FINANCIAL NEWS AND COMMENT

Blocks of Stock Dumped on Market When Margin Calls Are Unheeded.

CALL RATES 6 PER CENT.

Talking Bulls Fear to Back Words as Professionals Press and Holders Let Go.

On an active volume of business, prices in the Stock Exchange yesterday moved in the direction of lower levels in the greater part of the session. Failure of many commission house customers to respond to calls for additional margins on long accounts sent a substantial amount of stock on the market, while pressure from the professional element again was heavy, especially in the steel and copper shares and some of the other industrials which moved down without attracting active support either from Wall Street or from the public.

The public would have nothing to do with speculation beyond converting its speculative holdings into cash, which in many instances involved heavy losses on the basis of the original purchase price. Offerings could find a market only at concessions, and although some of the larger interests were willing to take stocks at the lower quotations they were not disposed to encourage the idea the bottom had been reached.

It was said no bulls could be found. That was a mistake for there were talking bulls who, however, were unwilling to back up their words with action. The short interest was materially increased, as the result of the day's operations, notwithstanding many shorts covered on the decline, and the technical position of the market, therefore, strengthened the belief in some quarters that it would require only a moderate demand and slight efforts by the "big" men of the Street to bring about something in the nature of a sharp rally. But the Street, as a whole, was not willing to risk its money on the long side of speculation on the theory the time had arrived for the development of a sustained upward movement in general prices.

As yet there is no incentive for buying. Conditions in Washington are too uncertain to encourage bullish activity, while it appears probable that the immediate future will not produce factors upon which a wide speculative or investment demand could be based.

Money market conditions are not in favor of buying stocks on borrowed funds. Call rates yesterday advanced to 6 per cent. and time loans were made for short periods only, the banks showing no disposition to provide credit facilities for long term fixed periods with the outlook so promising for enormous demands by the Government and special financing by corporations.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and chairman of the railroad war board, says rich America may need every dollar of its almost incalculable wealth in the successful prosecution of the war. The National City Bank points out that the demand upon the banking facilities of the country will be "very great in the months intervening between now and the new year," and that our crop financing will require an unusual amount of money, while our industries will require more working capital. THE SUN repeatedly has pointed out the probability of higher money and it now finds no reason to change its opinion.

With higher rates for money, incident to Government, crop and business needs, the leading financial interests see no opportunity for a great movement in stocks. On the other hand they advise against investment selling, while they suggest the purchase by those persons who have surplus capital on hand of high grade securities, particularly the choice mortgage bonds which may be obtained at relatively low quotations. There are few persons, however, who have the capital available.

Some of the current investment liquidation represents selling by holders who prefer to exchange their securities which are subject to taxation to tax-exempt domestic and foreign Government bonds, but as a rule the ordinary investor is showing supreme confidence in his holdings because he has supreme confidence in the strength of the country's economic forces.

Russian exchange was demoralized, with rubles going to a new low.
