A tornado in southern Arkansas, a fortnight since, uprooted whole forests. It extended five or six miles in width, and the largest trees were leveled.

The amount of the Mexican debt to Great Britain is over fifty millions of dollars, and the whole revenue of Vera Cruz for ten years would not pay it.

New Orleans is said to be almost overrun by gamblers. The boldest robberies are committed every night, and the papers advise people who travel at night or early in the morning to keep sharp eye on all persons they meet.

CURE FOR SNORING.—An inventive Yankee has produced an apparatus which he claims is a cure for snoring. It is to fasten upon the mouth, a gutta percha tube, leading to the tympanum of the ear. Whenever the snorer snores, he himself receives the first impression, finds how disagreeable it is, and, of course, reforms.

It is asserted that a man's finger nails grow their complete length in four months and a half. A man living 70 years renews his nails 180 times. Allowing each nail to be half an inch long, he has grown ten feet and nine inches of finger nail on each toe, and on fingers and thumbs an aggregate of twelve feet and six inches.

ADDRESS TO GIBRALTER.—The London News announces that Government has entered into arrangements for laying down, as speedily as possible, a telegraphic cable direct from Falmouth to Gibralter, a distance of eleven hundred nautical miles. The extreme state of war shows the importance of securing means of telegraphic communication with the British possessions in the Mediterranean totally independent of any continental medium.

EASTERN WORDS.—Those religious objects and words which are of the simplest and most obvious character are represented in English by words derived from the Teutonic dialects, while the more complicated and artificial—what we may call scientific or metaphysical—portions of the religious vocabulary is almost wholly in every case of Latin or Greek derivation: thus, "God," "fiend," "wicked," "righteous," "hell" "heaven," "hope," &c., are all pure Saxon words; while "predestination," "justification," "baptism," "church" will generally be found to come from other sources.—Outlines of English Literature.

A recent Sabbath morning a stranger visited a beautifully built church in Cambridge, for the purpose of worship, and, on asking the sexton for a seat, replied—forgetting St. Paul's instructions, "Be hospitable" —"we have plenty of seats to let sir!" The sexton, however, notwithstanding his curt answer, condescended to show the stranger to a seat. At the close of the services the gentleman inquired of the Treasurer of the Society, and ascertaining the name of the seat for one year he quietly handed him a point with the request that the seat might be reserved for strangers!"

It is a singular coincidence, that during the campaign of the French Empire in 1805, in which the French army obtained the appellation "le grande armee," there were three sovereigns in the field—the Emperor Napoleon, the Emperor of Austria, and the Emperor of Russia. On this account the battle of Austerlitz was baptized "The Battle of the three Emperors." Now, in 1859, Napoleon III., the Emperor of Austria, and the King of Sardinia are expected to fight at the head of their respective armies, and their first grand engagement will probably be called "The Battle of the three Sovereigns." The French army at Rome is to be increased, and placed on a war footing.

M. Rarey, after performing before the royal family of Berlin, has gone on to St. Petersburg, where orders have been kept quite full. He gave a performance before the Emperor and his family and two others, besides several princes and princesses. The subject was a horse who had just kicked his box to pieces and killed his groom, and Mr. Rarey exhibited him after a few days' training as obedient as any horse, and ready to obey orders, which were given him from the other end of the riding house.

The second was a wild, unbroken, entire colt from the steppes of Russia; and he, too, was completely subdued in so short a time that the Emperor not only publicly expressed his gratification, but ordered a report to be published in the papers.

WOMAN ON SKATES.—We have seen a woman on skates. A bright-eyed, rosy checked, good-natured, pretty girl she was. It was under the moonlight of a balmy air—and how she enjoyed it! How she whirled, circled and eddied, and careered, and danced, and struck back, and left the wavy outline of her steel carriers all over the smooth surface of the pond. Hoops or no hoops, it was a pretty sight—and the more pretty, because it was sensible. Oh! that the poor creatures, who, with heads inclosed in linen saturated with lotions, lounge languidly upon sofas, in close-shut, ill-ventilated rooms, gorging themselves with literary poison—a dozen pages every hour—could be made to see how much health in this buoyant, invigorating exercise.—Troy Times.

GUANO.—California takes many vessels, but at less than one-half the money. Chincha Guano freights, the freights which formerly helped out a voyage to the Pacific, are hardly to be obtained. At one time as high as $30 per ton was paid on the return from those islands. Now when one can be had it is only $10. For Jarvis Island Guano, a new port of freight back, vessels can be had in San Francisco to load for the United States at $8 per ton. The new Guano Islands near the Equator in the Pacific have lately been discovered and taken possession of by Americans, and will gradually come into the market as they become known and facilities for loading are arranged. We understand that the United States Guano Company, holding the island at Phœnix, a safe loading port, Christmas, and other Guano Islands, have taken a few vessels, but a member of the company has gone out via San Juan to meet them and arrange to load them, and all right to load some fifteen other ships. This island is said to resemble Jarvis Island, (a cargo of which is selling well in Boston,) and probably that guano on the islands in that quarter. It is a phosphate and fertilizer but contains no ammonia like the Peruvian. This company have arranged for several thousand tons on the island at $2 delivered to vessels, or will freight it to the United States at about $10 to $12 per ton.
