Amanda Davison Seaver.

Mrs. Amanda Davison Seaver, wife of Senator Harley T. Seaver, died at her home on Congress avenue, on Sunday morning, Oct. 3. On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Seaver was present at the supper given by the Ladies' Aid society at the Congregational church, and was apparently in her usual health. The next morning she was stricken with acute Bright's disease and was unable to rally. Mrs. Seaver was born at Craftsbury, Oct. 21, 1861, the daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Amory Davison. She received her education in the schools and academy of her native town and also at the academies of St. Johnsbury and Morrisville. In 1884 Mr. Seaver came from North Troy to Barton and engaged in the hardware business, and on Jan. 27, 1885 was united in marriage to Miss Davison, who immediately became closely identified with the church and society work of the town and has always been a most willing and efficient worker in every good cause. An excellent musician, she was for several years organist at the Congregational church, of which she was a member. She was also for sometime a member of the choir and her rich contralto voice gave pleasure to all who heard it. She was prominent in all of the church societies, the W. C. T. U., the Eastern Star, Village Improvement society, and other local organizations, social and charitable, and for the past two years had been most prominent in the work of the Vermont Equal Suffrage association, being a member of its legislative committee and had been its corresponding secretary. She was especially interested in the schools of Barton and served one term as a member of the school board. Into all her work in church and society she brought a trained mind of unusual ability and she was recognized not only at home, but throughout the state as a woman of exceptional character, force and intellect.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved husband, and also to the daughter, Miss A. Clemma Seaver, who is now at home and the son, Amory D. Seaver, who is a senior in the University of Vermont. The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Congregational church, Rev. W. A. Warner offiiating, assisted by Rev. I. A. Ranney of the M. E. church. Interment was in the Welome O. Brown cemetery at Barton. Though the weather was most inclement the church was filled with loving relatives and friends. Members of the W. C. T. U. and O. E. S., attended in a body, as did the employees of Mr. Seaver. The church was profusely decorated with flowers testifying in their mute way to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Barton has lost a woman, whose life has been full of helpfulness and who will be missed by all who knew her.

County Agricultural Association Notes.

Every farmer should be interested in the second annual meeting of the Orleans County Agricultural association, which is to be held at Irasburg town hall on Friday, Oct. 15, beginning at 10.15 a. m. There are to be some interesting talks by speakers from outside the county, whom everyone should feel it a privilege to hear. A big dinner will be served at noon and a good sociable time is assured. Your old friend, whom you havn't seen for ever so long, will be there and you will have an opportunity to renew old acquaintances and form new ones. There is always something new and valuable to be learned from associations with your fellows in a gathering of this sort, so you will be doing no one a greater injustice than yoruself by remaining at home. Men of all other professions make a great point of gatherings pertaining to their profession. If the association has not meant all that you anticipated that it would come and let's have a good understanding in regard to the matter and see if we can't co-operate to bring about the desired needs. Last year there were over 300 farmers in attendance at tha annual meeting, this year we want even a better showing. The attendance is not limited to men but the women should share in this meeting and carry home something that their husbands could not remember

Mrs. William Sinon, whose lingering illness has been mentioned, died Friday morning. The deceased was born in Ireland, and as to age, had reached the century mark. The religion that she possessed entered into her everyday life and work, and one could not help but see it exemplified in every word and act. In the last years of her life she was confined very closely to her room and patiently bore it all, waiting for the summons of the Master to come. In the home where she lived everything that kindly, ministering hands could do was done for her. She leaves a large circle of children and grandchildren to mourn her death. The funeral was held in the Catholic church at 10 o'clock Monday forenoon. Interment in the Catholic cemetery.
