☞ Petersville Homestead Association.—A number of persons, of small means, finding it impossible to pay the exorbitant rates now being asked for apartments and houses in this city, and believing such increase of Rents will continue for years to come, thereby compelling them to reside in small attic rooms, or damp basements in some low place in this city, endangering the lives of themselves and families, have secured a tract of land on the New-Haven Railroad, in the town of New-Rochelle, which they intend to lay out into village plots.
The land secured contains many of the most beautiful building sites in the State. The scenery is of the most romantic character—hill and dale—which must naturally insure the health and pleasure to those who settle there.
Upon this property are several Houses, Barns, &c., which, as they consider the moneyed man, in associations established for the benefit of workingmen, should not have a preponderating influence over the benefits to be derived from any improvements which may be on the property, they have determined shall not be offered for sale, but that each member shall have an equal chance to draw one of the houses without any extra charge whatever.
Public Meetings will be held every MONDAY EVENING, at 8 o'clock, at the American Hall, corner of Broadway and Grand-st. Articles of Association and circulars can be had gratis of either of the officers.

There is no more interesting and affecting chapter in French History than the story of the life, captivity, and death of Louis XVII.; and the constantly shifting scenes of revolutionary France exhibited no drama with greater variety of movement or with deeper tragic interest than the sad, changeful, though brief life of the royal Dauphin.
The death of the son of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette has been accepted by the writer as an historical fact, established by the full, minute, and well-considered testimony of De Beauchesne, beyond any chance of doubt on the part of the intelligent and honest, and even of cavil, from the skeptical and disposition.

THE ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE OF ART.—The first four numbers published have at once placed it at the head of the Magazines or any publication of the day, and no expense will be spared to render it in every respect worthy of its name—a Magazine of Art.
The Engravings preparing for future numbers are in the hands of the first Artists of America, England, France and Germany; and a Series of Tales of the most interesting description, entitled "The School of Life," written and illustrated by Anna Mary, daughter of William and Mary Howitt, will shortly appear; as well as an historical novel, entitled, "The Dead Bridal," illustrative of the most interesting period in the history of the Venetian Republic, by Jonathan Freke Slingsby, of The Dublin University Magazine, and contributions from William and Mary Howitt, Percy B. St. John, and other writers of distinction in America and Europe.
The following is a brief outline of the plan of the Magazine:
I. THE HISTORICAL DEPARTMENT will abound with picturesque representations of the most remarkable events which have occurred in this and other countries; accompanied with interesting anecdotes and details from the pen of the most eminent writers of the day. This department will contain several splendid engravings, designed by the first artists of the world, and engraved in the highest style of modern art.
II. THE MEN AND WOMEN OF THE AGE. This department will consist of beautifully executed portraits of the leading characters of the age, especially of those who figure on the stage of humanity as the world's benefactors. Each portrait will be accompanied by an interesting biographical sketch.
III. THE WONDERS OF NATURAL HISTORY, BOTANY, and other sciences, will be developed in choice engravings of Beasts, Birds, Fishes, Insects, Forest Trees, Flowers, Geological and Fossil Specimens, &c., with accompanying descriptions.
IV. THE TRIUMPHS OF ARCHITECTURAL ART will be displayed in exquisitely-finished representations of Cathedrals, Churches, Palaces and other models of ancient and modern Architectural Art.
V. THE WORKS OF THE GREAT MASTERS, selected from the principal galleries of art in the world. In general the portrait of the master will be given, accompanied with a highly finished engraved copy of his chef d'œuvre.
VI. THE SCIENTIFIC PORTIONS will be rendered highly interesting by the familiar explanations, and the numerous diagrams which will accompany each subject.
VII. MANUFACTURES. The principal manufacturing processes in use will be fully explained by minute details, and an abundance of beautiful engravings.
VIII. MACHINERY AND INVENTIONS will have due attention paid to them, and be described by numerous appropriate engravings.
IX. THE LITERARY DEPARTMENT, independently of the various articles accompanying the illustrations, will comprise original and interesting narratives, contributed by the most popular writers of
