The Republic comes down like "a thousand of bricks" upon a wild-cat rag-money concern at the capital, styled the "United States Bank." Read:

A concern called "The Bank of the United States," located on Pennsylvania Avenue, near Tenth street, advertises a "list of banks" the notes of which are "received by it on deposit at par and under;" but we presume the banking paper of the city has not yet found its way there, for yesterday morning a gentleman presented at the counter two hundred one dollar bills of its own issue for redemption, which was refused on the ground of "no funds." The notes are dated "Washington, November, 1852," yet the gentleman was told that they were redeemable in New York—in that very city from which they were sent to an agent here for collection.

"The Bank of the United States" makes a big display (like a cane show) on the outside, its name being glaringly presented in large gilt letters on a white marble ground. Piles of gold, and silver, and current bills do not, however, ornament its counter, and the concern is not open one half the usual business hours. Comment is unnecessary.

We learn from the same paper that a serious accident occurred on the afternoon of the 29th, about three miles from the city, to Mrs. Brent, widow of Col. Wm. Brent, her daughter Emily, and son Edward. They were riding over the narrow bridge at Piney Branch, on the line of the plank road, when the body of the carriage became detached from its fastenings, and turned over into the shallow water below—a distance of twelve or fifteen feet—leaving the horses standing above. The young lady's scalp was badly torn, accompanied by a contusion of the head; Mrs. Brent was similarly injured, and her skull bone denuded; Edward was the more injured of the three, and was suffering from a slight concussion of the brain. The body of the carriage was broken in pieces.

From Philadelphia.—A motion for a new trial in the Federal street murder case has been made by Mr. Doran, counsel for Spring. The ground upon which the motion was made was that one of the jury who tried Spring passed by the name of Bernard Corr, when his real name was Bernard McQuillan. Corr had hired him to attend as his substitute, and he duly answered to that name. This is a novel question, but the case can not be taken to the Supreme Court, as the result of the lower Court is all correct. The motion was to have come up for argument and evidence on the 29th. The affair has created much excitement.

In consequence of this movement on the part of the elder Spring's counsel, Arthur Spring, jr., was, by direction of the proper authority, re-committed to the debtor's apartment of the Moyamensing prison to await the result.

Young Spring has made further developments, implicating his wretched father in other contemplated murders and robberies.

He says that he went, some time since, to Mr. Marcey's fruit stand, corner of Eighth and Market streets, with the intention of killing Mr. M., who was known to be alone. While talking with the lad, he managed to slip a heavy weight into his pocket, with which to accomplish his fiendish design; but was frustrated by a purchaser entering the store.

Arthur Spring, the convicted murderer, has manifested no disposition to make confession of his guilt. He asserts his innocence, and accuses his son of the murder and refers to him, when asked what has become of the gold of which the trunk of Mrs. Lynch was plundered. None of the gold has yet been discovered.

Mr. Lynch remains at the Adelphi street Station-house where he receives every attention at the hands of the officers stationed there. He sensibly feels his loss, and at times is completely overpowered with grief. He has resisted every effort to induce him to visit the scene of the horrible tragedy, and he has authorized the Marshal to sell by auction the household goods belonging to him.

Sam Morton, the alleged Portsmouth (Va.) bank robber, has been arrested. He entered in Philadelphia on the 25th ult., and upon Officer Mills attempting to arrest him, he deliberately fired a pistol at him, inflicting a severe wound on the hand. Two other officers, however, immediately secured him, although he endeavored to shoot each of them. In default of $20,000 bail he was committed.

On the 26th ult., a well-known merchant of Winchester, Virginia, named Peter Miller, died suddenly in the rear part of the store of J. Oliver Boyd & Co., Market street. Mr. M. had been making a purchase of some goods, when he walked back into the yard. His long absence induced some one in the store to look for him, when he was found dead, having expired from apoplexy.

The South Penn Hose and Hope Engine companies have been ordered out of service for six months, for rioting.

Peter Bousall, Esq., an old citizen, died on the 26th.

From New York.—Strikes for higher wages appear to be the order of the day in Gotham. On the evening of the 29th ult., an adjourned meeting of the Caulkers and Shipwrights was held, at which considerable enthusiasm prevailed. It was finally resolved that on Monday the 28th, each and every man in that business should notify his employer that he expects $2 50 per day, and if it is not given, he shall stop work. The meeting of the Shipwrights was characterized by great decorum and judicious action. It was moved and carried that they demand an increase of wages. They designated the 1st of May as the time for the increase to begin. The House Carpenters held a meeting, which was so thinly attended that no decisive action was had.

We see by the tone of the Catholic and Protestant presses of the city, that the appearance of Father Gavazzi, as a lecturer upon the practices of the Church of Rome, is to lead to a good deal of agitation, and, perhaps to something bordering upon excitement.

On the 26th, a young man named R. Dayohinick, died from a contusion on the right temple, brought on by sparring.

The charge against Mr. E. Mills, the owner of the steamship Uncle Sam, of being concerned in the issue of fraudulent California tickets, has been dismissed, as altogether without foundation.

Bowen & McNamee have sold their marble dry-goods establishment to a new banking concern. The price is said to be $285,000. Four years since the same property was purchased for $75,000.

The arrangements for the internal management of the Crystal Palace exhibition are very nearly completed. The general superintendence has been confided to Captain Dupont and Captain Davis, of the Navy.

A stranger, named Lee, committed suicide at the Eagle Hotel, on Saturday, by taking a dose of strychnine.

The executive committee of the American Tract Society has completed the appropriation of $36,000 for operations in foreign countries.

Distressing Railroad Accident.

SEVEN PERSONS KILLED AND SEVERAL SERIOUSLY INJURED.

We find in the Baltimore papers of the 29th ult., full particulars of the dreadful accident which happened on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 16 miles miles west of Cumberland, at 5 P. M., Sunday, the 27th ult. The train was from Wheeling, going in the direction of Baltimore. It consisted of a baggage car and three passenger cars; and was in charge of the most cautious and skillful conductors on the road. The cars were drawn by one large and powerful engine. When passing the 80-feet filling on section 76, and descending a curved grade of 116 feet to Great River, the large engine stalled the rails binding the rails to the chesnut cross-ties. All the cars got over safely except the two last passenger cars, which, by the parting of the track, were thrown down the river side, falling a distance of over 100 feet, and making four somersets in their fearful descent. The heavy trucks of the cars caused the loss of life by crushing the passengers.

Of some forty persons in the two cars, the following were killed: David Holt, of the firm of Holt & Maltby, Baltimore; Augustus Rollo, supposed to be from South Carolina; Louis Doline, a French emigrant, returning home from California; Richard Clayton, of Wellsville, Va; a young lady and middle aged gentleman, supposed to be from Kentucky; —— Small, stepson of Robert Murray, a Supervisor of the Railroad, and a child of Mr. Glass, of St. Louis. Mr. Glass and lady were both severely injured. The gentleman mentioned above, supposed to be from Kentucky, was afterwards ascertained to be Dr. Cadwallader, of Louisville, and the young lady, Miss ——, of Indiana, on her way to visit friends in Philadelphia. She was instantly killed. Dr. Cadwallader was not killed, but may recover.

The following is a list of the wounded, as telegraphed to the Baltimore papers:

[illegible]

The Boston Transcript learns that Mr. T. F. Ritchie, the well-known editor of the Richmond Enquirer, will soon lead to the hymenial altar, the distinguished actress and estimable woman, Mrs. Mowatt. We know not which party ought to be more the subject of congratulation; but suppose, of course, that it must be the gentleman. It is Mrs. M.'s wish to take a farewell leave of the stage in our principal cities. She owes this to the many warm friends whom she has made in her histrionic career, and we hope that her "liege lord that is to be," will interpose no objection. Mrs. M. will carry with her into private life, not only the admiration of those whom her professional success has made her friends, but the benedictions of hundreds whom her benevolence has cheered and assisted.

It appears that the Brazilian slave trade has become nearly extinct. This is mainly due to the measures of the Brazilian Government itself, which, of late, has become sincerely and resolutely in earnest to suppress the traffic. The importation of slaves into Brazil in 1850, amounted to 23,000, and in 1851 to only 3200, of which 1000 were captured by Brazilian cruisers and declared free. During the past year, one vessel, and one only, it is said, is known to have landed a cargo of slaves on the coast of Brazil; and this occurred last June. The Brazilian Government deals very summarily with the slave traders.

An Office-holder in Extremis.—The Boston mail is responsible for the following picture of an office-holder at bay:

"Gen. Peaslee, the newly appointed Collector of Boston, is in a 'state of siege.' No less than fifteen hundred ravenous applicants for the two hundred offices in his gift had at last accounts driven him to the confines of a single bedded room in the Tremont House, in the fourth story. One of Hobbs' patent locks was yesterday put on the door."

Boots and Shoes.—There is great activity in this branch of trade in New York. An active export demand is going on to the West Indies, Australia, Southern and Central America, as well as California. Stocks are very low—unusually so. The Australia demand for mining shoes, made from heavy weights of hemlock sole leather, is greatly on the increase.

The Wheat Crop.—The Baltimore County Whig says: "The young wheat does not seem, as a general thing, very promising; we shall make, to judge from appearances, scarcely an average crop."

Iowa Marble.—The block of marble from Iowa for the Washington Monument has reached St. Louis on the Kate Kearney. It weighs 2800 pounds.

Touching.—The following lines were taken from the cell of a convict now in Sing Sing Prison, under sentence for life:

The last golden beam of the sunlight has fled,
It kissed my pale cheek in my dark lonely cell,
And I thought of my mother who sleeps with the dead,
And brothers and sisters, and home where they dwell;
I fell on my couch and I wept bitter tears—
(For a convict can weep o'er the bright scenes of youth)
And the loss of loved ones of earlier years,
Was told in the still, dying whispers of truth.

I thought of the hours when my heart was as pure
As the tear drops that fell on the stones of my floor,
And the bride of my youth, whose love none was truer,
And her grief and her death—oh, what could be more!
I thought of all these as that last golden beam
Left my cell and the world, on its mission forever,
And I tried to believe 'twas a horrible dream,
From which I'd awake—but ah, never, no never!

Local Intelligence.

Riot on the Levee—Probable Murder.—Late in the afternoon yesterday a riot occurred on the Levee, in the First District, in which an unknown man was so badly cut with a knife that his life is despaired of. He had a severe wound in the abdomen, from which his bowels protruded. He was taken to the Charity Hospital in a dying state. A man named James Walking, and another named Robert T. Smith were arrested for being concerned in the affray. The latter is suspected of having stabbed the wounded man. The full particulars of the affair have not yet transpired.

Destructive Fire.—About five o'clock yesterday, a fire broke out on Liberty street, in the First District. On this street, four or five frame buildings were destroyed. The wind was at the time blowing a brisk gale from the west, which blowing the cinders to a great distance, the flames were communicated across three blocks, to a planing mill and lumber yard on Hercules street. Here a vast amount of property was destroyed, of which no accurate estimate can be made. The wind still blowing a gale, the fire crossed Hercules street and consumed several buildings. After infinite effort on the part of the fire department, the flames were partially subdued and their further progress prevented. The extent of the damage is not known, although it is ascertained to be very large.

A CARD.—My thanks are due the Fire Department, and particularly Companies Nos. 14 and 20, for their gallant and efficient services last evening, at the fire on Calliope street.

Worms Destroy More Children

That any thing else. This, many persons are not aware of. That Worms should prove so destructive to life cannot be a matter of surprise. To suppose that such animals could exist in the stomach and bowels, without injury to the individual, is preposterous in the extreme. Most Worms select for their food the chyle, the substance from which blood is formed—the consequence is that the person is always weakly and delicate, and has a voracious appetite, accompanied with many other symptoms such as disturbed sleep, pain in the stomach, occasional headache, grinding the teeth, picking the nose, bad breath, etc.

Parents, whose children present any of the above symptoms, or who have reason to believe that their children are affected with Worms, should at once use which will never fail to destroy these animals, and thus prevent the evils attending their existence in the bowels. It is equally applicable to adults as to children and may be administered with perfect safety to the most delicate. We confidently recommend it to all, knowing it to be a superior remedy. It requires but a trial to convince all of this.
