GEN. GRANT GOT THE CIGAR HABIT ON BATTLEFIELD

Had Dropped Smoking, but War Incident Swamped Him With the Weed.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 2.—Major-Gen. Fred D. Grant, who is presiding at the court martial now in session at Fort Wayne, in the Western suburbs of this city, said to some friends here that the cigar that made his father, the late President U. S. Grant, a confirmed tobacco smoker, figured quite strongly in the winning of the battle of Fort Donelson. Speaking of this incident, Gen. Grant said:

"My father was in conference with Admiral Foote on the latter's flagship and had just accepted a cigar from the Admiral when word came to him that the left flank of his forces was being repulsed. Hurrying ashore and rushing on horseback to the battle-field, he succeeded in rallying his forces so completely that chaos was turned into victory. Gen. Buckner had to comply with my father's demand for an unconditional surrender.

"The newspapers took up the fact that father had rushed from the warship to the battlefield without taking Admiral Foote's cigar from his mouth. The despatches from the front told how father had come on to the battlefield 'cool and collected, and peacefully smoking a long black cigar.'

"People who read the story began sending congratulations and presents of cigars. Tens of thousands of cigars came, and my father smoked many of them. It made a confirmed smoker of him. But he did not smoke as many cigars as people imagined he did. Sometimes one cigar that he would frequently relight would last him from breakfast to luncheon. It was the fact that he almost constantly held a cigar between his fingers that made people describe him as a great smoker."

Gen. Grant said that his father tried to acquire the smoking habit at West Point just because the rules forbade smoking. His attempts at smoking while he was a cadet, however, made him very sick, and when he left West Point he practically gave them up. During the Mexican war he took a liking to the Mexican cigars and found that they agreed with him, but when he returned to the North he again dropped the habit of smoking, to resume it after the Fort Donelson incident.

The following formula is a never-failing remedy for colds:

One ounce of Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla, one ounce Toris Compound and one-half pint of good whiskey; mix and shake thoroughly each time and use in doses of a tablespoonful every four hours.

SAVES BOY, BUT IS INJURED.

Policeman Kelly Hurled by one Car in Front of Another.

In preventing a schoolboy from being knocked down and run over by a southbound Third avenue car at Twenty-eighth street to-day Policeman Kelly, of the East Thirty-fifth street station, was knocked down by the car and thrown in front of a northbound car.

The boy, running after his hat, did not see the approaching car. Policeman Kelly managed to push the boy out of the way. The policeman was caught by the fender, which threw him to one side, and he landed directly in the path of a northbound car. The motorman brought the car to a stop within a few feet of where the policeman lay. Kelly got up, but fell down. Dr. John McAllister, of Bellevue Hospital, found the policeman to be suffering from a lacerated knee and sprained ankle. The policeman returned to his post, but later had to go home.
