A late number of the Cumberland, Maryland, Journal relates the following singular occurrence:

"On Wednesday of last week the dead body of a young man was found in the Potomac river, near the Big Tunnel, on the Chesepeake and Ohio canal. From a fracture of the skull and other injuries he was supposed to have been dealt foully with. Various surmises as to the identity of the corpse were entertained, when Capt. Henry Trouman, of the Cumberland Night Watch, became convinced that it was the body of his son James, who had been at work in the vicinity, and was missing at the time. A corner's jury was summoned from Cumberland, and the body was fully identified by Capt. T. and others as that of his son. Particular marks were pointed out by the distressed father, and there seemed not the slightest doubt on the subject. The jury returned an unanimous verdict based upon the fact as thus set forth.

"The body was consequently decently interred by Capt. T., who forthwith arrayed himself in the garb of mourning, and engaged the services of a minister of the Gospel to preach a funeral discourse on the sad occasion. It turned out, however, that on Sunday morning last the dead son of Capt. Troutman walked up to his astonished father, and informed him that he was not dead! The mingled surprise and delight of he father may be imagined. The fact is the young man had been at work in another direction, and upon hearing of his reported demise returned to Cumberland to relieve the apprehensions of his parents.

Vanity of Vanities--All is Vanity.

This estimate of all earthly acquirements and sensual enjoyments is finely illustrated by Mr. Addison. "When I look upon the tombs of the great," says he, "every emotion of envy dies in me; when I read the epitaphs of the beautiful every inordinate desire goes out; when I meet with the griefs of parents upon a tomb-stone, my heart melts with compassion; when I see the tombs of the parents themselves, I consider the vanity of greiving for those whom we must quickly follow; when I see kings lying by those who deposed them; when I consider rival wits placed side by side, or the holy men that divided the world with their contests and disputes, I reflect, with sorrow and astonishment, on the competitions, factions, and debates of mankind. When I read the several dates of the tombs of some that died yesterday, and some six hundred years ago, I consider that great day when we shall all of us be cotemporaries, and make our appearance together."

Steamboat Racing.

We understand that on the last trip of the steamboat "Virginia," of the Union Line, the "Telegraph No. 3" attempted to run by her, while under headway, between Louisville and Cincinnati, keeping within a few yards of her for several miles, and once or twice throwing herself against the Virginia. Although unsuccessful in the attempt, she probably exposed the passengers to great danger of an explosion, and created some clamor among the passengers of the other vessel. At length the Virginia stopped her engine and let the Telegraph run ahead, and then the latter boat landed to 'pump up,' and eventually arrived at Cincinnati about an hour and a half after the Virginia. We are glad to learn that the officers of the Virginia acted with so much prudence in the affair.—Wheeling Argus.

A tunnel through the Alps is proposed the magnitude of which exceeds belief

Mr. Heywood has in his possession a report of Chevalier Mans, the Engineer of the proposed Alps Tunnel. It is at Mt. Cenis. The mountain rises 5,000 feet above the line of the tunnel, and it is 7 9-10 miles long. The grade of the tunel is all to be one way, and it is to be 105 feet to the mile. It is proposed to do the work by machinery---to take the stone out in blocks. The power used is water power, there being a brook at each end of the tunnel. Mr. Mans speaks with entire confilence of going through with the tunnel in five years, and estimate the cost at 13,804,943 francs.

Mail Robberies.

The Gallipolis Journal informs us that recently a package of $300 that was forwarded by a merchant at Pomeroy to Mr. Henkin, at Gallipolis, was stolen between the two points. Part of the money was found in front of the post office at Middleport.

John Hough Esq., of this City a short time ago had $90 abstracted from a letter containing $200—leaving $110 in the letter untouched—sent him from Fairfield county, in this State.

The abstraction of money from letters is becoming a little two frequent to be agreeable. Extreme caution should be observed in mailing money.—Chil. Adv.

ROBBERY OF THE FOREIGN MAIL AT NEW YORK.—For some time past, the foreign letters particularly from Germany received at the New York postoffice have been pilferd of their contents.

Several foreign Governments having lately made complaints in relation to those robberies, Mr. Holbrook a special agent of the post office Department was directed to endeavor to ferret out the depredator, and on Thursday, at his instance Theodore A. Rossie, a clerk in the foreign letter department of the office, was arrested charged with taking a quarter eagle and a gold ring from two letters which had been placed there as a decoy. It is said that money has been missing from as many as twenty in a single mail.

DICKENS,S

HOUSEHOLD WORDS,

must sooner or later prove to be in the United States, what it is in England, the most popular periodical published.

It is an exact reprint of the English Edition, 32 pages 8vo., with several pages of original matter, statistics, &c., by the American Editor, and forms two elegant volumes every year of permament value for every library. The present volume commenced in November, but subscriptions may be commenced any time. The back numbers may be had of the publishers.

We subjo n a few of the very many notices constantly received from the Press, in every quarter of the Union.

"There are few publications that we take more solid pleasure in reading than the Household Words. We are not naturally melancholy; but, if we were, a permanent cure could easily be effected by spending an occasional hour over this most excellent work."

"The original work has attained such an unprecedented popularity, both in England and this country, as to render any commendation of it superfluous. For variety and richness of information, vivacity of style, and genial tone of feeling, it has no rival in English periodical literature."

"Charles Dickens has gained a prominent place among English writers, and is almost reckoned the originator of a distinct 'school' in literature. He has hit upon a popular vein, which is always a profitable one. He has been extensively read. We have never felt called upon to be much of a fiction reader, but we confess in our 'young days' to have pored over the 'Pickwick Papers,' and 'Oliver Twist,' and 'David Copperfield,' not only without injury, but with profit. He sketches character in structively, and inculcates humane and useful lessons in many a trifle. 'Household Words,' however, is not fictitious in its character, but is matter of fact, and full of practical wisdom."

"It is one of the most welcome weekly visitants to our table. Its well printed pages are inviting, and never fail to reward the reader. It contains 32 pages weekly, and is furnished at $1,50 to clubs of ten. We understand that a club is now forming in town, and those who desire to introduce valuable and instructive reading, of the most interesting character; into their families, should not fail to improve the opportunity thus presented."

Ten " "	15 00

R. E. SELLERS

MUCH USED AND HIGHLY POPULAR

FAMILY MEDICINES.

SELLERS' CELEBRATED

LIVER PILLS,

Which stand Unrequaled by any Medicine known for the Cure of Liver Complaints and other Diseases resarting from a deranged state of the Liver.

This Medicine has been in public use about fifteen years, and has acquired a reputation for curing the Liver Complaint which has never been equalled by any remedy heretofore offered to the public.

As an Anti-Bilious or Purgative Pill, they are unsurpassed, and are the original, only true and genuine Liver Pills.

THE subscriber would feel aggrieved to be even suspected of the intention to obtain for the Liver Pill any unfair advantage of the bublic, or of seeking for it any share of confidence to which it has not a just and full claim.

When he undertook to prepare and vend this medicine, (aside from the regular practice, to which he always defers,) no pill was known to the public having any fair pretensions to give relief in diseases of the liver.

For this disease it had long been successfully employed in private practice, and was given to the public with such directions and precautions as might render it of extensive benefit; and the result of its employment has fully sustained its reputation, and increased his confidence in its just claims to be regarded as the only pill deserving to be called "THE LIVER PILL."

Since "the Liver Pill" has been submitted to public attention, the whole country has been almost broacest with pills of varied names and almost universal pretensions. The intelligent public will draw its own inferences from the means and extraordinary efforts pursued to make these operations prolific; we confidentialy expect "the Liver Pill' to survive them all. Content with this assurance, we shall continue to pursue that course, and hold that language respecting them, which we can justify to our own sense of duty and to the good sense of the public, having no wish to impose upon the ignorant; or tax the credulous for our pencuniary benefit.

R. E. SELLERS.

Mr. R. E. Sellers, DEAR SIR. We have sold a large amount of your popular family medicines The increased demand for them, testifies to their general use. They seem to give general satisfaction. Yours, MOXLEY & BARBER.

For several years past I have sold the various preparations of Dr. R. E. Sellers' both at wholesale and Retail, and they have with scarcely an exception, given satisfaction to the purchasers. Judging from the reports of those who have used them and what I have seen of their effect, I consider them excellent medicines.
Yours, J. P. SHAW, Druggist, Ironton, O.

Mr. Shaw, sir,

I feel it a duty that I owe to my fellow sufferers, to state that I have experienced great relief from the use of Dr. Sellers Liver Pills. I have suffered severely with the liver complaint for several years, so much so that both myself and friends have thought that I could not survive but a short time. Much money had been expended in the endeavor to procure relief from the regular physicians, but all in vain—as a last resort on the recommendation of my brother, I procured some of Sellers Liver Pills at your store, and found great relief from their use, and in the continued use of them since I have almost entirely recovered my health.
HANNAH COMPSTON.

I am the husband of Hannah Compston---I think Sellers Pills a superior medicine, and believe that they were the means of saving my wifes life.
