THAT GRACIOUS TREE.

Actions are speaking louder than words in regard to THE EVENING WORLD Christmas Tree. Several prominent citizens have taken measures to secure its success, and entertainments to raise funds for it are to be held in several places. The Salvation Army, which, whatever else is to be said about it, has an unquestioned interest in the poor, has embarked with enthusiasm the idea of a Christmas Tree for the poor children who would else be left so unfrended on the festive day, and the "Hallelujah Lassies" and their friends are going to lend a helping hand.

Let no good man or woman fail to take some part in the planting of that tree. Gentle dews, bright sunshine, pure air, are the elements which nourish it, and these are all found, metaphorically, in the healthy human heart. Men and women of good heart, subscribe. Send a quarter of a dollar for the tree. That is not too much for you, and it will go a great way.

CIVILIZED NERVE.

The Indian has always been admiringly regarded as a stupendous model of stoical endurance and iron nerve. He has been pictured as suffering with weary indifference his own combustion at a slow fire, or contemplating with amused curiosity his own evisceration.

This is the Indian born in writers' brains, and stalking, a beautiful myth, through inflammatory literature. Three Apaches, sentenced to be hanged, unable to endure the strain of waiting the dreaded noose, hung themselves in their cells.

CARLTON and GREENWALL, young men of New York training, ate, drank, slept and joked up to the time when the snapping of their cervical vertebræ put a damper on further hilarity. Is the slum or the forest the better promoter of nerve?

THE END OF HANGING.

Death by hempen suspension is at its end in New York State. GREENWALL was possibly the last subject for this kind of execution, though Jockey STONE may possibly have the lugubrious honor of being the last man in this State to be hanged by his neck till he is dead.

The smooth, almost breathless rapidity with which ATKINSON hung CARLTON and GREENWALL would seem to leave electricity little chance of eclipsing his record for swiftness. His one hand is still lingering on the condemned with fond attention when his other waves the signal for the axe to fall, and in his own expressive language, he "lets him go." Ugly as hanging is, as an effective death-dealing agency it remains to be seen if electricity will surpass it.

BURY THEM QUICKLY.

The electric wires have as bad a reputation as possible, yet every day new calamities, for which they are responsible, come to light to more utterly condemn them in the mind of every thoughtful man. The Coroner's jury in the verdict over the Minneapolis horror ascribe the death of the victims to the obstructiveness of the wires, which prevented the Fire Department from rescuing the men in the upper stories.

For heaven's sake, bury the wires. It is incredible that something so bad can continue in the face of every reason for its removal. Do not wait for victims to accumulate. Why so much needless horror?

Mr. JAY GOULD has expressed himself with not too great exuberance of feeling about New York City as the spot for the World's Fair for 1892. In the first place, he thinks we can't get up a decent Fair in two years. In the second place, if it is the second place with Mr. GOULD, while he thinks New York City will do, he says that putting it in St. Louis or Chicago, the world at large would get a better idea of the "interior" of the country.

It is by such talks that the world at large gets a better idea of JAY'S "interior." It is large, auriferous, insatiable. A tombstone is the only thing that is too large for it.

Europe's chapter of accidents yesterday showed that we have not a monopoly in that sort of thing. Well, there is comfort in companionship in misery.

They do say that TOM REED has gained a pound or two since he was hoisted to the Speaker's chair. It is something Tom has no need of.

TOLD IN THE GREENROOM.

WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE WORLD OF THEATRICALS.

Tenor Carlton to Produce "The Brigands" at the Grand Opera-House—Mansfield Will Arrive Here Sunday Night—Miss Eastlake the Cynosure of Pedestrians—Cora Tinnie and Her Christmas Work.

Carleton, the tenor, and head of the Carleton Opera Company, is going to do what appears to be rather a daring thing next month. He will bring his company to the Grand Opera-House and will present "The Brigands," the production that made such a great success at the Casino. There will possibly be some legal objections from Mr. Aronson. Carleton, however, claims that "The Brigands" is free to everybody, from the fact of its publication in England. He has presented the opera on the road and has met with no interference. In any case, however, Mr. Aronson would probably experience no very profound alarm at the Grand Opera-House production. A road manager who could excel the gorgeous Casino's representation would be a wonder, and comparisons are always "odorous."

* * *

Richard Mansfield and his company will arrive in the city Sunday night, and will "lay off"—to put it vulgarly—until the opening at Palmer's Theatre, Dec. 16. Mr. Goodfriend, Mansfield's energetic representative, was in the city yesterday. The actor will probably present "Beau Brummel" during his New York engagement, though of course he will open with his elaborate production of "Richard III.," presenting at the Saturday matinee Ibsen's play, "The Doll's Home." Another of Ibsen's plays, "Ghosts," will probably be presented during the engagement, which will last for six weeks.

* * *

Miss Eastlake, as she took a matutinal walk on Broadway yesterday, was gazed at curiously by the little sonbrettes and others. She wore a long cloak trimmed with fur and reaching to her feet, while a rather too diminutive sailor hat was the supplement.

* * *

Miss Gabrielle du Sauld, in spite of a few difficulties she had with Miss Kate Claxton, has now secured the right to play "Bootles's Baby" in the South and Far West. She has secured Frederick Sidney, Mr. Gisiko and Edwin Royal for the cast. She herself will play the part of Helen Grace.

* * *

Miss Cora Tinnie, of "The Seven Ages," was out for charity yesterday, visiting the wholesale dry-goods houses for subscriptions to the stage children's Christmas-Tree Fund. "I am begging very hard," she said, laughing. "I have half a dozen places to visit, and I am only hoping that the gentlemen I meet will be gray-haired. It is so easy to induce them to subscribe. They don't hesitate at all. By the bye, I am down on the Committee list as Mrs. Cora Tinnie. Isn't it perfectly horrible? Everybody is joking me about it. But if they've made me Mrs. Cora Tinnie they've made Mrs. Sol Smith Miss Smith."

* * *

Messrs. Rice and Dixey claim that the audience present at the Standard Theatre, Thanksgiving night was the largest that the theatre has ever held. The next in point of size was assembled by the London Gaiety Company, but "The Seven Ages" beat this by 300 in spite of the fact that the English burlesque people charged $1.50 in the first five rows in the balcony, while the present occupants ask that price for the first two rows only.

* * *

Edmund Mortimer, author of "The Shanty Queen," which came back to New York after a very brief sojourn on the road, says that the play is going out again Dec. 16, and will open in Hartford with Miss Frankie Kemble in the title role. "The piece was horribly presented," said Mr. Mortimer yesterday. "An Alhambra ballet was introduced, and the girls were so lightly clad that they insulted the audience. People wouldn't tolerate such an innovation, and very rightly, too. Then a quartet was sung so villainously that the audience guyed, and the quartet was discharged as soon as its members left the stage. I wasn't responsible for all these introductions. The backer of the piece still has great faith in it, so has Miss Kemble; so have I. It is not a high and lofty effort; it is a pleasant entertainment."

SPOTLETS.

Dr. Rainsford is charged with shooting quail out of season. One misguided friend tries to screen him by saying he thought the beast was a woodcock. Dr. Rainsford would sooner pay the fine than be thought unable to tell a quail from a woodcock.

Bologna sausage is one of those things that no man knows anything about. Now it comes out that a large manufacturer of the dainty esculent makes them of horseflesh. Fancy Sunol turned into a bologna!

* * *

A young girl disguised herself as a dude and smoked cigarettes. She was discovered because she did not suck the knob of her cane.

* * *

A man had a card on his person stating that his name was Rudde, "in case of accident." What was his name if nothing befell him?

* * *

Four men were kept in jail two months waiting for a fellow who had been knocked down to get well enough to identify them. Then the man said they weren't the ones. Next time the men will send their photographs to him as soon as arrested.

* * *

Now there comes a suspicious despatch mentioning in the same breath champagne and Emin Pasha's fall from a balcony. Emin was badly broken up.

* * *

Whiskey is quoted at $25 a gallon in Alaska. A drunken man there is regarded with the respectful homage due to wealth.

* * *

A man was discovered lately with five complete suits on his person. Berry Wall is respectfully advised to take a pointer.

A woman got a telegram sent by s'm'other woman to her hubby. Sooner than have the young woman disappointed, she went herself to the tryst. The young woman is feeling very sore now, and is wondering how that woman's husband ever dares to misbehave.

ATHLETES IN REPOSE.

F. Brauldings, of the Orange football team, who plays full-back with such effectiveness, was formerly a member of the Princeton football eleven. He punts and runs very cleverly.

Charles O. Perry, who is a candidate for the position of First Lieutenant of the Manhattan Athletic Club, is one of the best-liked members of that very successful athletic organization.

G. A. Avery, of the Manhattans, is probably one of the most skillful timers in the world. He is also an unabridged dictionary on all athletic matters.

Full Back Tripple, of the Columbia College football team, ought to develop into a great punter. His kicking was a great aid to his team in all the games in which he played this Fall.

NOW IT'S WILSON.

The Second Battery's Captain Again Leads "The Evening World" Contest.

Lieut. Col. Moran Hanging On to Second Position Desperately.

Major Kipp and Lieut. Crolius Indulge in Wonderful Spurts.

Again the irrepressible Capt. Wilson, of the Second Battery, jumps to the front in THE EVENING WORLD'S National Guard election, this time with a grand total of 19,378. Lieut.-Col. Moran is second with his total increased to 15,779.

Major Kipp, of the Seventh Regiment, strides proudly into third place with 13,827, while Lieut. Crolius, of Co. F, Thirteenth Regiment, holds fourth, with 11,008 to his credit.

Dan McGinty, Submarine General, received one vote yesterday, but he cables that it is too wet where he is, should he win the prize, to properly keep such an elegant sword, and therefore he must decline to be a candidate.

The sword which the successful candidate will receive is to be a most magnificent affair. In the first place, it is to be made upon an entirely new design, richly ornamented, and of the best material to be obtained.

The blade will be of the finest Damascus steel. The handle and guard will be of brass of special design, burnished and hand-chased, as will also be the mountings upon the scabbard, which will be of steel and nickel-plated. The grip will be either of shark-skin or of embossed metal, silver plated and burnished, the design depending on the rank of the officer receiving it.

The shape of the blade will also depend upon the rank of the winner; if he is a line officer it will be straight, and if a staff officer it will be a sabre and curved in form.

A medallion mounting of burnished and hand-chased metal on the upper part of the scabbard will be inscribed with the name of the winner, with his rank and regiment.

The sword will be manufactured by B. M. Whitlock, of 90 Fourth avenue, the well-known maker of military equipments, and this announcement of itself guarantees the best of material and workmanship.

Owing to the urgent request of members of different companies from the west and north of this State and New Jersey, it has been decided to continue the contest beyond Dec. 10, the time originally fixed for closing. Due notice will be given of the date when the contest ends.

This extension of time will give parties at a distance plenty of time to get in their ballots, which they could not otherwise do on account of unavoidable delay in getting copies of the paper.

If you have not already done so cut out and send the following blank, properly filled, to THE EVENING WORLD:

THE EVENING WORLD POPULAR VOTE ON THE OFFICERS OF THE NATIONAL GUARD OF NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY.

MY CHOICE IS—

RANK AND POST—

SIGNATURE OF VOTER—

RESIDENCE—

Candidates.

THE EVENING WORLD will present to the most popular officer of the National Guard of the States of New York and New Jersey a beautiful sword of unique and appropriate design.

The most popular officer to be determined by the ballots cast by readers of THE EVENING WORLD.

Each reader may vote once only.

Fill in the blank as prescribed and mail it to The Editor.

Gorst, Hill and Green, Commanders-in-Chief of the National Guard of their respective States, are excluded from the contest; all others, from lieutenant to general, now in the militia service, are in the race.

There are at present 202 candidates. The vote of the fifty highest stands to date:

WORLDLINGS.

Sir Henry Isaacs, the new Lord Mayor of London, can sing an excellent song or make a telling speech. He has a cultivated bass-baritone voice. His collection of rare china is one of the most valuable in the world.

Prof. John Stuart Blackie, the distinguished scholar, leads a simple and methodical life in his Edinburgh home. He has an immense correspondence and takes pride in answering every letter he receives.

Robert Coleman, the millionaire miner, of Cornwall, Pa., is a thorough machinist, and can run a locomotive as well as a Brotherhood engineer. He has a railroad of his own at Mount Gretna.

Gen. Herrera, of Vera Cruz, who is now making a tour of this country, is one of the foremost soldiers of Mexico. He is a man of fifty-five years and looks like a commander. For the past three years he has been in the Mexican Senate.

BOXERS AND BALL CRANKS.

BROTHERHOOD PLAYERS AWAITING THE NATIONAL LEAGUE'S ONSLAUGHT.

Hostilities Will Not Be Opened Till After the Holidays—Has Kelly Signed a Contract—Jem Mace to Spar Mitchell—The McAuliffe-Daly Match a Draw.

Both the National Baseball League and the Players' League will rest on their arms until January, when the fusillade will wax warm indeed. Both organizations are in the field to stay and it will be a fight to the death. Some three weeks remain for both parties to complete their plans for the campaign, and they will improve the time to the utmost.

The field of battle is to be the law courts. The National League will be the attacking party, and will make its onslaught on what it claims the weakest part of the Players' League line, the portion of the National contracts covered by the reserve rules.

* * *

It seems rather strange that Kelly should be hustling about the country signing Brotherhood players if, as the National League people claim, he has not signed a Players' League contract himself. The refusal of Fitchie Clarkson to sign with the Brotherhood is a bitter pill for the latter. How long Clarkson will hold out against the persuasive eloquence of the Brotherhood stars is problematical. Clarkson expresses fear as to the new organization's stability. He wants more money, too, than the Players' League has yet offered him.

* * *

It is probable that most of the former stars of the National League of 1889 will be found enrolled in the ranks of the Players' League when the season of 1890 opens, provided the injunction bombs fail to do much damage. The National magnates claim they will benefit by the new, young blood which will be infused into the old League.

* * *

The old-time boxers are wont to shake their heads deprecatingly over what they term the "new-fangled" methods of modern knights of the ring. Jem Mace, aged sixty, considers the skill of his younger days more than a match for the cleverest science of the present day. In order to prove it he will spar with Charley Mitchell, who styles himself "the boxing champion of England," four rounds of two minutes each prior to the Christmas holidays.

* * *

The games and reception of the Ninth Regiment, which were to have taken place to-night, have been postponed until Dec. 13.

The Acorn Athletic Club has grown in numbers and influence continuously since first organized. It is now one of the most flourishing athletic institutions of this vicinity.

* * *

The official weights to be competed at the boxing tournament of the Varuna Boat Club are as follows: Bantam, 105 and under; feather, 115 and under; special, 125 and under; light, 135 and under; welter, 145 and under; middle, 158 and under. The competitions take place Jan. 16 at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. Entries close Jan. 9 with W. H. Robertson, 206 Broadway.

* * *

The recent annual election of the Dauntless Rowing Club resulted as follows: President, H. W. Walter; First Vice-President, G. F. Knubel; Second Vice-President, A. Macdonald; Secretary, H. J. Douglass; Treasurer, S. L. Goldenberg; Captain, M. F. Connell; First Lieutenant, D. Oppenholm; Second Lieutenant, C. M. Hall, Jr.; Trustees, J. J. Duff, E. Thalmessinger, F. H. Burke.

* * *

The athletic connoisseurs are engrossed to-day trying to pick the winner of the two-mile race at the Seventh Regiment games to-morrow night. Much enthusiasm is being evinced in the contests. Sam Austin will judge the walking.

* * *

Because Jack McAuliffe failed to knock Mike Daly out last night at the Criub Club, Boston, in fifteen rounds, the contest was called a draw, although McAuliffe had all the best of it. Jack again demonstrated that his title of light-weight champion of the world is justly applied. He led twenty times to Daly's once, and scored repeatedly on Daly's face, head and body, with never a return. He failed to stop very few of Daly's blows. Joe Lannon was the referee.

POLITICAL ECHOES.

Mayor Grant's delay in appointing a successor to Police Justice Patterson would seem to indicate that his choice lies between Judge Leicester Holme and Edward P. Hagan. Hagan will not be eligible for appointment until January, and Judge Holme is needed on the City Court bench until the same time. The friends of these two gentlemen are greatly exercised to know which will secure the prize.

Strict fidelity to organization candidates is required by Tammany Hall, as a number of faithless ones throughout the city have recently discovered. Several members of the Fourteenth District Tammany General Committee have been quietly stricken from the roll for treachery. Their names are a secret.

Alderman Divver has appeared in a new light—as a stock speculator. He is not the only speculator in the Board of Aldermen. The others are in the nature of speculating on the chances of a certain horse coming in first.

Ex-Internal Revenue Collector Morris Friedsam has been elected President of the Harlem Republican Club.

The County Committee of the County Democracy should hold its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday, but no takers for bets that the meeting will not be held can be found. At this meeting arrangements for the annual primaries and reorganization of the party would have to be made, and "Boss" Power realizes that what is left of his small army is in a very demoralized condition and hardly ready for reorganization. He does not want to discover its weakness to its enemies by any present demonstration.

STOLEN RHYMES.

When It Rains.

I.

The world looks dark and dismal
When it rains.
Your troubles seem abysmal
When it rains.
Your friends all want to borrow,
And you don't care if to-morrow
Never comes to end your sorrow,
When it rains.

II.

You lose your best umbrella
When it rains.
And you have a row with Ella
When it rains.
Perhaps her name is Mollie,
Lucy, Fanny, Esther, Dolly,
But she'll make you melancholy
When it rains.

III.

Life seems hardly worth the living
When it rains
Men are cold and unforgiving
When it rains.
And the women—holy Moses!
How they sneeze and rub their noses,
For the time of all their woes is
When it rains.

—Somerville Journal.

Nobody Knew.

As he stalked down the street in his ulster so fine,
Proud of beating an haughty fellow glance,
Nobody knew that his coat was a-shine,
That his trousers were three-dollar pants.

But that he'll win the heavenly prize;
Perchance, he took some of his yeast,
If so, then he will surely rise.

AN ACTOR'S TROUBLES.

Mr. Dave Morrissey Tells How He Suffered with Catarrh, and How Drs. McCoy and Wildman Made a New Man of Him.

Mr. Dave Morrissey, the actor, is a partner on the stage of Dan Sherman. Everybody has seen or heard of Sherman and Morrissey. This week they are playing at the Central Theatre, Philadelphia. Next week they play at Kernan's in Washington, and the following week they are booked for Kernan's Theatre in Baltimore. Mr. Morrissey's permanent address is 114 East 14th st.

A reporter had a chat with Dave Morrissey the other day in this city. Mr. Morrissey said: "While playing in San Francisco about seven years ago I caught a heavy cold, and I didn't do anything for it, and it ran into catarrh. My head was always clogged up. I was always hawking up phlegm, and when I used to wake up in the morning I had a dull feeling. I felt tired and mean. Many a time when I went on the stage the audience little dreamed how miserable I felt. Eight weeks ago I went to Drs. McCoy and Wildman, of 5 East 42d st.

"From the first time that I went there I began to feel better, and the result of my eight weeks' treatment is that I am a well man now. I don't have that dull feeling any more in the mornings, and I don't feel tired. Drs. McCoy and Wildman have done me a great deal of good. Their treatment of catarrh is certainly wonderful. I know lots of people in my profession who are suffering just as I used to. I tell you catarrh is a terrible thing."

DAVE MORRISSEY, 114 EAST 14TH ST.

For the next three months Drs. McCoy and Wildman will treat all cases of catarrh for $3 a month in order to demonstrate to the people that their treatment is the most thorough and successful. This includes all medicine.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.

How the Sufferer Can Detect the Coming of Trouble.

One of the most common and annoying effects of catarrh is a continual drooling in the back part of the throat, which is especially noticed while lying down in bed. The patient affected with this disease feels fairly well in the afternoon, but towards evening the nose becomes partially stopped, the voice gets a little husky, and in some cases the throat may feel a little sore or stuffed up, and when he retires for the night the patient finds that added to his other symptoms he cannot breathe through his nose, which has become entirely plugged up, the result of which is that he snores, to the annoyance of himself and roommate, and in some cases, when the portition is thin, even his neighbors' lives are made miserable.

A person so affected will drop off to sleep only to wake up after a shorter or longer period by feeling a dropping in the back part of the throat. After passing a wretched night, filled with bad dreams and annoying sensations, caused by the dropping in the throat, he will awake in the morning not at all refreshed, but feeling more tired than he did the night previous on going to bed.
