SIX TICKETS AND THREE FIGHTS IN MOST STATES

MOST DRAMATIC CAMPAIGN CLOSES TOMORROW NIGHT

ernor. John C. McKinley, republican; Elliot W. Major, democratic; Albert D. Nortoni, progressive; William A. Ward, socialist; Charles E. Stokes, prohibition; Charles Rogers, socialist labor. Half of the senators of the Missouri legislature will be elected and all members of the lower house of the legislature. There are nine constitutional amendments up for consideration.

Montana.

In Montana a state ticket will be elected, the following being the candidates for the governorship: Harry I. Wilson, republican; Samuel V. Stewart, democratic; Frank J. Edwards, progressive; Lewis J. Duncan, socialist. There is no prohibition state ticket. Two referendum measures and four initiative measures will be voted upon. One of these initiative measures is that providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote, and another provides for presidential preference primaries.

Nebraska.

A state ticket will be elected in Nebraska, the following being candidates for the governorship: Chester H. Aldrich, republican; John H. Morehead, democratic; Clyde J. Wright, socialist; Nathan Wilson, prohibition. The progressive ticket is identical with the republican ticket, the progressive state convention having indorsed each state, congressional and United States senatorial republican candidate. The populist ticket is identical with the democratic ticket. There are a number of constitutional amendments to be voted on, one of them reserving to the people the right of direct legislation through the initiative and referendum.

GOV. THOMAS R. MARSHALL,
Democratic Candidate for Vice President.

Nevada.

Nevada will elect an associate justice of the supreme court, James M. Lockhart being the republican nominee, Patrick A. McCarran the democratic, W. R. Thomas the progressive and George A. Bartlett the independent nominee. Nevada will also elect two regents for the State University. There are a number of constitutional amendments up for the voters to decide upon, one of them being for the recall of every public officer in not of the state, and another providing for the initiative and referendum.

New Hampshire.

The only state officers to be elected in New Hampshire will be a governor. The candidates are: Republican, Franklin Worcester; democratic, Samuel D. Felker; progressive, Winston Churchill, the author; prohibition, Alva H. Morrill; socialist, William H. Wilkins. A legislature will be elected, and there are twelve proposed constitutional amendments.

New Jersey.

There will not be any state election in New Jersey.

New Mexico.

No state officers will be elected in New Mexico, as under the enabling act the officers elected last year will hold office until 1916. Two constitutional amendments will be voted on, one of them to permit Spanish-speaking citizens who do not speak English to hold office.

New York.

A state ticket will be elected in New York. The candidates for governorship are: Job E. Hedges, republican; William Sulzer, democrat; Oscar S. Straus, progressive; Alexander McNichol, prohibition; Charles Edward Russell, socialist; John Hare, socialist labor. Associate judges of the court of appeals will be elected and a full state ticket. Separate ballots, one for presidential electors and one for state and county officers, will be used for the first time this year. A constitutional amendment providing for $50,000,000 worth of bonds to improve the state highways will be voted on.

North Carolina.

A state ticket will be elected in North Carolina. The candidates for the governorship are: Locke Craig, democratic; Thomas Settle, republican, and Iredell Meares, progressive. In two or three instances progressives and republicans have the same candidate for a state office, but the electors are entirely different.

North Dakota.

North Dakota will elect a state ticket, the following being the candidates for the governorship: L. B. Hanna, republican; F. O. Hellstrom, democratic; W. D. Sweet, progressive, and A. E. Bowen, jr., socialist. There is a non-partisan ticket for two candidates for judges of the supreme court, Andrew A. Bruce and J. E. Robinson. There is no prohibition state ticket. There are two amendments to the Constitution to be voted upon.

Ohio.

A full state ticket will be elected in Ohio, the following being the candidates for the governorship: R. B. Brown, republican; James M. Cox, democratic; A. L. Garford, progressive; C. E. Rutheberg, socialist, and Daniel A. Poling, prohibition.

Oklahoma.

Oklahoma will elect judges, one for the supreme court and one for the court of appeals. A United States senator will also be elected. Charles Alston Cook is the republican candidate for the supreme court and John B. Turner the democratic candidate. George T. Ralls is the republican candidate for the criminal court of appeals and Henry M. Furman the democratic candidate. The socialists did not nominate for the supreme court, but put up E. S. Hurt for the criminal court of appeals. J. T. Dickerson is the republican candidate for senator and Robert L. Owen, the democratic incumbent, seeks a return. A corporation commissioner will be elected, but there are no other officers to be voted for.

Efforts to have the names of progressive party candidates placed on the general election ticket in Oklahoma were abandoned and members of the party in the state were asked to vote for republican party candidates for presidential electors and state officers. Attempts to obtain court orders compelling the placing of the names of the progressive candidates on the ballot were without result. Two constitutional amendments are to be voted on, one of them to move the state capital from Oklahoma City to Guthrie.

Oregon.

In Oregon various state officers will be elected, but not a governor. Ben. Selling is the republican candidate for senator, Harry Lane the democratic, A. E. Clark the progressive, B. Lee Paggett the prohibition and B. F. Ramp the socialist candidate. Senator Bourne is an independent nominee on the "popular government" ticket for re-election to the United States Senate. A large number of constitution amendments will be voted on, among them the privilege of suffrage for women. Another provides an income tax, another abolishes the state senate, the House to consist of sixty members, and the governor and unsuccessful candidates for governor to be ex-officio members.

Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania will vote for a state treasurer and an auditor general. Robert K. Young is the candidate on the republican, bull moose, Roosevelt progressive and Washington tickets for state treasurer. William H. Berry is the candidate for state treasurer on the democratic and the keystone tickets. Charles W. Huntington on the prohibition ticket and John J. Schwartz on the socialist ticket are also running for state treasurer. Archibald W. Powell is the candidate for auditor general on the republican, bull moose, Roosevelt progressive and Washington tickets, and Robert E. Creswell, the candidate for this office on the democratic and keystone tickets. B. Budd Cannon is the candidate for this office on the prohibition ticket and Adrian H. Eldredge on the socialist ticket.

Rhode Island.

Rhode Island will elect a state ticket. The following are the candidates for the governorship: Aram J. Pothier, republican; Theodore Francis Green, democratic; Albert H. Humes, progressive. The progressives have nominated candidates for only two offices, governor and general treasurer. There are no other tickets in the field.

South Carolina.

In South Carolina there are only two tickets, the democratic and socialist, the incumbent of the governorship being up for re-election on the democratic ticket, the socialists nominating Richard B. Britton. The democrats named no one for the attorney generalship, the socialists naming John Allen Mett. The members of the lower house of the leislature and half the members of the senate of the state are to be elected.

South Dakota.

South Dakota will elect a full state ticket. The candidates for the governorship are: Frank Byrne, republican; J. L. Johnson, democratic; O. W. Butterfield, prohibition; Sam Lovell, socialist. On the republican state ticket several of the candidates are progressives. There will be no Taft electors on the ticket in South Dakota. There is a constitutional amendment providing for uniform taxation up for consideration.

Tennessee.

Tennessee will elect a governor and a state railroad commissioner. Ben W. Hooper, the republican incumbent, is up for re-election, the democrats having named Benton McMillin, the progressives W. F. Poston and the socialists Carl Harrold. The republicans did not nominate a railroad commissioner, the democrats naming Harvey H. Hannah, the incumbent; the progressives J. C. Eddington and the socialists C. G. Fisher. A legislature will be elected.

Texas.

Texas will elect a state ticket, including thirteen justices of the civil court of appeals, members of the legislature and a full list of county officials down to constable. A United States senator has been nominated in a primary by the democrats. He is Morris Sheppard, and is out to succeed Senator Joseph W. Bailey. The nominations for the governorship heading the ticket are as follows: Oscar B. Colquitt, democrat, the incumbent; C. W. Johnson, republican; E. C. Lasater, progressive; Col. Andrew Jackson Houston, prohibition; Reddin Andrews, socialist, and K. E. Choate, socialist labor. A number of constitutional amendments will be voted on, including one to levy a special tax to increase Confederate pensions.

Utah.

Utah will also elect a state ticket, the candidate for the governorship heading the ticket being as follows: Republican, William Spry; democratic, John Frank Tolton; Nephi L. Morris, progressive; Homer P. Burt, socialist; E. A. Battell, socialist labor. A number of constitutional amendments will be voted on, including one to increase the number of counties of the state.

Vermont.

The state and congressional election in Vermont was held in September. There was no election by a majority vote and the choice of a governor and the remainder of the state ticket was thrown into the legislaturue. There the republicans elected Allen M. Fletcher and the others on his ticket.

Washington.

Washington will elect a state ticket. The candidates for the governorship are as follows: Marion E. Hay, republican; Ernest Lister, democratic; Robert T. Hodge, progressive; Abraham L. Brearcliff, socialist labor (only officer nominated by this party), and George R. Stevens, prohibition (only officer nominated by this party). The socialists nominated a woman for governor, Miss Anna A. Maley. Three amendments to the constitution will be submitted to the voters, among them one for the recall of all elective officers except judges and another for the initiative and referendum.

Wisconsin.

A state ticket will be elected in Wisconsin. The candidates for the governorship are as follows: Francis E. McGovern, republican; John C. Karel, democratic; Carl D. Thompson, social democratic (socialist), and Charles L. Hill, prohibition. Francis E. McGovern, republican nominee, has been indorsed by the progressives. The progressives named no other candidates. There will be a referendum on equal suffrage and various proposed amendments to the constitution.

Wyoming.

There will be no gubernatorial election in Wyoming this year. In addition to the contest for the United States senatorship there will be an election for justice of the supreme court, the republicans having nominated Cyrus Beard, the democrats John B. Kendrick, the progressives E. R. Shipp and the socialists H. V. S. Groesbeck. The prohibitionists did not nominate. A proposed constitutional amendment, granting the initiative and referendum, will be submitted to the voters.

Alaska.

The territory of Alaska will elect its first legislature, house and senate.
