WHEAT RALLIES ON TRADE EVENING UP

Early Declines Caused by Talk That Farm Reserve Report Is Incomplete.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Although wheat prices at first showed strength to-day as a result of figures on farm reserves, the market later declined owing to assertions that the report was incomplete. It was said that the stocks in country elevators and mills had been omitted. This would make a difference of about 100,000,000 bushels. Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's finish to 1¼ cents higher, with December at $1.15⅝ to $1.16¼ and May at $1.20 to $1.21, were followed by moderate setbacks all around. Week end evening up of trades rallied the market in the last hour. The close was unsettled at ⅛ cent net decline to a like advance, with December at $1.15⅝ to $1.15⅞ and May at $1.19⅝ to $1.20.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. After opening ¼ cent to ⅝ cent and ⅜ cent higher, including December at 47⅞ to 48⅛ cents, corn receded to slightly less than yesterday's closing prices. Yesterday's market closed steady at ⅛ cent net lower to ⅛ cent and ¼ cent gain, with December at 47½ to 47⅝ cents.

Oats started ⅛ cent to ¼ cent higher, with December at 34 to 34⅛ cents, and later showed losses.

Provisions were firmer with hogs.

Sales of cash wheat to foreign countries yesterday were small, but a sale of 5,000 barrels of soft winter was announced. Australian wheat exports during last week were 2,136,000 bushels, 920,000 of which were destined for Indian ports. The Russian relief commission is expected to be in the market soon for the purchase of soft winter straight flour. Wheat traders were confused yesterday by the issuance of a report of farm reserves purporting to be official, and until it was explained just before the close that it was a part of the Indiana State report and not the official Government figures the trade was puzzled. Washington is planning to issue its figures to-morrow.

GOVERNOR HARDING DEFENDS F. R. BOARD

Reserve Bank Officers Are Not U. S. Officials, but Private Citizens, He Says.

The reply of W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, to allegations that the board had approved of or permitted reckless waste of money in the building operations of the Federal Reserve banks and in the matter of salaries paid by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to its officers and employees was issued yesterday in the form of a letter to Sydney Anderson, chairman of the joint commission of agriculture inquiry. Before Mr. Anderson a hearing was had a short time ago to investigate criticisms of the policy of the Reserve Board made by John Skelton Williams, formerly Comptroller of the Currency.

In the letter Gov. Harding stated that "the officers of Federal Reserve Banks are not officers of the United States. They are private citizens, just as officers of national banks, which are, like Federal Reserve banks, chartered under an act of Congress, are private citizens." He directs attention to the fact that the conduct of the business of a reserve bank, especially that of the one in this city, "the largest banking institution in the country, requires the services in executive and other capacities of trained officials and experts who will devote all of their time to the work of the bank, not only in the ordinary routine but in the study of a great variety of technical subjects."

He said also that they "are not permitted to engage in any other business or political activities," that "their service in the Federal Reserve Bank is not a stepping stone to a political career nor does it afford means of outside financial profit" and that "it would be impossible to secure the services of competent and efficient officials for the Federal Reserve banks were their salaries to be measured by the salaries paid to the political officers of the Government."

He took occasion to refer to the salaries paid to national bank examiners and with respect to them stated that Mr. Williams, as Comptroller of the Currency, "recognized the fact that to obtain competent national bank examiners he would be obliged to pay regard to the technical skill and ability of these men and to what they could earn in the employ of private banking institutions and corporations."

Gov. Harding concluded his letter by stating that the minutes showed that Mr. Williams voted affirmatively on 80 per cent. of the salary increases, including those which he criticises, and that he did not vote against any of them, but was absent from meetings at which the other 20 per cent. were considered.
