VOL. XIV.....No. 4,148. NEW-YORK, FRIDAY, AUGUST 4, 1854. PRICE TWO CENTS.

"A Charming Story."
VARA; Or, THE CHILD OF ADOPTION. 12mo. $1.
"It is a deeply interesting story. We hope every novel-reading young lady will procure and attentively read it. She will be made wiser and better by so doing, and will find it contains all the interest of the wildest romance." [Presbyterian Herald.
"Its incidents are graphically and naturally told." [Hampshire Herald.
"There has no volume fallen into our hands for years with which we have been more interested." [Sandy Hill Herald.
"The writer is equally at home amid the picturesque scenes of the Pacific Isles, and the more familiar events of an American dwelling." [South Baptist.
"An affecting story."
"A charming story; we read it with unbounded satisfaction." [Lit. Standard.
"Vara is of the same type as the gentle Eva." [Democrat.
"After perusing 'Vara' the heart seems hallowed with a holy spirit." [Mercantile Guide.
"One of the most charming books we have read in a long time, written in a most attractive style, and inculcating valuable Christian lessons." [Religious Herald.
"The tale is told in a strain of unaffected simplicity." [Annapolis.
"It is not often we become so deeply absorbed in a volume as we did in this book." [St. Louis Presbyterian.
"This book appears in the world of letters with nothing to designate its parentage, and depending solely on its intrinsic merits for its support. Whoever may be its parent, however, has no cause to blush for his offspring. It is one of those books for which the present day is peculiarly noted; books which inculcate not only morality, but religion,—deep, pure, and heartfelt religion; religion as our Savior intended it should be, free from sectarianism, phraseism, or dogmatism; a religion which is seated in the heart, which has come from above, and which gives to the happy and blessed possessor, not only a charm and an attraction inexpressible, but peace and joy which no worldly evil can destroy, and no worldly sorrow overshadow." [Chicago Tribune.
"We predict for this book a very large sale. It is one of peculiar interest, possessing all the attractions of a romance, and at the same time inculcating a wholesome moral, in chaste, lively and graphic language." [Daily News.
"As a work of art, we place it high. Independently of any aim of plot, the language is both chaste and ornate, frequently pathetic, often humorous. The characters are drawn with great skill and we can find originals in our mind who seem to be here carefully pictured. Here are men of the world thinking like these worldly men, and aptly speaking their language; Yankees to the life; rocky strutting and boasting; belles discussing fashions and follies; backs strutting and bowing; no degenerotype has portrayed the features more grossly." [Newark Daily.
"A charming volume, we commend it without reserve." [Ch'n. Intelligencer.
"A tale of exquisite pathos." [Worcester.
"Written with remarkable spirit." [Presbyterian.
"The book will be found profitable in every pious family." [Ch. Chronicle.
"A pure and evangelical spirit runs through the entire work." [Observer.
"A very entertaining and elegant book." [Advocate.
"The author is equally at home amid the picturesque scenes of the Pacific Isles and the more familiar events of an American dwelling." [South Baptist.
"We do not wonder that this work has had such a great sale. It contains the true elements of popularity—an appeal to the deepest and tenderest feelings of our nature.....If this is the first work of the author, we trust it will not be the last. One who can write so well should not be idle." [Cambridge Chronicle.
"It is the history of an adopted child, and such a history as must soften the heart and awaken the pity of every reader. It is a story, and yet a sermon. Taking the little Vara by the hand, and leading her through the corridors of an eventful life, it leaves upon the mind a genial and lasting impression which will prove of service. We hope to see it circulated widely." [Buffalo Express.

JUST PUBLISHED—By PUDNEY & RUSSELL, No. 79 John-st., New-York:
NA MOTU;
Or, Reef Rovings in the South Seas.
With Maps of the Sandwich and Society Islands, and Twelve Elegant Illustrations. Price $1 25.
This work gives the personal adventures of the author in the Pacific, which extend over a period of five years. It is divided into three parts, to which is subjoined a valuable and interesting Appendix.
Part I, which may be regarded as introductory to the narrative that follows, records six months' experience on board an American whaler.
Parts II and III, containing the more material subjects of this narrative, give a graphic description of a free-and-easy life at the Sandwich, the Georgian and Society Islands. Glowing descriptions of romantic scenery, rambles through palm-groves, yachting among isles, corollings from reefs and lagoons, evergreen valleys, snow-capped mountains and volcanoes, transport in romantic adventure, danger to the nerve sides and sweet scented gales of the tropics. Points of character have been sketched in bold outline, and the lights and shadows of Polynesian life are vividly portrayed, embracing the feasts and pastimes of the natives, their battles, mythology, and all the more prominent features of semi-barbaric life. An interesting chapter on Missions has also been appended, and though the whole plot is presented in a fascinating dress, it will be found choice alike in sentiment and diction. Illustrated therefore, both in connection and in its Appendix and Illustrations, it will prove a valuable addition to our literature of the Pacific.
With respect to the Appendix, its first portion is "A Glance at the Present Condition of Polynesia" exhibiting, in a concise form, the Geography and Classification of Groups—Their Structure—Natural Productions—Populations—Physical Appearance and Moral Capacity of the Native—Their Habits and Language—Government and Social Condition—Resources and Relations with the Civilized World, and Steam Navigation of the Pacific—in short, everything of interest pertaining to this division of Oceanica.
Appendix II—The Island Kingdom of the North Pacific.
Appendix III—The French in the Pacific.
Appendix IV—"American Whaling Interests in the Pacific," includes valuable statistics pertaining to this great maritime branch of our commerce. Whaling is classified and cruising grounds are described; reference is also made to the relations of the Sperm to that of our merchant marine, and to the condition of American seamen in this event, their relations to masters and Consuls, and their wants.
In illustration of the above, the work contains a Map of the Sandwich and one of the Georgian and Society Islands; also twelve elegant Tinted Engravings of Scenery in the South Seas, in the execution of which artistic merit and a faithful delineation of the original views taken by the author on the spot have been equally combined.
In connection with the Author's press of the work, the publishers have spared no pains to render it one of the most popular and attractive books of the kind ever published.

LIPPINCOTT, GRAMBO & Co., PHILADELPHIA,

THE MEMOIRS OF JOSEPH JOHN GURNEY.—Memoirs of Joseph John Gurney, from his Journal and Correspondence. Edited by J. Bevan Braithwaite. 2 vols., 12mo. Price, $2 50.
THE METALLIC WEALTH OF THE UNITED STATES, Described and Compared with that of other countries. By J. D. Whitney. In one vol., royal 8vo.
The design of this work is to give a concise view of the principal mining regions of the world, together with a more detailed account of the resources of this country in the metals and their ores, and the present state of the development of our mining interests. For this purpose, after a few pages of preliminary matter, in which the mode of occurrence of metalliferous ores and the general principles on which mining is conducted, are discussed and explained, each metal is taken up and treated under the following heads:
1st. Its Mineralogical Occurrence.
2d. Its Geological Mode of Occurrence.
3d. The Distribution of its Ores in Foreign Countries.
4th. The Distribution of its Ores in this Country.
Full descriptions of the principal mines will be given, accompanied by sections and other illustrations.

CUBA.—IMPORTANT and AUTHENTIC WORK FOR THE PRESENT TIME.
HISTORY OF CUBA
ITS PAST AND PRESENT.
Giving a Political, Historical and Statistical Account of the Island from its first discovery to the present day. By Maturin M. Ballou. Comprised in one volume, Duodecimo, finely illustrated, with Engravings from original drawings taken on the Island.
In depicting the Manners, Customs, Peculiarities, Products and Local Characteristics of the Island of Cuba, the author has been guided by personal observation, aided by copious notes taken on the spot, and among the people he describes.
The work is fresh in its character, and bring the history of the island up to the present hour, showing in a clear, impartial light, its great wealth and political importance, the extraordinary oppression and taxation under which it has suffered, the fertility of its soil, and the glory of its fruits and dyewoods, and a statistical record of its staple productions and a history of its slave trade and slave population.
Mr. Ballou spent several months upon the Island, and with his habits of study and reflection, must have obtained copious materials, which he is well qualified to convert into an interesting and valuable work." [Boston Journal.
