NEWSPAPER INDEBTEDNESS.

Our readers are aware that a powerful influence has been at work to secure the appointment of JOHN W. FORNEY, Esq., to a place in Mr. LINCOLN'S Cabinet, should a vacancy occur. This movement, inaugurated without the knowledge of Mr. FORNEY himself, has not been kept secret, but has enlisted in its behalf various public bodies of influential citizens; among others the Philadelphia Corn Exchange, which, at a recent meeting, passed a series of resolutions urging his appointment. Scarcely had these resolutions seen the light, when a bitter and malignant hostility manifested itself on the part of certain newspapers, the most prominent of which are the New York World and the Washington Republican.

The World of yesterday disgraces its columns and insults its readers with the following coarse vituperative:—

"CHANGES IN THE CABINET.—A meeting was held on Saturday at the Hot-corn Exchange, in Philadelphia, which resolved that Mr. JOHN W. FORNEY was the most 'fit and deserving' man to go into President LINCOLN'S Cabinet as Secretary, either of the Interior or of the Navy. As Secretary STANTON 'still lives,' this must be taken, for the present, as simply a graceful compliment from the hot-corn venders of the City of Brotherly Love to a journalist whom they delight to honor.

"Private telegrams from Colorado mention that the friends of WILLIAM GONNELL JEWETT, in that Territory, engaged in the gum-drop business, held a similar meeting recently in Raccoon Hollow, and nominated that calumnious diplomatist as the fit successor of Mr. Secretary SEWARD.

"We presume that both appointments will receive the most serious consideration from the President, notwithstanding the malignant hostility with which both would be received by the pumpkin-slanters of Massachusetts, who are pressing Mr. GARRISON with great unanimity for the State Department, and 'PRATT, the American traveler,' for the Navy."

The Washington Republican joins in the chase in the following elegant manner:—

"RECONSTRUCTION OR THE CABINET.—Meeting of the Cornucrackers of Hull—Resort of their Deliberation—Special Despatch to National Republican.—HULL, Mass., December 7.—At a large meeting of the Cornucrackers of this influential town, held in the cornfield, to-day, resolutions were adopted presenting the name of JOHN W. JONES as the candidate of the United States for a position in the Cabinet, in the event of decomposition. Delegations of Hullonians have gone to Washington (with presents of fish and game) to urge the appointment of Colonel JONES as Secretary of the Interior, in the event of Judge UNDERWOOD going upon a farm; or as Secretary of the Navy, in case Secretary WELLES should accept a clerkship under AUGUST BELMONT. Captain JONES already holds a handsomely salaried office, and his satellites are well provided for, but it is believed by the Cornucrackers here that if Corporal JONES could be put into the Cabinet, he would find places for every voter in Hull, and therefore they have telegraphed this meeting to the Associated Press in order to head off all other aspirants to Cabinet places."

It is, of course, improbable that any man could have held public station so long as Mr. FORNEY has without creating enemies and kindling animosities. His position at the head of a powerful and profitable newspaper may have stirred feelings of rivalry and jealousy. We regret to see these indications of personal ill-feeling towards a man who has lived down more unjust calumny than usually falls to the share of any single individual.

THE PLOT TO BURN NEW YORK.

Great indignation is expressed by the Rebels over the charge that the recent attempt to burn the city of New York was a plan concocted in the South. The Richmond Examiner of Tuesday last declares that "no man in the world will believe the incendiarism was a Rebel plot, by reason of anything that any Yankee can say or swear." This assertion about what "no man," or "any man," may or may not believe, fails to prove that it was not a Rebel plot. There is no argument here—but simply "stuff," such as mostly emanates from the addled brains of Southern writers. It is very easy for them to deny the charge, or ridicule it by saying that the world will not believe anything a Yankee says; but will the world do it? A Yankee's word is generally considered good, and he is known to stand by his promises and his oaths. We believe that the "world" is aware of the fact, that Southern Senators and members of the House of Representatives, at Washington, were sitting in their seats plotting for months against the Government, before the Rebellion broke out openly; and the "world" knows the men who violated their solemn oaths to support the Constitution of the United States, and perjured their souls that they might set up a Southern Empire founded upon slavery. It is probable that the "world" will be more prone to believe any one of these perjurers, than it will be to accept what a Yankee says as truth? These Richmond traitors are the last men in the world to talk about honesty, faith, or veracity.

There is no use in their efforts to hide the matter beneath columns of abuse heaped upon the Northern people. The impression that the Rebels did design to burn, not only New York, but Chicago, Buffalo, Philadelphia, and other cities, is not without good grounds. The Rebel papers, two months before the attempts were made, hinted at this very plan of firing our large towns and cities, and boasted and chuckled over it as a measure which would compel the North to sue for peace. The Examiner itself suggested the raising of a million dollars in gold for the purpose, and said that men were already North who would effectually carry out the plan.

Is the Examiner ashamed of its own wicked suggestions, or is it only chagrined because the horrible plot failed? The dread of revelations to come in the examination of those arrested in New York is what exercises the Rebel leaders at Richmond. They know that the testimony will be of the most damning nature, and they realize how hideous will be this new blot on the ever infamous character of the "Confederacy." The "world" will understand then who the guilty parties really are; and the combined efforts of all the Rebel newspapers to ridicule the plot, or bias public opinion in their favor and against the North, will utterly fail.

THE "AGE," ON UMBRELLAS, AND CURSING.

The Age of yesterday announced that the "satraps" had arrested one Baltimorean for hanging out a red and white umbrella as a sign for his place of business, and another for the misdemeanor of cursing the President.

The Age is outraged beyond measure at the "despicable despotism" of the Government. It wants to know how, "in the midst of a frightful civil war, in which millions of human beings are engaged in deadly strife—the land is covered with desolation and the voice of mourning is heard in almost every household—debt, taxation, conscription, high prices, and impending ruin are staring the people in the face, and yet, at such a moment, a great Government is 'frightened from its propriety' by the opening of a red and white umbrella, and the unconscious owner of the same is thrown into prison."

Now the "unconscious owner of the same" was not thrown into prison, for we learn by the very paragraph from the Baltimore paper which the Age quotes, and upon which it relies for its facts, that "the unconscious owner of the same" was arrested shortly before two P. M., and that he resumed business at about two P. M.

Yet, if we can rely more upon the Baltimore paper than upon the Age, "the unconscious owner of the same" was arrested. This would be natural in Russia or Austria, but in "free America, under the shadow of 'the dear old flag,' and within forty miles of the capital of the Republic, where the Nation's representatives are now sitting in council over the distracted state of the country!" Ye Gods! A man was arrested, and Congress in session within forty miles, did not lay everything on the table and take the first train!—and the President!—but words fail to depict the atrocious dereliction of the Chief Magistrate, who richly deserved the cursing for which the other gentleman was arrested. For mark you, a man may be arrested for cursing anybody, or even for damning his own eyes too publicly, but when he curses the President, let all good citizens say, Amen.

Where are we drifting? The national humiliation is great indeed, when the Government seeks the handle of an umbrella against its enemies, and in a raised umbrella sees open signs of treason. When shall we be disenthralled from the tyranny of a Government which does not attend to the police business of the country, or inquire into the merits of every case of arrest, or even see that its President gets cursed with impunity?

THE NAMES OF NEWSPAPERS.

There is a great deal in naming newspapers. Many of them would not smell as sweet were their names different from what they are. The name gives them an aroma which resilliates back upon them. Epithets have been ransacked in the search for telling names. To some worn-out cognomens an air of newness is given by the prefix of an explanatory local adjective. In the names of newspapers remote allusions are found to the age of mythology. These epitomes of the present are crowned with titles which suggest the supremacy of the past.

The most widely-read journals will, of course, be found, as a rule, to have monopolized the most telling titles. The Herald, the Tribune, the Times, and the World are representative titles which suggest the greater part of what a good journal should embody. Then we have such titles—not peculiar to any one city, but common throughout the city, and merely individualized by the addition of a local epithet—as Inquirer, Press, Gazette, Sun, Ledger, Chronicle, News, Republican, Bulletin, Mercury, Telegraph, Dispatch, Transcript, Age, Star. Of politico-representative titles it is noticeable that the St. Louis Republican is a Democratic journal, and the St. Louis Democrat a Republican one. It is not the first time that the question has arisen as to which is which between "charcoal emancipationist" and "claybank conservative."

In some cases an effort has been made at originality. The Palladium is a classic title, and the Pantagraph a lexicographical one. The Vox Populi ought to be a popular one. Then we have the Repository, the Register, the National Unionist, the Spectator, the Journal of Commerce, the Leader, the Eagle, the Traveler, the Monitor, and the Free South. Bulletin is likewise a good title, and is suggestive of despatches obtained at all hazards. As a representation of the Rocky Mountains, the Daily Territorial Enterprise is most welcome. The Era, and the Picayune, are names of New Orleans repute. The Lorgnette, the Programme, the Proscenium Box, are, or have been, theatrical organs of great prestige. The Mail is entirely suggestive of a budget of news and gossip, and the Expositor reminds us that the law is to be laid down in the most comprehensive and lucid style.

"Hew to the line, and never mind where the chips fall" was the motto, we believe, of the Weekly National Broad-Axe, which, for all we know, may yet be flourishing out West. The blasts of the Council Bluffs Bugle reach us from time to time. As names representative of localities, the Nebraskian and Poughkeepsian occur. The Watchman, the Sentinel, the Intelligencer, the Pioneer, the Courier, the Messenger, the Examiner, the Constitutional, the Advertiser, are all birds of a feather. In addition to these our eyes are constantly saluted by the True Flag, the Old Dominion, the Old Regime, the Blade, the Rebel Ventilator, the Appeal, the Engineer, the Whig, the Hebrew, the Conservative. In the newspaper life variety is the allspice.

Of papers given birth to under circumstances of art over local and national interests, we might mention Our Daily Fare, the Spirit of the Fair, the Boatswain's Whistle Among the less common names are to be included such epithets as Clipper, Telegram, Alta, Picket, Globe, Traveler. These names are put down just as they occur to us. The causes which have led to the names of newspapers, the circumstances under which peculiar titles have been adopted, is a curious theme for conjecture, and would read very entertainingly grouped together in a book of gossip. Newspapers are now established in such out-of-the-way corners, that we need not be surprised at the debut of a Kamschatkian Herald, or the establishment of a Thunderer in the vicinity of Pococatapetl!

BUSINESS ITEMS.

Dr. Jayne's Expectorant.—All who have used this standard Medicine for

ASTHMA,	CONSUMPTION,
BRONCHITIS,	PLEURISY,
WHOOPING COUGH,	CROUP,
COUGHS AND COLDS,	HOARSENESS,

or any Pulmonary Complaint, attest its usefulness. In proof of this fact, we would state that for thirty years past the Expectorant has been before the public, and that each succeeding year has added to its popularity, and extended the demand, until now it is known and appreciated in all quarters of the world, and admitted to be the great Remedy of the Age for that class of diseases for which it is especially designed.

RECENT COUGHS AND COLDS, Fleeting Pains, &c. are quickly and effectually cured by its diaphoretic, soothing, and expectorant power.

ASTHMA it always cures. It overcomes the spasmodic contraction of the air vessels, and by producing free expectoration at once removes all difficulties of breathing.

BRONCHITIS readily yields to the Expectorant. It subdues the inflammation which extends through the wind tubes, produces free expectoration, and suppresses at once the cough and pain.

CONSUMPTION.—For this insidious and fatal disease no remedy on earth has ever been found so effectual. It subdues the inflammation, relieves the cough and pain, removes the difficulty of breathing, and produces an easy expectoration, whereby all irritating and obstructing matters are removed from the lungs.

WHOOPING COUGH is promptly relieved by this Expectorant. It shortens the duration of the disease one-half, and greatly mitigates the sufferings of the patient.

In all PULMONARY COMPLAINTS, in CROUP, PLEURISY, &c., it will be found to be prompt, safe, pleasant, and reliable.

Prepared only by Dr. D. Jayne & Son, No. 242 Chestnut street, and sold by Druggists generally.

Burglar Alarm Telegraph.—The Public are informed that I have succeeded in obtaining the agency of this valuable invention for this city and vicinity. It is operated by electricity, the same as all other telegraphs only the wires are not visible. Each window and door is an operator. It is introduced without defacing the house in the least. A burglar must telegraph to your room; he cannot avoid it. In six years' experience in New York it has not failed. If it is an object to protect, beyond a doubt, the windows and doors of your house, it can be done. Call and see it.

ARCTIC RESEARCHES AND
Life Among the Esquimaux:
BEING THE NARRATIVE OF AN EXPEDITION IN SEARCH OF SIR JOHN FRANKLIN, IN THE YEARS 1860, 1861, AND 1862.
BY CHARLES FRANCIS HALL.
With Maps and One Hundred Illustrations, beautifully engraved from Designs by CHARLES PARSONS, HENRY T. STEPHENS, SOL. EYTINGE, W. H. FAIRLOCH, AND GRANVILLE PERKINS, after
SKETCHES BY MR. HALL AND PHOTOGRAPHS.
8vo., pp. 470. Half Morocco, $6·50.
A narrative of extraordinary individual enterprise and perseverance, almost unaided; with the results of a long intercourse with the Innuits, and full description of their mode of life, social, political, and religious; the discovery of actual relics of the expedition of Martin Frobisher of three centuries ago, and important deductions in favor of yet discovering some of the survivors of Sir John Franklin's expedition, towards which the author, Captain Hall, has just started, relinquishing, on a second expedition. As regards both matter and manner, it takes place in the first rank of the records of travel and adventure for which the last fifteen years have been so prolific.
From the New York Evening Post, December 8.
With all sorts of pell-mells and digressions, but covered always by his inner fire and the beauty and assistance of a few noble-hearted men, Mr. Hall set out in May, 1860, for the Arctic regions. From that moment to the end of his first voyage, and his return home in 1862, we have the full story of his movements in the very interesting volume just issued by Harper & Brothers—a work which is an addition of the first importance to the present limited library of Arctic literature.
It is Mr. Hall's family of making himself at home among the natives that gives his book its interest to the general reader. It gives, with the fidelity of a photograph, and yet with the color of a painting, a picture of life among the Esquimaux. Not merely Esquimaux life, but life among them.
Mr. Hall applied himself with all his energy and perseverance to the task of becoming an Esquimaux, and of making thorough explorations of the country where he found himself. His book will show how fully he carried out his purposes. Those persons only who have had the privilege of looking over his original notes, made in the snow huts or skin tents of the Innuits after hard work had consumed the day, can entirely appreciate the fidelity of the narrative.
We are sure that in this book we have the absolute truth given, not from memory, but noted down in the midst of scenes.
From the New York Observer, December 8.
Full of the most interesting and instructive incidents, narrative, and adventure; it is life among the Esquimaux, graphic and picturesque, not very inviting to people inquiring for "board and lodging," but exceedingly pleasant to those who would know how they live in the frozen North, where existence itself would seem to be undesirable, and only to be borne as an inevitable necessity. We might make pages of extracts of deeply interesting matter, but know not where to begin; and we commend the volume itself to every family that wants a good book for winter reading.

HARPER & BROTHERS
Have Just Published:—
MARGARET DENZIL'S HISTORY. Annotated by her husband. A Novel. 8vo., paper, 75 cents.
"'Margaret Denzil's History' is one of those stories which are so good that we all hear of them before we read them. This one has excited so much interest as it appeared serially that, as if some unusual origin must be found for so remarkable a tale, it has been attributed to several noted persons, and, among others, to Queen Victoria. But it is very clear that if that good lady had been capable of writing such a book, she would not have waited until now to reveal her power. 'Margaret Denzil's History' is doubtless a woman's book, and one of those which must be read by every one who would be familiar with the remarkable variety of literary power which, in our day, seeks its expression in the novel."
