SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.

Progress and Importance of the Work Under This Organization as Set Forth at the Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Deseret Sunday School Union convened in the Tabernacle April 3rd, at 7:30 p. m. There were present on the stand all the general superintendency, the officers and members of the Union board, a number of the Apostles and Presidents of Stakes.

The meeting was called to order by First Assistant General Superintendent George Goddard, and the Tabernacle choir sang: "Redeemer of Israel."

Elder Lars E. Egbertsen, superintendent of Sunday schools of Uintah Stake, offered prayer.

The choir sang: "Do what is right."

The general secretary called the roll of Stakes, which showed a representation from nearly every Stake; also read the annual statistical and financial report for the year 1895, and presented the general Sunday school authorities, who were unanimously sustained.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GROWTH.

In his opening remarks Elder George Goddard noted with pride and satisfaction the wonderful growth of the Sunday school work in the organized Stakes, as also in the various missions, the increase in attendance, the improvement in the methods of instruction in the class work; the interest manifested by the children and the faithful, assisting labors of the Stake and ward officers and the teachers in the various schools; all contributing to place the Sunday schools on a higher plane and raise the present excellent standard of religious training among the Latter-day Saints. The things to be observed in his attendance at the various Stake annual Sunday school conferences during the past year, there was nothing that pleased him more than the general observance of the Word of Wisdom among nearly all the Sunday school superintendents, teachers and officers. It is having a marked effect upon the patons, and the blessings of heaven will be abundantly showered down upon those who observe this law.

Too hardly can some to the tithe donation by every officer and every of the people, those who will which brings a blessing with it. Tithing is used in the payment of leaflets, 50,000 being distributed to the Sunday schools free. The Sunday School Union last board is being distributed during this conference, 2,500 of which are distributed free. The Sunday schools; and more of which together with the leaflets may be purchased at the general office, the Leaflets at 50 cents per hundred, the Treatise at 15 cents each. This excellent work should find its way into the hands of every teacher. Many other valuable circulars and literature is distributed free of charge. The means thus contributed to time again to the schools, the prosperous and large minute aiding in carrying up the standard and power work.

It is also designed again this year to have "Special Sunday" and that each school so as the collection may be taken on "Special Sunday," the last Sunday in October of each year, and it is confidently expected that for 1896, the full complement of the nickel donation will be realized.

Elder Goddard closed by calling attention to the excellent work of a number of superintendents to have a word addition—a little book like the Bible book containing only the [illegible] of the present new S. S. music book—of the "New Sunday School Music book," of about 200 pages, and also containing a few choice songs and hymns not contained in the new Sunday School music book. It is desired that such Stake committees be appointed by the general secretary by letter now to the Stake Sunday School Union, and the Stake Sunday School will guarantee to buy, at its semi-annual conference, and if 50,000 are sold, the work can be finished and sold to the Sunday schools for the actual figure of 10 cents each.

Second Assistant General Superintendent Karl G. Maeser, in his talk upon the Lorenzo Snow Sunday School Treasure, stated that this useful little work brought the Sunday school cause forward one step in the cause of Sunday training. It is the product of several months work, by those who are all willing to bring into some thing that will be necessary in the great Sunday school cause.

It cannot, of course, be found perfect, but it is the result of long, full and earnest consideration, prayer and arrangement. It contains the work from the organization of Church down, to the higher departments, in which the Sunday school work will be given, and to teach righteousness and salvation are more; a great many the original and other sweet-sellers are in many instances are all, and, also, an arrangement is laid out and a sample (only a sample list) of a model lesson is given in each grade. It is only placed there as a sample, a guide to those who are well acquainted in the circle teaching. It ought to find its way into the hands of every officer and teacher, should be carefully read and used as a means to an end—that of training the youth of Zion.

But the knowledge of this little work is but the smaller part of the great work of a Sunday school teacher; the most important part is the spiritual preparation, the love of God, the light of heaven, the Holy Ghost. No matter how well the lesson may be prepared, the spirit of God must accompany its reading to move our Sunday school teaching effective. Superintendent Maeser felt proud of this little work and closed by invoking the choice blessings of heaven upon its use in the Sunday schools of Zion.

Elder Francis M. Lyman spoke interestingly upon the use of the Articles of Faith. Taking one up after another, he commented upon each in its order, explaining its meaning, giving a broad and comprehensive view of its application. How that we believe in a God of Glory, pure and peaceful, a God at love, wisdom, power, the God of heaven and earth, the Father of all the human family; a Being in tabernacle of flesh and bone, to whom all men will render an account of their lives, in the day of judgment. That the Son, Jesus Christ, our elder Brother, is in the express image of the Father; is a Personage of flesh and bone, to whom men should always approach the Father and through whom all blessings are received. That the Holy Ghost is a Personage of Spirit, not of flesh and bone, but a companion of the Father and Son, and was instrumental in the formation of the world. Also, in this interesting manner, did Elder Lyman take each of the Articles of Faith, showing the benefits each contained; how nearly they applied to the needs of the children; how it unity they worked for the salvation and how necessary it was to live up to the same, that salvation in the presence of the Father may come to all the righteous. He closed by invoking heaven's choicest blessings upon the great Sunday school cause, and hoped the report of 1896 would stand out one hundred thousand fold, in souls and pupils.

The conference was then brought to close by the choir and congregation singing: "Our God, we raise to Thee."

Benediction was pronounced by General Superintendent George Q. Cannon.

JOHN M. WHITAKER,
General Secretary.
