From New York.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The Herald's Savannah correspondent of the 29th says:

Gen. Wilson's famous raiding expedition arrived here yesterday from Macon.

The following is a condensed history of the trip:

Gen. Wilson left Chickasaw, Ala., on the 22d of March. It is not proper to give any statement of the number of his forces.

Ebenezer Church, near Plantersville, Ala., was taken after a short engagement with Forrest's cavalry. Three hundred prisoners were captured and three guns. Forrest's forces were driven to the west of the Cahawba river and scattered.

A column was sent to Tuscaloosa which captured and destroyed much government property.

Selma, 241 miles from the base, was captured on the 2d of April, with 700 prisoners and 32 guns in position and 75 in the arsenal. We destroyed 3 rolling mills, with fixtures and a very large naval foundry, an arsenal, the works, magazines, and a number of cars. We remained at Selma 8 days.

The Alabama was bridged 85 feet, the operation lasting five days.

The next place attacked was Montgomery, 50 miles distant, destroying all the bridges on the Alabama and Tennessee rivers. The railroad to Montgomery was destroyed.

The enemy destroyed 2,500 bales of cotton.

Montgomery surrendered without an assault. Five guns fell into our hands. We destroyed 2 rolling mills and foundries, 2 magazines, 1 locomotive, 63 cars, 5 steamboats, captured on the river near Wetempuka, and nitre works.

The rebels burned 8,500 bales of cotton before evacuating.

Columbus, Ga., 85 miles distant, was taken by assault, by General Upton, after dark, on the 16th; 1,200 prisoners were captured. 53 guns, 7 large cotton factories, 1,000 bales of cotton, immense quantities of ordnance, quartermasters' and commissary stores, a large arsenal and pistol factory, an accoutrement factory, a naval foundry, a rolling mill and foundry, an arsenal foundry, 13 locomotives, over 100 cars, depots, machine shops, &c., were captured and destroyed.

A gunboat mounting six 7-inch rifled guns, now called the Jackson, but the name of which has been recently changed, was also captured here.

A detour to West Point was made by Lagrange's brigade, who attacked the works and carried them by storm, capturing the garrison, 350 in number, and 4 guns, and killing the rebel General Tyler, who was in command.

Fifteen locomotives, 200 cars, 2 bridges, and two large factories were destroyed.

We destroyed large quantities of quartermaster and commissary stores at Griffin, and the railroad bridges on the Selma and Montgomery railroad.

We captured five guns on the route.

Macon was captured with no opposition.

It has not been necessary as yet to destroy any property.

We captured Generals Howell Cobb, Smith, (formerly street inspector of New York city,) Robertson, Mercer and McCall. The captures are 132 guns in position on the field and by assault, and 200 guns in assaults and in store, with immense amounts of ordnance, commissary and quartermaster stores, cotton, railroad machinery, &c.

The Herald's Jacksonville (Florida) correspondent says: About 1,500 of the union soldiers formerly imprisoned at Andersonville, Ga., were, on the morning of the 28th ult., transported by the rebels down the Florida Central railroad to within ten miles of Jacksonville, where they were unconditionally released, and left to make their way into the United States lines, which several hundred of them reached the same night. All presented a pitiful sight, and many of them were barely able to walk, but their joy was great on finding themselves once again under the protection of the old flag.

The Herald's Hilton Head correspondent says of the arrest of Ex-Governor Aiken:

Ex Governor Aiken claims to be an original union man, an opposer of nullification in Calhoun's time, and a friend of the union and constitution ever since; but there are reports contradictory of this. Among others, he is accused of furnishing a portion of the train which has enabled the rebels to hold out four years, and of having held several advisory interviews with Jeff Davis.

These are only reports, but of course the war department must have had some foundation for its action against him.

G. B. Lamar, a prominent citizen of Savannah, has also been arrested. He is an avowed enemy of the United States. He was for nullification, and has been one of the most industrious and successful aiders and abettors of the rebel cause in Georgia. He makes no secret even now of his bitter hostility to the union. Courteous, affable, social, in all other respects, he hates Yankees most thoroughly, and boasts of it in public.

It is understood that the prisoners are charged with treason, and will be regularly tried therefor.

The Tribune's Washington special has the following: The court room for the trial of the presidential assassins has been fitted up at the arsenal building, and the trial will proceed without delay. The number likely to be put on trial is forty, and the others in custody will probably be discharged as the case progresses, and their evidence is given in.

Col. Clark of the rebel army who was captured by one of our scouting parties, while endeavoring to escape from Richmond, asserts that he was in charge of all the specie which was removed from Richmond, and when his train broke down he found it impossible to get it on the track again; seeing our forces approaching he ordered the train to be fired, and as all his efforts to save the specie was unavailing, the soldiers broke open the kegs and appropriated all there was. He asserts that he knows that no other amount of specie not in the pockets of its owners were taken from Richmond. He asserts further, that the amount has been vastly overestimated and confirms the statement heretofore made by Grant that it amounted only to about $200,000.

The Herald's Washington correspondence of the 2d says that a second expedition was sent to Garrett's plantation, where Booth was found, on Saturday, and returned yesterday, bringing in the paroled prisoner who took Booth and Harrold to Garrett's, and several others. It appears that Jett introduced Booth to Garrett as a rebel soldier named Boyd, and wanted him taken care of by Garrett for a few days, when he would be taken away.

These facts Garrett has endeavored in vain to get Jett to testify to.

The Herald's Washington correspondent says: There are twenty, and perhaps twenty-three persons connected with the assassination, who will certainly suffer the death penalty.

The World's Washington special says: It is currently reported to day that the president and cabinet have decided to open all the southern states to general trade, and suspend all regulations in force, by order of the treasury department. If this is confirmed by a proclamation of the president, it will be a most important step toward the restoration of peace.

From Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., May 4.—The large number of visitors here to view the remains of the president was increased last night and this morning by numerous arrivals from all quarters.

The remains will be accompanied to the vault by a military and civic procession.

The ground selected for the burial is exceedingly beautiful.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The court martial in the case of Benj. Harris met this morning, and in the absence of witnesses adjourned until tomorrow.

Gen. Sherman was at Point Lookout yesterday en route to Washington.

The principal portion of the army of the Potomac is already on the march here.

The Constitutional Amendment.
