Burned to Death By a Coal Oil Lamp Explosion.

KILLED BY A FALL WHILE DRUNK.

California Boys and Cigarettes—A Dozen of Suicides—Notices for Jackson's Hole.

The house and furniture belonging to a farmer named Bachmeyer, near Corona station, Cal., were burned at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. The family barely escaped in their night clothes.

Gabriel Bidron, a laborer, took a lot poison at San Francisco on Monday, with fatal results. He assigned as a cause for his act that there were too many Italians in this country. He had been unable to secure employment.

Anton Heintz, a San Francisco mariner, would not put his money in a bank because he thought such institutions unsafe, so he laid it in various places about his house. The other night burglars entered his place and secured 240 dollars in silver.

Sunday morning the bridge tender on the Pasadena and Los Angeles electric road discovered a man lying by the bridge over the Garvanza canyon, Cal. Investigation showed that it was the corpse of Tom McKinnery, a laborer, 25 years old, who lived in a tent on Navy street near Vista avenue, Pasadena. He was a moulder earlier and occasionally went on a spree. He is supposed to have fallen off the bridge while drunk, his head was smashed beyond recognition.

Clark Winslow, a middle-aged man who lived alone at Napa, Cal., was totally burned Saturday night by the explosion of a coal oil lamp. That he died Sunday evening, it is not definitely known how the accident occurred as he was alone in the house. Neighbors saw a light and went in to find the lamp blazing on the floor. This was soon extinguished, and Winslow was found in a small closet, horribly burned. He said he ran in there because he did not know what else to do. His beard was burned off, and parts of his face and body were seared.

A letter received in Cheyenne, Wyoming, from a resident of Jackson's Hole says that the Indian problem at that region will be settled during the present year by the rapid settlement of the region by colonists. One hundred families are coming from Arkansas and Iowa. Tom Bennett, who is the agency trader at the Hole, late in the fall also selected a large body of land easily irrigable upon which the colonists will settle. A number of settlers from Idaho have also arrived, so it is laying off the town of Grey's River. The town is to be near the base of the Grand Teton peak, and will be one of the most picturesque places in the Jackson's Hole country.

Palo, California, Mail: The school of Santa Ana found that for some reason the boys in the public schools were somewhat nearly as proficient in their studies as the girls, and an investigation was instituted to discover the cause, whether the boys were being neglected by their teachers, or whether a lack of discipline was chargeable with the fact that the boys were not doing well. The investigation was had, and it was found that ninety per cent of the boys at 12 and 13 years, who attended the public schools smoked cigarettes. The investigation did not require to be pushed any further. It is sufficiently well known that cigarette-smoking stunts the intellect as well as undermines the constitution and if ninety per cent of the Santa Ana boys stay with the habit, ninety per cent of the Santa Ana boys will be failures in life, and be help for

NEWS OF THE STATE.

The Rio Grande Western rail way has engaged the Kayville Iling Wagon company to sink artesian wells at the stations at Farmington and Kaysville. The wind company is now at work at Farmington under the management of E. W. Layton.

Davis county reports say that the sheep men think there are better prospects for sheep this winter than they have had for the past ten years. There is a scarcity of snow, however, on the ranges in western Box Elder county, where the sheep are, and herds are necessarily kept high in the mountains.

Kaysville Eagle.—The little three-year-old boy of E. Leyson's has the misfortune to break his arm just above the wrist. He was playing leap frog with another little fellow, and he not being large and strong enough to make the necessary jump, was the cause of his being thus severely injured. He fell on his little playmate's shoulder then fell to the ground with the above result. He displayed much courage when the doctor was setting the broken member, crying but very little.——Frank Hill, the 19-year-old son of Jos. Hill, narrowly escaped death yesterday morning by being thrown from a freezing hole while going to school. The animal made a plunge and the rider was thrown violently. He knew nothing more about it for some time, but when he came to he found himself badly bruised and his arm broken. He had the horse to a house and started to walk home, when a neighbor, meeting him, took him to his wagon, overtook him and carried him home. A doctor was called and he found that the humerous bone was broken near the shoulder. The physician reduced the fracture and the boy is now feeling quite easily.——Alderman Orr, Sheriff Dee declares that the people of Kaysville have one of the finest places in the country to make a reservoir, and that they must have one before summer sets in, together with a system of water works. The city engineer is now consulting the proprietors and diff for the dam of the reservoir will perhaps soon begin to fly. The location is about three quarters of a mile from town, in Dee's hollow, and the reservoir will hold a volume of water ten feet deep, 200 feet wide and 700 feet long. From the mouth of Bear's canyon to the site for the reservoir the water now runs through Edgren's or Bear's creek and cross around over the foothills for about three miles before it finally reaches its destination. This distance is to be shortened to seven-eighths of a mile by piping the water through wooden pipes over a direct route, at a total cost of $4,000 for both reservoir and pipe line complete. If the pipes are used the cost will be much less. It is proposed to put in a complete system of waterworks from the reservoir to the city at a later date.

NOT TEMPORARY RELIEF

But Permanent Absolute Cures.

Hanson Charles Weir, cured two years ago of catarrhal deafness, is as well today as when he received the treatment.

Mr. Weir, residing at 225 South Fourth East street, Salt Lake City, says: "Something over two years ago I took my little boy, who was nearly nine years, to my Doctor to Washington, to be treated and relieved of the deafness from which he was suffering. For the years previous to that time the little boy had suffered terribly with catarrhal deafness, and at times the pain was so great that he would scarcely sleep for days, whereas I could not carry him anywhere in a car, nor do anything else that was in the nature of a disturbance, or a sudden noise was to be dreaded. Dr. A. Washington Shores, of Salt Lake City, Utah, Home Doctor, said he could absolutely cure him, if allowed to use that he was staggering, and, in every way, he would do so. The treatment was administered, which something extend to some months, and the little boy's hearing was restored, and he has not been troubled with deafness since. Two years ago and the trouble has not returned to the slightest extent. I am only too happy to be able to give this testimonial, and have every interest in seeing the good work continued, and I know that it will be a great blessing to many people, and I wish the Doctor all success in his work."

Mr. Weir's address is 225 South Fourth East street, Salt Lake City, Utah.
