Where there's a Will, there's a Way.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

Aut veniam viam, aut faciam.

It was a noble Roman,
In Rome's imperial day,
Who heard a coward croaker
Before the battle say:
"They're safe in such a fortress:
There is no way to shake it"—
"On! on!" exclaimed the hero,
"I'll find a way, or make it!"

Is Fame your aspiration?
Her path is steep and high:
In vain he seeks the temple,
Content to gaze and sigh;
The shining throne is waiting,
But he alone can take it,
Who says with Roman firmness,
"I'll find a way, or make it!"

Is Learning your ambition?
There is no royal road;
Alike the peer and peasant
Must climb to her abode;
Who feels the thirst of knowledge,
In Hebron may slake it,
If he has still the Roman will
To find a way, or make it!

Are Riches worth the getting?
They must be bravely sought;
With wishing and with fretting
The boon cannot be bought;
To all the prize is open,
But only he can take it,
Who says, with Roman courage,
I'll find a way, or make it!

In Love's impassioned warfare,
The tale has ever been,
That victory crowns the valiant,
The brave are they who win;
Though strong is Beauty's castle,
A lover still may take it,
Who says, with Roman courage,
I'll find a way, or make it!

VARIETY.

Heaven and earth fight in vain against a dunce.

More are drowned in the wine-cup than in the ocean.

Do not talk Arabic in the house of a Moor.

A needle's eye is wide enough for two friends: the whole world is too narrow for two foes.

When thou seest thy house in flames approach and warm thyself.

When the tale of bricks is doubled, Moses comes.

Who lets one sit on his shoulders shall have him presently sit on his head.

POVERTY.—At a late celebration, a poor man present offered the following toast:

"Here's health to POVERTY, it sticks by you when all other friends forsake you."

Why is an objective like a drunken man? Because it cannot stand alone.

The only cap of liberty for the French—the percussion cap.

Say nothing, do nothing, which a mother would not approve, and you are on the certain road to happiness.

Many a true heart that would have come back like a dove to the ark, after its first transgression, has been frightened beyond recall by the savage conduct of an unforgiving spirit.

Such as have virtue always in their mouths, and neglect it in practice, are like a harp which omits a sound pleasing to others, while itself is insensible of the music.

At a down-east revival an old lady prayed fervently for the "young lambs of the flock." Another lady asked, "Wouldn't it be as well to include the old ewes?" A titter pervaded the meeting.

Some wag proposes that the Republican papers should hoist the name of their candidate at the head of their columns thus: "For President—Abraham Lincoln, the Irreproachable 'Sucker.'"

Fun is worth more than physic, and whoever invents or discovers a new source of supply deserves the name of a public benefactor.

CLEANING KETTLES.—A bit of pearl-ash, as large as a walnut, dissolved in hot water, will remove grease from iron cooking vessels, and also take out the taste left by onions or other highly-flavored food.

RECIPE FOR NEURALGIC AFFECTIONS.—Equal parts of sweet oil, spirits of hartshorne, turpentine and camphor. It can be made an anodyne by adding a little laudanum.

An aged clergyman, who had known not one day's illness, was asked his secret. "Dry feet and early rising," was his reply; "these are my only two precautions."

TO CLEAN PAINT.—Smear a piece of flannel in common whiting, mixed to the consistency of common paste in warm water. Rub the surface to be cleaned quite briskly, and wash off with pure cold water. Grease spots will in this way be almost instantly removed, as well as other filth, and the paint will retain its brilliancy and beauty unimpaired.

ADVICE AND EXAMPLE.—He that gives good advice, builds with one hand; he that gives good counsel and example, builds with both; but he that gives good admonition and bad example, builds with one hand and pulls down with the other.—Bacon.

TOO SMART.—"Come here, my little man," said a gentleman to a youngster of five years, while sitting in a parlor where a large company was assembled. "Do you know me?"

"Yets thir."

"Who am I, let me hear?"

"You ith the man who kithed mamma when papa was in New Alk?"

In a novel at Margate Library, this passage was marked and well thumbed:—"There is no object so beautiful to me as a conscientious young man. I watch him as I do a star in heaven. "That is my view—exactly," sighed Miss Josephine Hoops, as she laid down the volume. "In fact, I think there's nothing so beautiful as a young man, even if he ain't conscientious!"

STRANGE WOMEN WANTED.—Mrs. Dr. Lydia Sayer Hasbrouck advertises as follows in her last Sibyl:

WANTED—An intended bride who is willing to begin housekeeping in the same style in which her parents began.

Twenty fashionable young ladies who dare to be seen wielding the dusting brush or darning their brother's stockings, if a gentleman should happen to make an early morning call.

Ten independent young ladies of "good families," who dare to wear their last winter's bonnet to church on a fine Sunday.

Fourteen young ladies, "who are anybody" who dare to be seen in the street wearing shoes with soles thick enough to keep their feet warm.

Fifty young ladies of sufficient age "to go in company," who dare confess they have ever made a loaf of bread or a pudding.

PURITY OF CHARACTER.—Over the beauty of the plum and the apricot there grows a bloom and beauty more exquisite than the fruit itself—a soft, delicate flush that overspreads its blushing cheek. Now, if you strike your hand over that, and it is once gone, it is gone forever; for it never grows but once. The flower that hangs in the morning, impearled with the dew—arrayed as no queenly woman ever was arrayed with jewels—once shake it so that the beads roll off, and you may sprinkle water over it as you please, yet it can never be made again what it was when the dew fell silent upon it from heaven. On a frosty morning you may see the panes of glass covered with landscapes—mountains, lakes and trees blended with a beautiful, fantastic picture. Lay your hand on the glass, and by the scratch of your finger, or the warmth of your palm, all the delicate tracery will be obliterated. So there is in youth a beauty and a purity of character that when once touched and defiled can never be restored—a fringe more delicate than frost-work, and when torn and broken, will be never re-embroidered. A man who has spotted and spoiled his garments in youth, though he may seek to make them white again, can never wholly do it, even were he to wash them with his tears. When a young man leaves his father's house, with the blessing of a mother's tears still wet upon his forehead, if he once loses his early purity of character, it is a loss that he can never make whole again. Such is the consequence of crime. Its effect cannot be eradicated; it can only be forgiven.—H. W. Beecher.
