Expedition of Lopez as Narrated by his Followers.

From The Republic of yesterday.

A dispatch was received at the Navy Department on Monday, the 8th inst., from Commodore Platt of the United States sloop-of-war Albany, dated Havana, Sept. 1, 1851, stating that, in reply to a request from him that he might be permitted to visit the Americans who accompanied Lopez's expedition, and who had surrendered or been captured and brought into Havana, he received the following reply from the Captain-General:

[TRANSLATION.]

HAVANA, August 27, 1851.

SIR: I have received the letter which you addressed to me this day soliciting my permission to hold an interview with the prisoners who have been brought to this port, and who formed a part of the invading expedition which attacked this island.

I inform you, in reply, that I order the commander of her Majesty's frigate "Esperanza," on board of which the prisoners are, to admit you, at any hour at which you may present yourself, to hold the desired interview, with permission to remain with the prisoners so long as you may find it convenient; and I avail myself of this occasion to assure you of the esteem which your noble conduct and frank and honorable character entitle you to from me.

I am, therefore, with all respect, your obedient servant, &c., JOSE DE LA CONCHA.

CHAS. J. PLATT, Esq., Commanding United States sloop-of-war Albany, and Senior Officer of the Naval forces of the United States in this port.

And that, availing himself of this permission, Capt. Platt, accompanied by Lieut. William Rogers Taylor, visited the prison in which these unfortunate men were confined, and received from them a narrative of the fatal expedition, as follows:

Extract from dispatch to the Navy Department, from Commander CHARLES T. PLATT, Commanding United States ship Albany, dated Havana, Sept. 1.

* * * * * * *

The followers of Lopez having been entirely dispersed, and a number of prisoners reported as brought to this place on the 27th ultimo, I addressed a letter to the Captain-General, requesting permission to hold an interview with any Americans who might be among them. This permission was readily accorded in a reply, which is inclosed. The interview was postponed until the morning of the 30th, the prisoners having in the meantime been transferred to the castle of the "Punta," and some accessions having been made to their number. The commandant of the castle informed me that the whole number of prisoners was fifty-seven, of whom about 30 or 35 were Americans, as we learned from themselves. This officer was present throughout the interview. Another gentleman, who was introduced as inspector of prisons, came in during its continuance, and remained until its close. The prisoners were heavily ironed, were clad in a prison uniform, and had their hair closely cut. They were confined in an arched gallery, to which access was had through two grated doors, the inner one being entirely of iron. In the little ante-room between the two doors, lay the garments worn by the prisoners at the time of their confinement.

On our entrance the Americans were ordered to advance to the front, and all foreigners were sent to the other end of the cell. Inquiry being made for the officers, the following presented themselves, viz:

James A. Kelly, of New-Orleans, formerly of Bayou Sara, who held the rank of Captain in the expedition.

Robert M. Grider, of New-Orleans, a native of Kentucky, a Lieutenant in the same.

J. D. Baker, of ——, also a Lieutenant.

No other officer of the expedition presented himself. They were informed that I had obtained permission to visit them, and that my object was to obtain from them any information that they might choose to give, which would be forwarded to the Government of the United States, and perhaps might be the means of deterring others of our countrymen from placing themselves in the same deplorable situation. They were told distinctly that they were in the power of the Spanish Government, and that nothing could be done for them as Americans, inasmuch as the President's proclamation had declared that any persons joining an invading force would thereby forfeit the protection of the Government of the United States. This was said to prevent their forming any false hopes from my visit.

The information obtained was given in the presence of the entire party by the aforesaid officers, and being uncontradicted by any of them, may be regarded as the testimony of the whole.

They stated that the expedition sailed from New-Orleans in the steamer "Pampero." They were not sure of the exact number composing it, but thought it was 48; that it certainly did not amount to 500.—Before landing in Cuba they anchored near Key West, where they remained several hours, and were visited by some citizens of that place. They landed in Cuba about 2 o'clock of the morning of the 12th of August. Their first fight took place on the 13th. From that period they had lost all recollection of dates. They had five engagements, but could not tell how many of their number had been killed. They were armed with condemned muskets—had no rifles, but many individuals had revolvers and knives. They brought with them 80,000 cartridges, and captured many more after landing. They had no artillery. Soon after landing they found they had been deceived, and became anxious to return home. They been informed, before sailing, that 14 towns were in possession of the "patriots," (to use their own language,) and that the whole island was in a state of revolution. They suppose that the fifty men captured with Col. Crittenden were endeavoring to make their escape. They so infer from the fact that they were all dispirited by the reception they met with, and disgusted, as they said, with the "lies and deception" practiced toward them. The country people generally fled at their approach, and none joined them. Worn out with hunger and fatigue, the men composing this body threw away their arms a week or ten days previously—they could not distinctly remember when. They had not at that time heard of the offer of life to such as would give themselves up, but their intention was to throw themselves upon the mercy of the Spanish government. They did not come in all together, but in small parties, and at different times. They had subsisted chiefly upon fruit, and the last meat that some of them had eaten was a portion of their general's horse. There was no lack of ammunition when they threw away their arms, though much of what they brought had been damaged by rain. Lieutenant Grider stated that he carried a musket, though an officer, and that he had twenty-eight rounds of cartriges in his box when he threw it away.

Capt. Kelly stated that the editor of The New-Orleans Delta, Mr. Sigur, was instrumental in persuading him to join the expedition, having addressed him personally upon the subject. He has reason to believe that he persuaded many others also. The whole party manifested much indignation toward General Lopez and Mr. Sigur, and many of them asserted that it would be worse for the latter if they should live to return home. On being told that Gen. Lopez was taken prisoner, a cry of joy and exultation ran through the crowd.

They stated that Lopez was chief of the expedition. Col. Dowseman was second in command, and was killed on the 13th.

Col. Wm. Scott Haynes of Tennessee, was another leader. According to their best belief he was still in the mountains.

Col. Crittenden had been an officer of the United States Army during the war with Mexico.

A Hungarian named Pragay, who acted as Adjutant-General, was mortally wounded on the 13th.

It is matter of regret that so unperfect a narrative has been obtained from these unfortunate men. In the excitement of the moment, many would speak at once; and to some questions it was difficult to get a satisfactory answer, on account of the eagerness of all to give it. * * * * * *

At the request of the commandant of the castle, the prisoners were asked if they had had the benefit of medical attendance since their confinement.—They replied that they had. They were also asked if they had been provided with two meals a day, and whether they had bread and coffee for breakfast. Some said that they had, but others replied that they had no coffee. The commandant immediately inquired the reason of his subordinate, who stated that those who had been confined there on the previous evening came too late to be provided for on that morning, but that they would have their allowance of coffee at dinner. He stated that the others had been provided for according to the order.

It may be proper to add that the prisoners appeared to be in good health, and by no means so much reduced as their exposure and hardships would seem to warrant. They even appeared to be cheerful, which may have been the effect of their relief from a condition of far greater anxiety and suffering experienced during their wanderings upon the island.

I should have stated that my First Lieutenant, Mr. Taylor, was with me during this interview.

The whole number of prisoners, including those not yet brought to Havana, is officially stated to be about one hundred and thirty.

I have just learned that Lopez, who was captured on Friday last, (August 29) was brought in last night, and publicly garroted at 7 o'clock this morning.

We learn that, upon receipt of these dispatches, the President directed copies to be sent to the Spanish Minister, the further to enforce an appeal already made to that government, now since the leader of the expedition has been cut off, to deal mercifully with his deluded followers, who were enticed into the invasion under the belief that the people of the island were already in a state of revolution, and desired assistance to establish a republican government—a state of facts which, had it existed, could not have justified their conduct, either in the view of our own statutes or of the law of nations, but the expectation of which gives them a strong claim to pardon.

THE HERRING FISHERY.—We regret to learn that, up to the present time, the herring fishing along our coast has resulted in almost total failure. This is the more to be regretted, inasmuch as the consumption of this important staple of export is rapidly increasing in the United States. The people of the Southern States especially are fast discovering the value of the herring as an article of food, and the cheap rate at which it is ordinarily produced necessarily recommends it to those who have to provide sustenance for large numbers of people.

[Halifax Chronicle.

STEAMER CHAMPION ASHORE.—On Saturday evening, about 10 o'clock, the Champion ran ashore in the fog nearly opposite Hadlyme. She did not leave here for New-York until 5 P. M. on account of detention by fog up the river in the morning. Her freight will have to be discharged, before she can possibly be got off, as she ran ashore at the top of high tide. The accident may detain her two trips.

PROFESSOR DODD'S ARITHMETIC.—A highly respectable teacher in Pennsylvania writes to the publishers of this work—"My class has just completed Dodd's Arithmetic, and I am happy to say that it has more than met my expectations. I give it my decided preference over every work of the kind with which I am acquainted. The publishers believe the same to be the uniform testimony of teachers, who use the work, without exception.

Schell's Primary Lessons in Arithmetic, and Enos's Intellectual Arithmetic, are respectfully commended to the notice of teachers, as being superior to other Primary Arithmetics. PRATT, WOODFORD & CO.,
