THE LEGAL ARENA.

George C. Israel Sentenced to Three Months.

WONTED TRIAL ON AT LAST.

Judge King admonishes Attorneys to Guard the Judiciary's Reputation —New Suits—Notes.

In the case of George C. Israel, Judge Powers made a motion for a new trial today, which was overruled; a motion for arrest of judgment was also made. Israel was convicted last evening of adultery with Mrs. Belle Dieter. The closing speech of District Attorney Howat was a scathing arraignment of the defendant, Israel, and expressed the greatest contempt for the husband, Henry J. Dieter. This morning Judge Powers said he regretted that there could be found people who would find such a verdict on the evidence of such a witness as the husband of this woman was.

George C. Israel was called for sentence, and stated that he had nothing to say why judgment should not be pronounced, but wanted to state something in extenuation of his conduct. He denied that he had never received any money from the woman. He admitted that he had been guilty of adultery, but explained that it was not at the time of place charged in the information. He then recited his association with Mrs. Dieter, and his relations and his knowledge of the mental condition of her husband. He also related how Dieter had threatened his life and the life of his wife. Israel said he assisted Mrs. Dieter to leave Dieter, and also furnished money to Dieter to go to Florence, Colo. Israel said: "Finally he left that, Mrs. Dieter was anxious to a better life, and he became willing to make her his wife. With that idea he went her to San Francisco, leaving Dieter in Phoenix, and followed her. They then went to Juneau, Alaska. Dieter following soon from place to place, until they reached Salt Lake. It was here that the law was violated. Israel went to Ogden, where he was arrested. He was still determined to abduct Mrs. Dieter from her husband, and to make her his wife, Israel then denied anything reprehensible in his professional life, whatever had been his private life. He called the attention of the court to the fact that imprisonment meant deprivation of citizenship and the power and exercise of the privilege of ever practicing his profession.

Judge King thought intently for a few moments, and then stated that he would defer sentence until 2 o'clock.

In the case of Frank McDonald, the young man accused of assault to murder Emil Sackerson, Judge Powers applied for a further continuance of the case, on the ground of the illness of a material witness. District Attorney Howat objected to the continuance, and said he was willing to take the testimony of the witness. Judge King thought the taking of the witness's testimony at her home should meet the bill, and he would so order rather than postpone the case again.

The robbery case against Rev. W. D. Maury was called, but was postponed till this afternoon to allow Judge Judd to be present.

This afternoon Mr. Israel was called for sentence. Judge King said the court believed that Mr. Israel had told the truth. The court expressed the view that the woman was the person most easily dealt with thus far. At least she lived the woman, said Judge King, it would seem that she would not have indulged in the intimacy confessed. It was by old right in finding a verdict of guilty. In this respect, Judge Powers's criticism was not justifiable. The court would be lenient with the prosecuting attorney joined in the sentencing. Judge King then sentenced Israel to imprisonment in the penitentiary for three months.

The trial of Frank McDonald, accused to murder, was then taken up and a jury impaneled. The case had not concluded when the News went to press.

NEW SUITS.

Thenia M. Krogh filed suit today against James M. Krogh, for divorce on the ground of desertion. The parties were married at Rockford, Dennark, in March, 1879, and have eight children. The desertion is alleged to have taken place in August, 1894. Mrs. Krogh sks $12 per month alimony.

Caldine C. Peterson also commenced suit for divorce, the defendant being Mathias Peterson. The marriage took place at Herlinger, Sweden, in April, 1884. Mrs. Peterson says her husband deserted her in 1890. She asks the restoration of her maiden name, Catherine C. Anderson.

AN UNPLEASANTNESS.

Quite a row occurred this afternoon between Col. Ellis and John M. Zane, of counsel for the Silver King and the Uncle Sam mining companies respectively. Mr. Zane had referred, in his argument this morning, to an article in the American Law Register, reflecting on the chief justice of California. This afternoon Col. Ellis took up the defense of Chief Justice Beatty, insisting that the references to him were not gentlemanly. Mr. Zane responded by reading from the Law Register, where the authorities referred to were very severe. Mr. Zane asserted that he only stated what he had read on the subject, and never had claimed anything else. During the discussion, words were passed between Col. Ellis and Mr. Zane, while the latter was addressing the court, but it was checked several times by Judge King. Following the discussion, Judge King said he respected Chief Justice Beatty as of the highest standing, and there could be no misunderstanding against him. Judge King also stated that in the heat of argument attorneys sometimes went too far. He then referred to the decisions of the courts to the Union by members of the bar, as showing the view that members of the bar should be jealous of the reputation of the judiciary, and could it with great care and circumspection. It did not good to assail the judiciary as corrupt, although it was sometimes done, notably in the U. S. Supreme court's decisions in the Income tax and Debs cases, while there could be no question but that the decisions were honestly and conscientiously. Judge King again expressed regret at having to listen from members of the bar criticisms of the judiciary, and warned the bar against it.

Judge Judd not being in court this afternoon, the Mabry case went over till tomorrow.

NOTES.

U. S. Commissioner Sumner sent out a score of summonses today in poll tax suits. Many of the defendants are lawyers.

Dr. Darby, city health commissioner, was sent for today by Judge King, to investigate the condition of the district court room.

The arguments in the Crescent-Silver King case were concluded in the United States district court this morning. Judge King promised a decision at an early date.

Judge King gave an applicant for citizenship today some excellent advice that he should subscribe for a newspaper and read it, to be informed on the issues of the day.

The trial of August Roland, charged with maintaining a nuisance at Murray in connection with his slaughterhouse and tallow chandler business, is to be held on Monday next, in U. S. Commissioner Sumner's court.

The search warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner Sumner to examine the premises of Fred Gray and one Fillmore, alias Black Pete, for harness, saddles, etc., belonging to John A. Sharp, has been returned. The officer could not find the stolen property.

AMUSEMENTS.

Herrmann at the Theater—A Pleased Audience at the Grand.

Herrmann opens his engagement at the Theater this evening. As previously announced he will give a matinee and evening entertainment tomorrow.

AT THE GRAND.

Despite the inclement weather, a large and appreciative audience greeted the players at the Grand last evening in the initial performance of Blow for Blow. The play belongs to the melodramatic class. It has not little comedy in it and does not afford the company such opportunities as some of their former productions. It was handled, however, in good style and was made as much of as the play would admit.

Mr. Edwards was at his best in his interpretation of John Drummond, a deep-dyed villain, with a revengeful spirit. Hugh Ward as Charley Sprague, the sport, was in his element and was the proud possessor of a "beage" cordone by none in his fraternity. Miss Pollock appeared to the role of Kitty Webster, and as such was the embodiment of joy and happiness to Widow Pettebrick (Roberta Warren) in her hours of extreme sorrow and distress. Miss Warren in the principal of the piece, appeared as Mildred Craddock, who after marrying Harry Linden of the navy, (Mr. Ingersoll) is neglected by her new spouse to such an extent that she dies from utter starvation. Between the prologue and the drama proper there is supposed to be a lapse of five years and in the first act of the drama, Miss Warren appears as Allie Pelbrick, a twin sister of the deceased Mildred. In these roles Miss Warren did exceedingly well and showed a thorough application to the part taken. The character created by Mr. Ingersoll was that of Harry Linden, and although he did full justice to the part, it lacked the humorous spirit in which the gentleman is generally well received.

The first appearance of Miss Maude Winter at this house was greatly appreciated and although her part of Lady Linden was not a very important one, she showed in her interpretation of it that she will prove a great acquisition to the company. George Edeson as Doctor Grace showed up brilliantly and was the very essence of good nature. The other parts, though not requiring great ability, were well taken by those to whom they were assigned.

Blow for Blow holds the boards the remainder of the week with a Saturday matinee.

A Scrap of Paper is the play selected for next week at the Grand.

Rose Coghlan and L. R. Stockwell appear at the Theater next week in The Magistrate on Monday and in Meeks and Faceby Tonight.

A fine minstrel show is promised at the Theater on Wednesday and Thursday next.

PADEREWSKI.

The following letter from the manager of the famous musician, Paderewski, was received today by Messrs. Calder & Hall:

NEW YORK, Nov., 18, 1895.

Dear Mr. Calder—On March 5th, if all goes well, Paddy will give you a taste of his quality. Our matinee on Saturday last was $6,270, one man, one piano. Such a thing was never known before in the world's history.

Yours sincerely,
JNO. C. FRYER.

Public Debate.

At the new rooms of the Y. M. C. A. the Public Debating club will give an entertainment this evening, when the following program will be rendered: Recitation—A. R. Eller. Reading—Walter Adams. Debate: Resolved, That church property which is used for divine worship should not be taxed. Affirmative—B. F. Johnson and G. H. Crosby. Negative—Walter Adams and H. A. Pearson.

At the conclusion of this program the advanced gymnasium class under Prof. Dole will give an exhibition.

THE COUNT STILL ON

Work of the Canvassing Board Since Yesterday.

THE COMMISSION IS STATU QUO.

Vote for Representatives in the Eighth District—Weber County Superintendent of Schools.

Pending the mandamus proceedings the Utah Commission adjourned last evening until Monday morning when work will no doubt again begin in earnest. The commission has retained Messrs. C. S. Varian and F. L. Williams to fight the issue now pending they being very able and determined to allow no newspaper representatives to witness the count.

The canvassing board completed today the vote cast for superintendent of schools in Weber county which is given below. They likewise finished the canvass of the votes cast for representatives in the eighth district, and at press time were laboring on the returns of Park City. Joseph Lippman of the board resigned his position last evening and D. C. Eichner was promptly chosen to fill the vacancy.

A MAN'S PECULIAR ACTIONS.

Got Drunk While His Wife Was Lying Dead—Wanted to Attend Her Funeral—Other Cases.

A very peculiar and uncommon case presented itself in the police court this morning. Seated upon the bench was James W. Richins who had been arrested on a charge of drunkenness. To the jailor, before being taken into the court room, he told the story of his wife having died two days before; of the many sleepless nights he had encountered during her illness which left him in a very weak condition; overcome by grief and weakness, he felt that he would be bettered by a drink and had yielded to the allurements of the wine cup to such an extent as to become intoxicated. This was his condition, his wife was to be buried today and he asked that the jailor intercede for him that he might be enabled to attend the funeral.

Jailor Kimball acquainted his request and communicated the facts of the case to Judge Smith, who, after interrogating the unfortunate, and learning that he had never before been arrested, ordered his dismissal.

Billy Lloyd, the well known painter who so often gives way to the flowing bowl, was arraigned for drunkenness to which he pleaded guilty. Billy asked for the leniency of the court as he had two jobs to finish and if he was allowed to go, he would not appear again for a year. The judge ordered him to go and finish his jobs, keep sober and be a man.

The case against William Glass, Earl Bentley and Willie Covey, the three beardless youths who were arrested for assaulting Wong Yau, a Chinese vegetable peddler on Saturday last, was heard for the defense today, with the result that Glass was found guilty and assessed $5, while the companions, Bentley and Covey, were discharged. All three were severely censured by the court, and given to understand that Chinamen had rights which must and would be protected.

The hearing of Tixy Hamilton, who is charged by Ada Wilson with petit larceny, has been set for Monday at 2 p. m.

EIGHT MONTHS IN THE PEN.

Another Prisoner Gets Eight Months and Hagstead will Be Heard Monday.

Special to the News via Western Telegraph.

HEAVEN, Utah, Nov. 22.—At two p. m. today in the case of Chester DeWitt, of Marysvale, Piute county, aged nineteen, who was indicted for attempted rape and who was tried Tuesday last, the jury brought in a verdict of battery. The defendant was called for sentence and Judge Hatch dissented from the verdict of the jury and gave the defendant a severe verbal admonishment regarding the punishment prescribed by the statutes and sentenced him to be confined in Piute county jail for six months.

George Davis for handling a drunken man at Pangnitch Lake, last July a pocket knife and who used it for some damage, was sentenced to eight months in the penitentiary. Hagstead was also called for sentence, but was postponed till Monday morning, so that his counsel could get affidavits to sustain their motion for new trial.

MUM AS OYSTERS.

Commissioners Will Not Talk Regarding the Donovan Case—Another Meeting Today.

The police commissioners held another meeting this afternoon at the office of Mr. Stephens to further deliberate on the Donovan decision for which the public have been so anxiously looking of late.

It was the general impression that they would practically agreed—that is, three to one on the findings, but neither of the gentlemen approached could be induced to say one word. At press time the Mayor's office was communicated with with the result that no additional information was gained. The reply was that nothing had yet reached the city's executive from the commission on the Donovan case and there was no means of telling when the silence would be broken.

It has been quite freely whispered the last two or three days that the decision will be unfavorable to the suspended captain. In this connection it is also reported that Sergeant Ford's official head will surely fall in the waste basket before Santa Claus can reach here with his Christmas presents.

MINOR MENTION.

A storm on the coast means a scarcity in the fish market a day or two thereafter.

Some of the street cars had a hard time this morning in getting over the line; but the men who caught a car to get to business at the appointed hour had a still harder time of it.

The cold snap came as promised by the weather bureau, but thus far Salt Lake valley has escaped a good visitation of frosty atmosphere that is reported from other parts of the West.

Thanksgiving Day comes on Thursday next and on the evening before the Young Men's and Young Ladies' Improvement association of the Sixth ward will give a party complimentary to misfortunes in the field.

The second of the University of Utah series of lectures, and the first of the Friday evening series, for the season 1895-96, will be given in the laboratory building on First North street this evening.

The work of remodeling the Wells-Stake interurban in Ogden is being pushed rapidly forward. An address has been issued by the committee in charge, asking the Saints to assume the money required, which will be about $9,000.

The Los Angeles Express, in giving a list of the Republican national committee, with their respective addresses, names for Utah, O. J. Salisbury, with his address as Wasatch, in the same as the West Virginia member.

The Laramie Boomerang announces that the Union Pacific intends to further shorten the time of the fast train, and make the run from Omaha to Ogden in two hours less than the schedule which came in force last Sunday. The officials in this city know nothing of the proposed change as yet.
