhere else. Many visitors remain at the brink for hours upon hours entranced by the pent-up carnival of nature's underground artillery and fire force.

How long will it last? Who can tell? Opinions predicated on the history of outbreaks for nearly half a century are the only authority. H. M. Whitney has made a close study of Kilauea many years. Seven weeks ago he predicted a resumption of activity within two months. All the students of the Volcano have been expecting this performance. They say it will continue two or three years. Peter Lee and Albert, the guide, are certain of this. Twenty-five months was the period of the '91 fire. That action is now duplicated in almost every particular and it what has happened is any guage at all this flow is good till 1898 and good to become stronger daily. On the night of the 16th the sky glow was plainly seen from Hilo bay, thirty-one miles distant. The show will continue and as a spectacular exhibition will grow better nightly.

The SS. Kinau will have a large party for the Volcano on Tuesday next. The SS. W. G. Hall had a number of passengers yesterday. THE STAR's representative went by the Kinau and found the service by that line first class in every respect—rapid and comfortable. The stage ride from Hilo is an excursion of itself.

Besides Halemaumau, the Volcano House has many other attractions. There are sulphur caves and banks and sulphur steam baths, the view of snow on Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea, the alum banks, invigorating air and good table. From all over the crater and around the house steam arises. There is a fern forest a mile away and the same distance is Kilaueaiki, an open extinct crater 725 feet down.

Altogether the trip to Halemaumau is an event of a lifetime and all the attractions are now at their very best. The House can entertain 150 people.

If You Love Me.

If you love me, tell me not.
Let me read it in your thought;
Let me feel it in the way
That you say me yea and nay.

Let me see it in your eye
When you greet or pass me by;
Let me hear it in the tone
Meant for me, and me alone.

If you love me, there will be Something only I shall see.
Meet or miss me, stay or go,
If you love me, I shall know.

Something in your tone will tell,
"Dear, I love you; love you well;"
Something in your eyes will shine
Fairer when they look in mine.

Is your mien some touch of grace,
Some swift smile upon your face
While you speak not, will betray
What your lips could scarcely say.

In your speech some silver word,
Tuning into sweet accord
All your bluntness, will reveal,
Unaware, the love you feel.

If you love me, then, I pray,
Tell me not, but day by day
Let love silent on me rise,
Like the sun in summer skies.

"Tears, Idle Tears."

Oh, why are Mary's eyes so red, and why are salt tears straying
Adown the face where happy smiles were wont to be a-playing?
What sudden grief unjustly bears upon so fair a maiden,
Whose soul and self seem fitted less for earth than distant Aidenn?
Has death or fate brought into naught fair Mary's dream of mating?
Ah, no! 'Tis not so bad as that—horseradish she is grating.

Still chambers of the heart, a specter dim,
Whose tones are like the wizard voice of Time
Heard from the tombs of age, points its cold
And solemn finger to the beautiful

And left no shadow of their loveliness
On the dead waste of life.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN N. G. H. CIRCLES.

Service Stripes to be Issued—Depot of Uniforms—Co. A's Good Time.

Members of the N. G. H. are to have service stripes. The stripe will be red and will be worn about the cuff of the right sleeve. One stripe will be given for each two-years of continuous service. An order to this effect will be issued at once. There are about 50 men in the N. G. H. who can now wear one stripe.

An order is out calling in all uniforms now charged to company commanders that are not in use. The uniforms returned will be credicted to the companies, and become Regimental property. Those in fair condition will be renovated, pressed and reissued as they may be required. By this means number of useless uniforms can be called into service. The move also establishes a nucleus for a Regimental depot of uniform, and when well under way extra men may be equiped on short notice.

The Regimental shoot with the Californians will take place Feb. 8, 10 and 11. Sharpshooters are barred from the match. The Colonel will issue an order, requiring 60 men who made 35 and over in the December shoots to begin practice at once. The names of those to be selected will be published later. There will be only about two weeks left for practice.

Company C will take the Hotchkiss guns and become a sort of secondary battery company. The company will, however, retain its infantry formation, praicticing with the artillery every other drill night. For the present only one gun will be used, leaving it a strong infantry support of about 40 men.

Company A's "High Jinks" at the drill shed Friday night was a most enjoyable affair. A long table was placed in the center of the big hall with chairs for seventy. The viands were laid on a bed of maile and flowers. Music was furnished by the Kawaihau band. Decorations were simple. Over a large picture of President Dole the Hawaiian and American colors were draped. A beautiful monogram, "Co. A, N. G. H.," was suspended on the wall. The letters were worked with maile leaves.

Captain Smith was master of ceremonies. Colonel McLean sat at the head of the table. Other officers present were: Colonel Fisher, Major McLeod, Major Jones, Adjutant Kenake and officers of Company A. The affair was informal. Colonel McLean, being called upon, complimented the company upon its good showing on all occasions and the interest manifested by the men in military matters. They were mostly laboring men, but usually found time to attend their drills. He thanked them for their past good work.

Capt. Smith produced the order issued by Colonel Fisher in January last in response to which Company A moved into Manoa Valley. A call was then made for Colonel Fisher. This officer paid a high tribute to the qualities of A. He knew the right men were being sent when Company A was ordered into Manoa.

Major McLeod responded to a call and added a few words to the general line persued by Colonel Fisher. Major Jones, who commanded a detachment of another company at Manoa, remarked upon the bravery of A and gave an amusing account of a valiant assault of the combined forces upon the commissary wagon.

Remarks were also made by Captain Smith, Lt. Rowald, Sgt. Lecker, Privates Keliipio and Kamakea of the company. Refreshments accompanied and followed the dinner. After the visitors left the company had a general good time. There was singing and dancing until 12 o'clock.

Ernaulton of Spain possessed wonderful strength. On Christmas day, 1888, being with several nobles in the upper rooms of a castle, the host complained of the fire burning low. Hearing this, Ernaulton, who had seen through the window some asses going by laden with wood, went out, seized one of the asses, and swinging it, together with its burden, upon his shoulder mounted 24 steps to the room where the nobles were and playfully threw wood and ass on the fire.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

At San Francisco—Miowera Boat—Capsized in the Bay—Warships—Front Notes.

The SS. Monowai arrived at Auckland on Jan. 3d.

The steamer Iwalani will return to Lahaina and Hamakua Monday afternoon.

The bark J. C. Glade sailed from San Francisco on Jan. 5 for Cork after discharging her sugar.

The C. F. Crocker, lying in the stream, received her first sugar from the steamer Kauai today.

The steamer Lehua will leave at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Honomu, Hakalau an Pohakumanu.

The whaling bark C. W. Morgan, Captain Earle, cleared at the Custom House today for the North.

The Hawaiian bark Foohng Suey arrived at New York on Jan. 2d from Hong Kong to load for Honolulu.

The steamer Mokolii arrived at 7:15 o'clock yesterday evening from Molokai. Fine weather was enjoyed on the passage.

The brigantine W. G. Irwin and schooner Aloha arrived at San Francisco on Jan. 9, 14 and 15½ days respectively from this port.

The U.S.S. Boston had not left Mare Island when the S.S. Alameda left San Francisco. The cruiser Philadelphia was also at the yard.

The barkentine C. C. Funk has been overhauled at San Francisco and was to have left for Nanaimo to load coal for Honolulu. She will return to San Francisco with sugar.

A life boat and buoy belonging to the SS. Miowera were picked up on the beach near Ozette, fifteen miles south of Cape Flattery. They were lost while the Miowera was towing the SS. Strathnevis.

The steamer Waimanalo came off the marine railway this morning and steamed to her old moorings at Irmgard wharf. Besides a new shaft the little steamer has been copper painted while on the ways.

The steamers Ke Au Hou and Kauai came in this morning from ports on the Garden Island. The boats caught the southerly buster of last night and were fairly driven into port. The Kauai with 7262 bags of sugar came up from Makaweli in twelve hours—considered very fast time.

The bark Alden Besse, Captain Potter, cleared today for San Francisco with the following exports: 14,431 bags sugar, W. G. Irwin & Co.; 2475 bags do., M. S. Grinbaum & Co.; 4145 bags do., J. T. Waterhouse, and 100 bags awa root, J. I. Dowsett Weight, 1316 tons; domestic value, $79,558.

The departure of the SS. Alameda for the Colonies was delayed until 10 o'clock in order to allow time for coaling. She took 380 tons into her bunkers while in port. Owing to the strong southerly wind prevailing, the services of the tug Eleu were called in to point the steamer's bow to sea. The seas were choppy outside.

Shore boat No. 41 with two natives in it capsized while going alongside the S.S. Alameda when she was coming in the harbor yesterday afternoon. Another boat went to the rescue, the steamer slowed up, and the men were picked up none the worse for their bath. The boat was sighted and the men moved ashore.

The barkentine S. G. Wilder sailed from San Francisco on Jan. 4, and the barkentine W. H. Dimond on Jan. 9, both for Honolulu; the brigantine J. D. Spreckels on Jan. 8 for Mahukona, and the schooner John G. North on Jan. 9 for Mahukona and Honoipo respectively. Vessels up and loading are the Planter and S. C. Allen.

Tired, Weak, Nervous,

Means impure blood and overwork or too much strain on brain and body. The only way to cure is to feed the nerves on pure blood. Thousands of people certify that the best blood purifier, the best nerve tonic and strength builder is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What it has done for others it will also do for you—Hood's Cures.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring peristaltic action of the alimentary canal. 2

Moon Eaters.

Certain it is that a belief in the moon as the abode of the fathers was widely spread among the people speaking the Aryan languages. To the present day the peasants in Swabia are heard to say, "May I go to the moon if I did it," instead of "May I die if I did it;" nay, people who work on the Sabbath day are threatening even now that they will go to the moon—that is, that they will die and be punished in the moon.

A more startling idea—peculiar, it would seem, to India—was that of the moon serving as the food of the gods. And yet, though it sounds strange to us, it was not so very unnatural an idea after all. The gods, though invisible, had been located in the sky. In the same sky the golden moon, often compared to a round of golden butter, was seen regularly to decrease. And if it was being consumed by anybody, by whom could it be consumed if not by the gods? Hence the ready conclusion that it was so, and that it was, in fact, this food which secured to the gods their immortal life.

If so much had once been granted, then came the question, How was the moon gradually increased and restored to its fullness? And here the old superstition came in that the souls of the departed entered the moon, so that the waxing of the moon might readily be accounted for by this more ancient article of faith. Hence the systematized belief that the moon wanes while it is being eaten by the gods and that it waxes while it is being filled by the departed souls entering it. A last conclusion was that the gods when feeding on the moon were really feeding on the souls of the departed.—Quarterly Review.

To Abolish Umbrellas.

There is a project in Paris for having all that we wear waterproof. Some years ago there was an effort to do this in this country by a company of which ex-Secretary McCulloch was president. In a room on Fourteenth street an interesting exhibition was given of a colorless fluid called, if memory is correct, neptunite. On a rack standing in a zinc tank hung feminine gear and stuffs of all sorts. The performances used to consist of deluging these with water from a convenient hose, which ran off them like water from a duck's back. On a blue silk bonnet trimmed with pink roses the drops of water caused one another like globules of quicksilver.

A stream of water was sent onto a piece of brussels net, and even the holes spurned it. Velvet ribbons and kid gloves alike repelled water. On ostrich feathers drops of water rested like dew which would not dissolve. Ink was thrown on silk, and a spray of water drove it off, leaving the material unhurt. A shoe left standing was filled with water, when emptied was dry. It was like a page out of the "Arabian Nights," in which the elements are conquered by unseen powers. The secret lay in the manufacture of the goods, each fiber having previously been dipped in a liquid which was water repellant. One test is remembered—an army coat held a pint of water 27 hours, which had run through a piece of untreated cloth in three minutes. Nothing, it appears, ever came of the project.—New York Sun.

COFFEE ESTATE AND LANDS FOR SALE.

I am directed to sell at Public Auction on Wednesday, May 27, 1896

at 12 o'clock noon of said day at my sales rooms on Queen street, in Honolulu (unless sooner disposed of at private sale) the following described property, namely:

A tract of land of two thousand (2000) acres in fee simple situate at Kolo and Olelomoana I in South Kona, Island of Hawaii, about eight miles by a good road from Hookena, one of the largest villages in Kona. There is an excellent landing on the land itself from where the coffee and other produce could be shipped and a good site for a mill near the landing. Fifty acres of land are in coffee. Roughly estimated there is about seven hundred acres of splendid coffee land lying all in one block on both sides of the Government Road: Eight hundred acres lying above and to the East of the seven hundred acres above mentioned is also excellent land and although at a higher altitude is no doubt also well adapted for coffee culture. The lower land below the coffee belt is suitable for pineapples and sisal. There is a drying house, store and work rooms, a Gordon's Pulper, laborers quarters and water tanks at the plantation and the land is partly walled. There has never been any blight on this land, although coffee was planted there a great many years ago. Old residents of Kona like the late D. H. Nahinu, J. W. Kaaimoku and others have testified to this fact. There is a sea fishery appurtenant to Olelomoana I.

Terms cash or part of the purchase price can remain on mortgage at eight per cent. per annum. Deeds and stamps at the expense of purchaser.

A map of the property can be seen and further particulars obtained at my sales room.

Jas. F. Morgan,

Genuineness. We all like to know a thing is genuine. Half the pleasure of buying is the assurance of getting what you ask for; the after pleasure or disappointment depends on whether you get the real or counterfeit. Probably no makers of perfume are so frequently imitated as the French.

We have taken no chances—Our perfumes are direct from French manufacturers. It seems wanton waste to destroy, even the outside wrappers on Roger and Gallet's perfumes. The bottles are a delight to the eye; the contents never fail in pleasing the most fastidious.

Remember, HOBRON DRUG Co., are headquarters for fine perfumes.
