INDIANA STATE SENTINEL.

VERY GOOD.—The N. Y. Commercial Advertiser, a true blue whig paper, hears the recent defeats of its party with commendable philosophy and good nature. Witness the following:

"When you lose a game," says the courteous Le Baume, in his instructions to players at piquet, "put up your cards and say nothing about it. Some people are so rude as not to be content until they have shown you how they would have won the game if they had had a better hand. C'est ridicule."—We are not disposed at the present sitting to do any such thing. There are a multitude of causes that might be enumerated. In the first place the loss of the state is not owing to "Clipton Tyler." We have seen for months that the state was creeping into the arms of the old Van Buren dynasty; and there it would have gone, from the state of public feeling touching our own domestic administration, yea or no vote. We told our friends so in confidence months ago. To be sure the demonstration in the ranks of our opponents for the last few days inspired us with a sort of heetic intuition for the moment, so to the city; and we endeavored to arouse the sinking wings to action. But Hope long since taught us that there is a great difference between calling spirits and getting them to come when they are called. Some of our morning contemporaries, we perceive, are already framing excuses—prominent among which is the odd one that we should not have been beaten if a few more hundred of our friends had turned out and voted. Cooler heads that we should deny, that if the majority had been for us, it would not have been against us. Yet, for ourselves, we think it the wisest course to take the advice of Le Baume, "put up the cards, and say no more about it." Two good lessons, however, have been taught, but whether they will be understood by some of our reckless and restless politicians, is a matter of some considerable doubt with us. They ought to learn the folly of disgusting the great body of the Whig party by rushing prematurely, not to say madly, into another Presidential contest for Mr. Clay, or Mr. Any-body-else. And they ought further to learn, that "to regard men as enemies, and treat them accordingly, is to make them such."

DANIEL WEBSTER AND NICHOLAS BIDDLE.—As we walked up the Avenue the other morning, our eyes were filled by a view of the upper Secretary of State, and of that sublime patriot Nicholas Biddle, walking side by side and speculating, no doubt, upon what they had been—what they were—and what they were to be. We were struck with the care worn face of Mr. Webster, which seemed like the caverns of melancholy—so sunken were his eyes—so black the halo of care that surrounded them; and when he smiled, it was like the awful grin of a dying Gladiator. Mr. Biddle, on the other hand, waddled along free and easy, with a smile of complacency resting upon his countenance, and he seemed to thank God that he was not as other men are. His hair was black, frosted with silver; and his eye twinkled like an Alderman over a bowl of turtle soup. They were both splendid wrecks—mighty men—past the rubicon of greatness—bright intellects perverted, and noble souls under jury masts. We understand that Mr. Biddle, since his arrival, has had audiences with the heads of the Departments, and crossed his legs under the President's mahogany; but yet we do not credit the rumor that he has come on to help cook up a new dish of Bankruptcy, to be called the Fiscal Agent, with banking powers. We believe that John Tyler can be trusted in matters of conscience, and that Mr. Biddle is the last man whom he would select as an adviser.

Mr. Biddle and Mr. Webster are indebted to the Bank of the United States, to a large amount, and the creditors of the bank have attached the debts due the bank. May it not be then that the King of paper rags has come to visit the old bank attorney, for the purpose of picking some flaw in the writ—some error in form—to enable him to save his fame and the broad lands of Andalusia at the same time! Surely an unfortunate patron has a right to ask advice of an unfortunate attorney. We wonder if Gov. Doty will be removed, should those lands transferred to the bank turn out to be insufficient to pay the debt.—Index.

The Journal of Commerce, in discussing of the safety-fund, which is exhausted, and the general banking law, which has made the banks unsafe by the very restrictions devised to make safe, says—

"This thing seems to be fully proved, viz: that legislative wisdom is not competent to manage banking. If ever the community becomes so fully satisfied of this truth to withdraw all legislation from the subject, leaving business to create its own currency and its institutions of every sort, according to its own wants, then we shall have the matter at once put upon the best basis of which it is susceptible."

This is true enough; and we pin it to our columns as a naturalist pins a butterfly or a lady-bird upon the pasteboard that holds his collection. We have said the same thing a thousand times, for years past, and there are symptoms that the community is beginning to believe it.—N. Y. Post.

We take pleasure in giving the following from the National Intelligencer, a newspaper of as high repute as any other in the United States:

"INDEPENDENT ORDER OF ODD FELLOWS.—The friends of benevolence will be gratified to learn that this society is rapidly increasing in numerical strength, both in the United States and in Europe. From a very small beginning, the "Independent Order of Odd Fellows" has now attained in the Metropolis a vast growth, and is quite a thriving and flourishing body. The "Grand Lodge" has for some time past held its meetings at the City Hall in the largest chamber of that extensive building. At the last meeting of the Order, held on Monday, the 9th instant, the following officers were elected: Samuel Stettinius, G. M.; H. Latham, of Alexandria, D. G. M.; John Sessford, Jr., G. W.; A. G. Herold, of the Navy Yard, G. Secretary; William G. Deale, G. Treasurer, and William W. Moore, G. Representative in the Grand Lodge of the United States."

DRESS.—Nothing looks more unpleasant to us than to see a young man, whose wages are necessarily small, spending all he can get, and perhaps more too, for dress. Every thing about his person of the latest fashion, and of the nicest fit, as though his whole attention were employed to see how pretty he looks; and all for what? To gratify the eyes of those who are as foolish as himself. But this he does not do, for even they are disgusted with him. Let every such young man remember that instead of pleasing any body, he only makes himself the pity of the wise, and the laughing stock of fools.

MAKING FRUIT TREES.—When you wish to produce young trees of a particular kind of fruit for transplanting, dig around the old tree, until you come to a healthy growing root, which cut off, and turn the end of the detached portion out of the ground. It will produce shoots the first season, and in a few years bear fruit of the same kind as the parent tree.

REMOVING A CITY.—The St. Louis Republican of the 16th instant says: "The buildings in Marion city, on the Mississippi river, the same town in which so many Eastern purchasers got their fingers burned a few years since, are being removed to Hannibal, a town some twelve miles below, on the bank of the river. Lots which sold at from two to six and eight hundred dollars, and frame houses which cost from eight to fifteen hundred dollars, can now be bought at less than a hundred, lot and building included.

THE DOVER GAZETTE, one of the very best democratic papers of New Hampshire, has recently been much enlarged, and is now printed on new and beautiful type. A good evidence that its usefulness receives its deserved reward.

WAR!—Dr. Johnson laughed at Lord Kaimes' opinion that war was a good thing occasionally, as so much valor and virtue were exhibited in it. "A fire," said he might as well be thought a good thing; there is the bravery and address of the firemen in extinguishing it; there is much humanity exerted in saving the lives and properties of the poor sufferers. Yet, after all of this, who can say that a fire is a good thing?"

J. Augustus Smith is the cognomen of a writing master who has been playing knavish pranks at Richmond, Va., under the name of Wellington. He married his former wife in Albany ten years since. She is said to be the daughter of an aged and estimable clergyman at the north and to have highly respectable connections in several of our northern cities.

Exchange Hotel,

[CORNER OF FIRST AND DIVISION STREETS,]
EVANSVILLE, INDIANA.
GEORGE W. L. WHITE, Proprietor.

THIS Establishment is now the largest (having lately had large additions made to it) and most comfortable in the Southern part of the State. It is situated in a pleasant part of the town near the steamboat Landing. Persons arriving from the interior and wishing to pass either up or down the river will be sure to meet with the first opportunity. Or a Porter is always in attendance to notify travellers of the sailing of boats and convey their baggage on board. The EXCHANGE is also the regular stand for the Wabash country, consequently travellers wishing to go to the interior, will find it considered to stop at this House.

The Proprietor is determined that the Exchange shall be second to no house in the State, and he hopes by his unremitting attention to the comfort of his guests to receive a liberal share of public patronage.

HUMAN HAIR.

STRANGE it is that persons who attend strictly to personal cleanliness, bathe, &c. should neglect the Head—the Hair—the most essential—the most exposed—and the most beautiful, when properly cared for, of all the gifts of the Creator. Perfectly free may it be kept from dandruff or scurf with a certainty that the hair cannot fall out, by the use of the Balm of Columbia. Ladies, will you make your toilet without this article? Answer fearlessly, No, if you have once tried and experienced its purifying efforts—its sweet perfumes.

A hundred articles have been put forth on the credit of this—the only first—the only real valuable article. A mass of testimony from all classes to these facts.

READ THE FOLLOWING.

Robert Wharton, Esq., late Mayor of Philadelphia, has certified, as may be seen below to the high character of the following gentlemen.

The undersigned do hereby certify that we have used the Balm of Columbia discovered by J. Oldridge, and have found it highly serviceable not only as a preventive against the falling off of hair, but also a certain restorative.

WM. THORNER, sen. Methodist Minister in St. George charge, No. 89 North Fifth st.

JOHN D. THOMAS, M. D. 153 Race st.
JOHN S. FERRY, 101 Spruce st.
HUGH MCCLURE, 244 South seventh st.
JOHN GRAHAM, Jr. 121 Arch st.

The aged, and those who persist in wearing wigs, may not always experience its restorative qualities, yet it will certainly raise its virtues in the estimation of the public, when it is known that three of the above signers are more than 80 years of age, and the others not less than 30.

From the Mayor.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, } City of Philadelphia.

I, Robert Wharton, Mayor of said city of Philadelphia, do hereby certify that I am well acquainted with Messrs. J. P. Inglis, John S. Furey, and Hugh McCurdy, whose names are signed to the above certificate, that they are gentlemen of character and respectability, and as such full credit is and be given to their statements.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city to be affixed, the sixth day of September, &c.

LOOK OUT.—Some scoundrels have counterfeited this article, and put it up in our exact style. Do not be imposed upon. Our thing only will protect you—it is the only real article, and the one must be always on the wrapper, or you are cheated. Do not forget it. Take this direction with you, and test by that or never buy, for it is impossible for any other to be true or genuine. For sale in Indianapolis, by

INDIANA OFFICERS' GUIDE AND FARMERS' MANUAL.

THE sale of the entire first and second editions of this work and the numerous and continued calls of those in want of a copy, have induced the publication of the work in a new, enlarged and, it is believed, much improved edition. Some alterations have been made in the arrangement of the work, and a considerable amount of matter that is of but little use has been omitted, and an addition of near one hundred pages of new and useful matter introduced. A concise treatise upon Law of Evidence and Pattnership has been prepared and introduced, which will be useful to those who are not able to employ called upon to decide embarrassing questions of law which arise upon these subjects, also, a Table of Interest calculated from one day to twelve months inclusive, which will be found useful to every man.

The publishers are enabled to give an assurance that this work has been prepared and gotten up with great care and attention, and possessed of the best qualifications, and as far as changes have been made in the statutes since the publication of the last edition, and so far as they come within the scope of this work have been carefully noticed and introduced in their proper places.

It is a safe and sure guide to direct the office holder in a proper and legal discharge of his duty, and give aid to the farmer, mechanic and business man in the daily transactions of business in drawing Deeds, Mortgages, Leases, Bonds, Wills, Checks, Notes, &c. &c. This work is printed on good paper and in a superior style, and bound in a neat sheep binding. It contains 425 royal duodecimo pages.

The price will, in all cases be one DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS for a single copy. A reasonable deduction made to those that purchase to sell again. Address letters post paid to
