The Golden Year.

BY ALFRED TENNYSON.

We sleep and wake and sleep, but all things move;
The sun flies forward to his brother sun;
The dark earth follows, wheel in her ellipse;
And human things, returning on themselves,
Move onward, hailing up the golden year.

Ah! though the times when some new thought can bud
Are but as posts' seasons when they flower,
Yet was that daily gain upon the shore
Have ebb and flow conditioning their march,
And slow and sure comes up the golden year.

When wealth no more shall rest in nodded heaps,
But, suit with freer light, shall slowly melt
In many streams, to fatten lower lands,
And light shall spread, and man be liker man,
Through all the seasons of the golden year.

Shall eagles not be eagles? wrens be wrens?
If all the world were falcons, what of that?
The wonder of the eagle were the less,
But he not less the eagle. Happy days
Roll onward, leading up the golden year!

Fly, happy, happy sails, and bear the Peace;
Fly, happy with the mission of the Cross;
Knit land to land, and, blowing heavenward,
With silks, and fruits, and spices, clear of toil,
Enrich the markets of the golden year.

But wee we old. Ah! when shall all men's good
Be each man's rule, and universal peace
Lie like a shaft of light across the land,
And like a lane of beams athwart the sea,
Through all the circle of the golden year.

VARIETY.

We always did like the "church-going belle."

In China the natives call an Englishman "I say."

Whilst shame keeps its watch, virtue is not wholly extinguished from the heart.

Did you ever know a person to believe you when you explained how you got a black eye?

A bookselling firm in New York recently received an order from a country customer for a certain number of copies of Webster un-a-bridge. Of course the great Unabridged supplied the want.

"Homestead exemption," exclaimed Mrs. Partington, throwing down the paper. "It's come to a pretty pass indeed, that men are going to exempt themselves from home just when they please."

There is this difference between happiness and wisdom: he that thinks himself the happiest man really is so, but he that thinks himself the wisest is generally the greatest fool.

"Pray don't darn your cobwebs," was Swift's advice to a gentleman of strong imagination and weak memory, who was laboriously explaining himself.

Milk or cream, when it has turned sour, may be restored to its original sweetness by means of a small quantity of carbonate of magnesia. When the acidity is slight, half a teaspoonful of the powder to a pint of milk.

Dr. Franklin said, "When I see a house well furnished with books and newspapers, there I see intelligent and well informed children; but if there are no books or papers, the children are ignorant, if not profligate."

An old sea captain said he never knew of but one man who had a good excuse for going to sea; and that was Noah, for if he had remained on shore he would have been drowned!

The individual who tried to clear his conscience with an egg, is now endeavoring to raise his spirits with yeast. If he fails in this, it is his deliberate intention to blow out his brains with the bellows.

A young "buck," now-a-days, is curiously compounded; he has a beaver on his head, a goatee on his chin, kids on his hands, calves on his legs, casts sheeps' eyes, and is looked upon by his doeting duck as deer at any price.—Boston Post.

A lady in New York, quite overcome by a visit from the renowned chess champion, wishing to do the agreeable, said, "Will Mr. Morphy take a seat on the sofphy, and accept a cup of corphy?" Even language does homage to the giant.

Jerum was told of a supper at which goblets of ice formed by evaporation were used, from which to drink champagne. Jorum heard the story through, and then exclaimed:

"Well! ice ware!"

Elder Munger, speaking of the time when he was a boy, says it was the custom of the school children, as you passed a school house, to make a bow. But in these latter days as you pass a school-house you must keep your eye peeled, or you will get a snowball or a brick-bat at the side of your head.

Sometimes, perhaps thou hearest another Christian pray with much freedom and fluency, whilst thou canst hardly get out a few broken words. Hence thou art ready to accuse thyself, and to admire him; as if the gilding of the key made it open the door the better.

"I say, Mr. Pilot, ain't you going to start soon?" said a cockney on a steamer lying to during a fog. "As soon as the fog clears up," replied the captain. "Well, it's starlight now overhead," said the cockney. "Oh! yes, but we're not going that way," said the captain.

There never was a ray of star-light in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, only the red glare of torches ever illumine its walls. So there are many men whose minds are Mammoth Caves, all under ground, and benighted, save by the torches of selfishness and passion.

A gentleman while shooting in Tennessee, put his wadding in his clothes, and rammed himself down in the rifle instead. Having, however, fortunately left his cap on, he was instantly shot to the top of a pine tree, into the society of a raccoon, who explained to him his mistake.
