HIGH SCHOOL STARS BACKBONE OF N. Y. U. FOOTBALL ELEVEN

Six Sturdy Youngsters Play Game Like Veterans of Big Colleges.

By William Abbott.

NEW York University's fine football showing this season has been made possible by six former New York High School stars.

They supply the punch for the Violet team. The ablest of the six is Halfback Cann, a sturdy youngster who plays the game like a Mahan. While these youths are a big help winning games, Tom Reilly has worked wonders as a coach, and the entire student body has been generous with its support. New York University under these conditions defeated Union, a team that had won all its games the last two years, and it expects to vanquish Trinity, the feature game on the Violet schedule.

Things were not always so prosperous at New York University. It was only a short time ago when the uptown college didn't score a single point all season. But the advent of Tom Reilly, an old New York University man, was like a treatment of magic. He quickly brought the team out of its slump. The Violet made a good record in 1914.

The present New York University eleven averages about 171 pounds, but the weight is unequally distributed. Half Back Cann weighs 186 and the other half but 151. It is the same way in the line.

The real strength of the team is in the back field. Manley, Cann, Erwig and Bernstein made a formidable set of backs. They are all fast and good open-field runners, powerful when driving through the line and are adept at manipulating forward passes. Surely nothing more could be expected of any back field. Cann, a big, rangy youth, is the star of the combination. He is also the chief scorer of the team. Cann is a natural football player, strong and fast and having the knack of handling himself and knowing what to do. The Violet star can outkick any one on the team. In the Hamilton game he shot over a goal from the forty-two-yard line, one of the longest kicks made by any one so far.

Cann learned football at Commercial High. Five of his team mates also started their gridiron careers while enrolled at the city high schools, Erwig and Sokolower at Morris, Bernstein at Curtis, House at Stuyvesant and Egan at Manual Training.

The line, in Coach Reilly's opinion, will continue to improve. The forwards are still uncertain what to do on the defense and they don't charge with sufficient force. One of the Violet linesmen, left tackle Williams, is a colored boy, but he plays the game for all it's worth.

Coach Reilly's development of the N. Y. U. eleven this year is all the more creditable because he had such little material to work from. Football men are scarce at N. Y. U. because the college is divided into sections miles apart, and because of late classes. Many of the early candidates who reported for practise were willing enough, but they were under weight. A couple of bumps and they were quickly convinced that football is a pretty strenuous sport.

They, lightweights, soon dropped out for one reason or another. The coach was then forced to utilize every man. Reilly declares that even now he knows twenty-eight students who have the required physical strength, but they are not available for football.

Many of the varsity men are so late reporting for practice that Reilly lights a couple of arc lamps around Ohio Field so that his team can play. That's something Harvard, Yale, Princeton and other big colleges don't have to contend with, for their players get out on the gridiron as early as three o'clock. Yet the Violet players are imbued with the proper spirit and don't object to scrimmaging after hours.

Reilly expects his team to win most of the remaining games. He thinks Rutgers will prove a little too powerful for N. Y. U., but is hopeful of beating Trinity, the big game of the season for the Violet. The coach is willing to call it a satisfactory year if N. Y. U. wallops its veteran opponent.

A New Way to Learn Music

Easy for Any One. Learn at Home. Costs But 12½c Weekly.

No longer need the ability to play a musical instrument be shut out of your life because of the expense or the inconvenience of going to a teacher—you can learn at home to play the Piano, Organ, Violin, Guitar, Banjo, Mandolin, Cornet, Cello or Sight Singing. All by note.

Our method has revolutionized old teaching standards. It enables any one to learn to play, and the only cost is the sheet music, averaging about 12½c weekly. For a limited time the instruction will be free.

Not an Experiment

Although new, compared with the old-fashioned way, our marvelous method of teaching music is in no sense an experiment. Over 200,000 students, ranging in age from seven to seventy, have become capable players through its easily understood teachings, which any one who can read the English language can follow.

How We Can Do It

Teaching music successfully by mail is a positive proved fact. Thousands who never knew one note from another before taking the lessons have developed into expert musicians—many have themselves become teachers and are earning their living instructing others. The average yearly enrollment for the past few years has been over 25,000 pupils, yet we rarely ever hear of a failure.

Teaching music successfully by mail is just as much an established fact as teaching it in person, and has many great advantages over the old-fashioned way.

As Much Fun as a Game

Learning music our way is a fascinating pleasure instead of a tax. As one pupil writes—"It's more like a wonderful game than anything else, and it becomes more interesting every day."

This is because each step is so clearly explained that you experience absolutely no difficulty even at the start.

Beginners or Advanced Pupils

No matter whether you have never learned to distinguish one note from another or whether you have already studied music, the U. S. Course is meant for you.

We grade you before you start and fit the instruction to your special needs, instead of fitting you to the course. A beginner gets entirely different lessons than one who has formerly studied music.

Don't Judge by the Cost

Don't judge this modern method of teaching music in your own home by its low cost.

If it cost you ten times as much we couldn't give you instruction better suited to your individual needs or more positive of getting results.

Publishing the music used ourselves, we are able to supply it to you at the same price or less than you would pay in your local store.

And we are giving the instruction absolutely free for a limited time for advertising purposes, as explained in our booklet.

Free Book

"Music Lessons by Mail" is a 24-page book which describes the secret principles of this wonderful system from beginning to end, and contains scores of letters from pupils who have become expert players as a result of the course. We cannot explain this great plan here—you must see the book. It's free. Clip the coupon and mail it to-day before you turn this page and forget. Do it right now—the gift of music is within your grasp.

What Pupils Say:

"Since I've been taking your lessons, I've made over $60.00 with my violin. Your lessons surely are fine."—Melvin Vreeland, Macomb, N. J.

"I finished your course of forty-eight lessons on Cornet. Some time ago I intended writing to let you know how I got along. When I started them I knew nothing about the Cornet or Music, but now I can play almost any piece of music."—Kasson Swan, Denmark, Col. Co., Nova Scotia.

"I want to extend the heartiest approval of your Piano Course. It has done more for me than years of other lessons. So complete in every way, I certainly can recommend it to others, and will do so."—Monie N. Lewis, 819 Jefferson, Neosho, Mo.

"I just got home from my vacation, and the folks at home are delighted to hear me play the Organ so well. They say you have a wonderful system of teaching Music."—M. F. Allard, Caraquet, N. Y.
