BEAR STORY.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald, tells the following clever story of Gen. Gilliam, who commands a company of Oregon emigrants which left Missouri on the 1st ult.

It was in the winter time some years ago; the snow was upon the ground, and the weather was excessively cold, and freezing cold. Gen. Gilliam's hogs were in a pasture near by his cabin where he slept. He was woke up one night by the squealing of his hogs, and the barking of his dogs. He hastily sprang from his bed in his shirt-tail—snatched up his rifle, and without stopping to put on shoe, boot, or stocking, vest, coat, or trowsers, the General ran out to catch a shot at the bear. The dogs were chasing the varmint, and would occasionally seize him and pull him down, and have a little fight. The General in the excitement of the moment, thoughtlessly followed on, hoping every moment to get a shot at the bear. As the bear passed on through the neighborhood, every house was aroused by the barking of the dogs, and the shouting of the pursuing shirt-tail—and all the dogs, far and wide, gathered in and joined in the chase. On went the bear—on went the dogs—and on went the chivalric General Gilliam with nothing upon his nakedness but his shirt. Daylight at length broke, and the bear took to a tree, upon which the General finally shot him. This ended the sport, and when the General coolly reckoned up his latitude and longitude, he found that he was fifteen miles from the log cabin where he left his warm and comfortable bed some two or three hours before. He found that the skin of his legs all below his shirt was frost-bitten, and eventually peeled off—and his feet were very badly frozen. He was laid up for the balance of the winter—but he ultimately recovered, although it was many months afterward.

THE AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—The reporters of the various papers in New York and Albany, describe the display of agricultural products at Poughkeepsie as exceedingly varied and interesting. It is, of course, impossible for us to copy their accounts which consist for the most part of mere enumerations of the articles with the names of the exhibitors. We can only give a few notices relating to the more curious specimens of agricultural art and improvement.

An out and out Grahamite.—One figure would have made a stoic or misanthrope split his throat with laughter. It was a perfect vegetable man, or perhaps I should say woman, for I believe it was called the "Hindoo Goddess." It was composed of vegetables, the Face only excepted. The Head was a huge cabbage, large enough to furnish a small family with a winter's supply of sauerkraut. Then came the Mask Face. The ears rings were composed of fine strings of Beets; the arms were a compound substance, being composed of about equal parts of Onions, Beets and Carriots; around the Neck was strung a Necklace of Peppers; the Body was a huge Pumpkin, so large and tempting in appearance, that it seemed to say "Come and eat me;" two fine Muskmelons, served as Thighs, heads of Cellery for the knee parts of the Legs, and crooked-necked Squashes made no mean intimation of a Chinese shoe! This antique and laughable statue was perched upon a pedestal composed of several cargoes of pumpkins and squashes. This curious looking production was the handiwork of the family of General DAVIES of Poughkeepsie. One could hardly blame the benighted Hindoo for worshipping such a Goddess, for the idol, unlike the great mass of its kind, could at least be eaten, and thus contribute, of its substance, to his bodily support! But this image must be seen to be fully appreciated.

LONG HAIR.—The New York Sun says, as South ern visiters are occasionally seen in our streets with long flowing hair and bushy heads, it may be well to go back as far as 1649, and read the agreement entered into with the Governor and Magistrates of New Hampshire against the "sinful practice."

"Forasmuch as the wearing of long hair, after the manner of ruffians and barbarous Indians, has begun to invade New England, contrary to the rule of God's word, which says it is a shame for a man to wear long hair, as also the commendable costume of all the godly of our nation until within these few years:—We, the magistrates, who have subscribed this paper (for the showing of all our own innocency in this behalf) do declare and manifest our dislike and detestation against the wearing of such long hair, as against a thing uncivil and unmanly, whereby men do deform themselves, and offend sober and modest men, and do corrupt good manners: We do, therefore, earnestly entreat all the elders of this jurisdiction (as often as they shall see cause) to manifest their zeal against it in their public administrations, and to take care that the members of their respective churches be not defiled therewith, that so, such as prove obstinate, and will not reform themselves, may have God and man to witness against them."

ANOTHER GIANT.—The Medical Journal gives an account of Nathan Lampman, who was born at Coxsackie, N. Y., and is now sixteen years of age, and stands seven feet one half inch in height! Dr. Smit says, "he is a great, tall, awkward, good-natured, 16 years old boy, whose chin has never been smoothed by a razor, and who bids fair, being still actually growing, to reach another foot. In the last year he positively declares that he grew nine inches! At present his weight is 198 pounds. The body is stilted up by a pair of the longest legs, perhaps, on the Western continent, whose base is a pair of feet fourteen inches from heel to toe! Nathan is a sight worth seeing. Should his life be spared, we may fully expect that he will ultimately eclipse all the giants of modern times, for every thing is in his favor, viz: youth, health, good habits, and a desire to outgrow all the descendants of Adam."

HOOFS OR HANDS.—Mr. Verplanck, in his masterly letter before the Mechanics' Institute, observes that "several years ago, in conversing with a very ingenious and well-informed friend, now deceased, I was much struck by a transient observation of his. 'In spite,' said he, 'of man's boasted intellect, he is as much indebted to his present state in civilized life to the hand as to the head. Suppose,' said he, 'that the human arm had terminated in a hoof or a claw, instead of a hand, what would have been the present state of society, and how far would mere intellect have carried us?' I do not know, (continued the lecturer,) whether this idea was original with my friend or not, although I have never since heard it or met with it in books; and as he did not follow it out any further, I cannot say what were the particular consequences he meant to infer from it." This grotesque and unphilosophical idea belongs to Helvetius, who carried it out as far as it could be carried. One might as rationally conjecture what would have been the condition of mankind if they had been constructed so as to walk on their heads instead of their feet. Mr. Verplanck, however, uses the idea very skilfully as the text for his discourse.

FEROCITY OF AN ELEPHANT.—It is impossible to imagine the ferocity of the elephant when it is excited to revenge. The melancholy end of Major Haddock, of the 97th Regiment, was horribly illustrative of this. He had fired his last barrel, when an elephant gave chase, and Haddock made the best of his way to a small patch of jungle close by, hoping to dodge the elephant round it, until it got tired of the fun, and sheered off; but, before five minutes had elapsed, he, unfortunately, ran round the very corner behind which the animal kept itself concealed, and in a moment he was laid hold of. He had no one with him but natives, who, at a punch, are the greatest fools ever born. The consequence was, that the elephant, having crushed poor Haddock to death by kneeling on him, began to dissect him; and so cleanly was it done, that scarcely two joints were left together in the body of the victim. How an animal could have thus accomplished such a task by means of that unwieldly-looking instrument it possesses in the shape of a trunk, is utterly inexplicable.—New Sporting Magazine.

THE KING ON THE KING'S SPEECH.—Though George the Second, as a constitutional monarch, thus spoke to his parliament in the language of his ministers, he did not attempt in his private conversation to conceal his real sentiments. Thus, on one occasion, being informed that an impudent printer was to be punished for publishing a spurious royal speech, he answered, that the man's punishment would be of the mildest sort, because he had read both, and, as far as he understood either of them, he liked the spurious speech much better than his own.—Lord Mahon's History of England.

IMMENSITY OF THE WORLD.—Herschel estimates the star "Lyra" to be more than 54,000 times larger than the sun, which fills a cubical space equal to 681,151,000,000,000,000 miles: 100,000,000 of such stars lie within the range of the telescope, and between every two there is an interval of more than 200,000,000,000 miles of space. Who can think of what lies beyond the telescopic view! In such a thought is not the mind lost in sublimity and grandeur!

ALBANY LOCK HOSPITAL ESTABLISHED 1830.

Gen. George Cooke, LL. D.

—RETURNED FROM ENGLAND—

CONTINUES TO BE CONSULTED

CONFIDENTIALLY.

No. 3, Norton street, Albany, N. Y.

THIS Philanthropic Institution, established, A. D. 1830, universally spoken of in the various periods also of the present age, is now entirely devoted to a retired part of the city, detached from any place of public resort whatever; the whole of the building is occupied by patients, each having their own room, and not subject to the observed of all observers. Dr. Cooke, founder of the Hospital, is the only resident physician, and devotes his whole time and attention to the welfare of the unfortunate. The offices for consultation, conveniently arranged, are on the ground floor; the Hospital, up stairs, is also replete with every facility for the recovery of patients."

For the cure of the worst forms of Venereal Disease, Gravel, Seminal Weakness, Gleet, Stricture in the Urethra, Impotency, Syphilis and Gonorrhea, Gonorrhea and Nervous Debility, Mercurial and all other diseases of the skin, and affections of the Urinary organs, in their most malignant and advanced stages, Dr. Cooke is acknowledged to be much celebrated. It is proverbial "that all diseases of this class, supposed to be incurable by others, are aptly and conveniently rendered by Dr. Cooke will cut more than bodily trouble."—familiar with the practice of medicine, he incessantly cures the own patients and very frequently the patients of other physicians.

Dr. Cooke is the oldest advertising physician in the city of Albany, N. Y.—his medical talents are unrivalled.

"Among the most celebrated physicians of the age is Gen. Cooke, M. D., L. L. D., of Albany, N. Y., the founder of the Albany Lock Hospital. He is mentioned in the highest terms of praise for his benevolence and his philanthropy, not only by editors of newspapers, but his worth is proclaimed by the lecturer on literature and from the sacred desk."—Democratic (Pa.) Banner.

"Whenever the unfortunate consult Dr. Cooke, of Albany, they are very politely conducted to a spacious private office, literally covered with testimonials of the highest order, in large gilt frames, subject to the inspection of his patients—very few men have the honor to hold such documents; and, as an equivalent for his fee, receive a corresponding prescription. The new adjunct to this celebrated man, 'never at home,' is conceived in a rich black satin, silver and Spanish gold embroidered, in his house, with genteel gold buckles in his shoes—is of itself an inducement to visit this profound Physician, this friend to humanity and of God."—New Orleans Sun.

"The Lock Hospital in America, the only Philanthropic Institution established, under the benign auspices of the celebrated Dr. Cooke, at No. 3 Norton street, Albany, N. Y., for the relief and convenience of the unfortunate, is reported as the best asylum extant for the comfort and certain recovery of invalids—at this Infirmary patients have the very best medical attendance, including board and nursing, which very materially facilitates recovery; and as Dr. Cooke, the humane founder of so desirable a retreat and sacred security, resides on the premises, the most incredulous may there repose the utmost confidence—feel at home—pursue their usual avocations—and enjoy the society of the most eminent physician as well as the most benevolent man of the age."—Evening.

TAXES IN INDIANA.

THE undersigned respectfully informs the public that he has established an agency for the payment of taxes in any county in the State. Whilst a clerk in the State Auditor's office, he was enabled to form a personal acquaintance and to make arrangements with most of the county treasurers, by which his order will be received, and the tax receipts forwarded to him without the risk or expense of transmitting money.

He will also attend to the payment of interest on canal lands; also to the renting of improved lands and the collection of rents. He will also make sale for non residents and others.

From his office acquaintance as well with our public land system, as with a large portion of the lands themselves in the northern part of the State, having been employed by the government in surveying them, and by the State as a commissioner in selecting a large portion of the Wabash and Erie canal lands, he flatters himself that he will render satisfaction to all who may employ him.

His per cent for payment of taxes is 10 per cent. on the amount of taxes if under $50 in any one county; and 5 per cent. if over $50; postages to be paid in addition.

Office on Meridian, south of Washington street.

Also every discription of Blank Books. In all their Blank Books they make use of the new and improved patent method of sewing, which renders them incomparably superior to those manufactured in any of the old modes, by imparting to them a far greater degree of strength and durability, and thereby preventing them from falling so speedily to decay, as has heretofore too often been the case.

Also, binding with a STAR BACK, a new and improved mode of binding, far superior to that which has heretofore been in general use. Old books re bound in any style desired, and on the most favorable terms.

The Patent Ruling Machine, is used in all cases of Blank Book Binding. This machine is decidedly an improvement upon the former machines used for that purpose.

RAGS wanted in exchange for books, binding, cash, and numerous other articles. 3 6m

BOOK BINDING, And Account Book Manufactory.

DAY, TYLER & Co., wholesale and retail dealers and Manufacturers of Blank Account Books, and dealers in Stationery, &c. &c. in the New Building on Washington street, opposite the Palmer Hotel, Indianapolis, Indiana, where there can always be obtained, and will be found constantly on hand, the various articles in their line. Every description of Blank Books for county auditors and Treasurers, school commissioners and magistrates, with or without printed heads.

In all their Blank Books they use the Improved Patent mode of sewing, which gives Strength with great Flexibility. And is incomparably superior to any other method ever yet used for blank books, and will keep the leaves firm and solid while the book lasts, instead of coming to pieces, as is often the case with all other methods. The new method of sewing renders the books worth double the old kind, though they cost no more. In elegance, durability, and superior style of finish, their account books are equal to the best Eastern work and no higher in price.

D. T. & Co., are also prepared to manufacture all descriptions of Fancy articles, such as Ladies' and Gentlemen's Port Folios, Caskets, Card cases, Albums, Spectacle Cases, Cigar Cases, Pocket Books, and Note Books.

MUSIC PAPER always on hand, which can be bound in various sizes, and Bands supplied at the shortest notice. Music arranged and bound in the best style, at reasonable prices and short notice.

The most improved pattern of a Ruling Machine is just received. Books and paper ruled to any pattern.

They are prepared to do all kinds of Binding in French and English Calf and Morocco, Plain, Extra, Gilt, Paper edge, Marble and Gilt edge Finish. All kinds of Law and interlaved works and pamphlets bound to match, to which personal attention will be given. Old Books rebound in any style desired, and on the lowest terms.
