A PACK OF CARDS.

Chicago News.

You took up a spade. (This was quite long ago.)
And hope with firm will made all labor aglow.
With triumphs to come and fortunes well earned.
The struggle was hard. You were quite unconcerned
As to who fell by the way in the ebb and the flow
Of the river of life, always deep, never slow.
Unwilling to pause, love and friendship you spurned.
You took up a spade.

You took up a club. You determined to fight,
And always to crush, whether wrongful or right,
All others against you, you tried to succeed
In grasping the wealth and the power to lead.
For this you have bartered all else in your sight,
Forgetting, ignoring, in the strength of your might
That Mammon and heaven are never agreed,
You took up a club.

You took up a diamond, for up to the sun
You had climbed. The world at your feet, its prizes won,
What mattered to you those behind in the race
All clippled, disabled, you laugh in their face
And triumphantly point to what you have done.
The obstacles vanquished, the webs you had spun
For those who had dared to compete with your pace.
You took up a diamond.

Now you take up a heart—'tis the last of the cards.
You have thought until now that love only retards
The real business of life—to get riches and rule
Over men. You have said you were not such a fool
To believe, in affection, of which sing the bards
And credulous persons. Now you want the regards,
Indeed, more, all her heart. Hardened and cruel,
Turn down the heart.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

News of Interest to the Intelligencer's Farmer Readers.

The New York State Grange was organized in Syracuse in 1874, and it now has a membership of 35,000. There are 500 subordinate granges in that State. Each county is allowed one delegate for every 400 members, and one at large to the State Grange meeting.

Fruit trees cannot thrive on all kinds of exhausted soils. The trees will make a growth of leaves and wood on poor land, but they require mineral manure to perfect the fruit. Land that has been too rough for plowing may yet have spaces between the rocks where fruit trees will thrive, and is better than land that has been exhausted by long cropping.

It does not pay to delay manuring the garden until nearly the time for plowing. The better way is to manure in fall and allow the rains and melting snows to wash the soluble parts into the soil. If fall-plowed it will be still better, as the surface will be ready for planting by merely cultivating the manure under to the depth of two or three inches.

No matter what is done with it, the growing of clover can hardly fail to be beneficial to the farm. Those who sow clover seed liberally can hardly fail to find it profitable. Even when the field is to be plowed next spring, what growth the plant will make in a single season will pay the cost of the seed and putting it on.

Onions should not be put in without making sure that the land is in first-rate condition for a seed bed. Do not plow it or harrow it while wet, and make it fine and mellow before sewing any seed. Onion seed is not injured by the freezing of the ground after it is sown, nor will it do any harm if snow covers the ground even after the onions are up.

Seed potatoes are benefited by a few days' exposure to the sun before cutting them to plant. If the field is rich enough or manure enough is used to grow a good crop, there can be a larger yield obtained from planting in the drill than from hill planting. If the seed is cut to two or three eyes, they may be put about one foot apart in the drill. If pieces containing a half-dozen eyes are put in, they should be given a greater distance.

The value of salt to make crops grow does not mainly depend on the manurial elements that it contains. It makes those in the soil available. It is of little value on land poor in vegetable matter. Wherever manure has been used without due result, apply salt and note its effect. The best salt is now very cheap, and considering its greater ease in distribution, costs less on the land than the coarse lumps of impure salt mixed with earth that used to be sold for putting on land.

There is a popular notion that soft maples grow much more rapidly than those of the sugar-bearing kind called hard or rock maple. The soft maple naturally grows on low, rich, marshy ground, which may cause its greater luxuriance in such conditions. Where both have been transplanted on high ground there is little difference in growth. The hard maple is a few days later in putting forth leaves in spring, but otherwise is every way as desirable as the other, and for sugar making is much more so.

A leading New York produce receiver says that when Florida fruit has all the attention that has been given California fruit in the way of transportation facilities, there will be no chance for California oranges in the Eastern markets, as the high freight rates that are required for the special service that the perishable nature of the fruit demands, render it impossible for that fruit to profitably compete in territory that naturally belongs to the Florida product.

Potatoes may be planted as early as the ground can be made ready. Even if a late frost should cut the tops down to the ground after they have came up, it will only result in causing them to ripen up a little later. The yield is not apparently lessened, and some farmers even claim that it may be increased by such a cutting back, as the roots continue growing while the tops are putting out new sprouts. This is very doubtful, however. Of course, if the ground freezes deep enough after planting to freeze the seed in the ground, it greatly injures the crop, and it is better to plant over to that or some other crop at once.

Only fields of general uniformity in fertility can be profitably manured by plowing under green herbage grown on them. If there are some portions much richer than others the tendency is to perpetuate and increase the disparity. Where manure is applied it may be distributed as desired, putting most on the poor places. The advantage of this makes it preferable to plowing under. The barnyard manure may also be made more effective by being used as top-dressing, while in most cases the green manure must be turned under the furrow, where it is less effective.

Mr. Fairchild's References.

New York World (Dem.)

Ex-Secretary Fairchild is coming to New York to take the presidency of a trust company. He has been connected for some time with a company in Washington which, we regret to observe, was not sufficiently trusted to warrant its continuance.

The Duke of Cambridge, commander-in-chief of the British army, after a careful inspection of the fortifications at Gibralter, has declared that they are utterly inadequate for defense against modern artillery.

WHY is it so many suffer from rheumatism, aches, pains, kidney diseases, liver complaints, heart affection, etc.? It is simply because they will not come and be healed. All diseases begin from a want of iron in the blood. This want of iron makes the blood thin, watery and impure. Impure blood carries weakness and distress to every part of the body. Supply this lack of iron by using Brown's Iron Bitters, and you will soon find yourself enjoying perfect freedom from aches, pains and general ill-health. DAW

Gen. Lucius Fairchild, of Wisconsin.

Ex-Governor Fairchild was born in Kent, Portage county, Ohio, December 27, 1830. At the age of seventeen years he moved to Wisconsin, making his residence at Madison, where he remained about two years. He then went to California, where he was a prospector. In 1855 he returned to Madison and began to read law. He was admitted to the bar, and in 1859 elected Clerk of the Court of Dane county. At the outbreak of the war he organized a company and in August 1861, was made a Captain in the Regulars. He rose to be Brigadier-General. He commanded the "Iron Brigade until the end of 1863. In the State election of that year he was made Secretary of State, and assumed the office on January 1, 1864. In 1865 he was elected Governor of Wisconsin, and was twice re-elected. In 1872 he was appointed Consul to Liverpool. After having held that position six years he was transferred by President Hayes to Paris, where he was Consul-General. He remained in Paris about eighteen months, when he was appointed Minister to Spain, which office he held two years. In 1882 Mr. Fairchild was elected President of the International Exhibition of Railway Appliances, held in Chicago, 1883. He has been Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R.

Mercurial Poison.

Mercury is frequently injudiciously used by quack doctors in cases of malaria and blood poison. Its after effect is worse than the original disease. B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) contains no mercury, but will eliminate mercurial poison from the system. Write to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for book of convincing proof of its curative virtue.

A. F. Britten, Jackson, Tenn., writes: "I caught malaria in Louisiana, and when the fever at last broke, my system was saturated with poison, and I had sores in my mouth and knots on my tongue. I got two bottles B. B. B., which healed my tongue and mouth and made a new man of me."

Wm. Richmond, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "My wife could hardly see. Doctors called it syphilitic iritis. Her eyes were in a dreadful condition. Her appetite failed. She had pain in her joints and bones. Her kidneys were deranged also, and no one thought she could be cured. Dr. Gillam recommended B. B. B., which she used until her health was entirely restored."

K. P. B. Jones, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I was troubled with copper colored eruptions, loss of appetite, pain in back, aching joints, debility, emaciation, loss of hair, sore throat, and great nervousness. B. B. B. put my system in fine condition."

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at Logan & Co.'s drug store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted. 3

HOME MARKETS.

The Wholesale Prices of all the Various Commodities.

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE, WHEELING, Tuesday, March 12.

Quite a number of important changes are made in our quotations of this week as compared with those last reported. A review of the present situation in all departments is about as follows: The wheat market continues dull; local millers are well stocked up, and for the time are indifferent about buying. Ear corn continues dull, while shell is in better demand and firmer. The receipts of hay have fallen off somewhat, but prices are no better. The flour market is weak in sympathy with wheat, and buyers, in expectation of lower prices, are buying only as their immediate wants require.

The feature of the grocery market during the past year has been the hardening tendency of the values of coffees and sugars. The bullish tendency of the sugar market in all parts of the world has induced refiners to replenish their stocks more freely, with the result of establishing a pronounced advance in prices. The value of coffee has been moving steadily upward—not, however, because of any material change in the statistical position of supplies, but on account of the increasing bullish sentiment that has prevailed, resulting in an active covering of the short interest. A good many conservative authorities question whether present conditions warrant the prices now current. Molasses has stiffened up with the advance in sugar. Refined sugars are firm. Spices quiet. Syrups steady. New Orleans open kettle molasses firmer. Mixed molasses steady. Rice firm. Canned goods quiet.

PRODUCE AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Nothing of interest has been developed in produce lines. This week starts out more quietly than last. While it is too early in the week to furnish any reliable facts as to trade in country produce lines, the indications are of a somber cast. The time has come when the spring trade should begin to open up. So far it does not open worth a cent. In the memory of the oldest commission merchants there has been no time when potatoes, onions, cabbage and turnips were as low and dull at this time of the year. The feeling of the handlers of eggs is one of uncertainty, and as receipts continue good buying as a rule is for immediate wants only. If receipts would run light for a few weeks chance would be better for the surplus to be reduced, and with increased demand for Lent and Easter trade prices would likely improve. But if no decrease in receipts chances are prices will not do much better and may be lower. The demand for choice butter is active and more money is being paid for that article here than in any other market. Poultry of all kinds is in demand.
