Hear These Five
At CHAUTAUQUA

JOHN G. WOOLLEY, known everywhere as "the greatest orator in America." His lecture tour of the world ten years ago is known today as perhaps the most notable speaking tour any man ever made. He has lectured since 1888 and comes on today with the full strength of a man of great wisdom and remarkable understanding. You will always be proud to say you heard John G. Woolley, the dean of the American platform. He will be on our Chautauqua program this summer. He will give his world famous lecture, "A Sower." He will speak on the fifth day.

JUDGE MANFORD SCHOONOVER, former judge of the Kansas Court of Appeals, known and loved throughout the central west as a man devoted to high principles and high ideals. Every Schoonover lecture is a distinct "uplift." At a hundred Chautauquas where he lectured last summer Chautauquans everywhere said, "We want Judge Schoonover back." Instead of going back to those towns, he is going over another circuit, so that a larger number can have the chance of hearing him. He will come on the fourth day.

THOMAS BROOKS FLETCHER, known through the Lyceum as a "dramatic orator." He has three lectures that have been heard by thousands: "The Martyrdom of Fools," "The Tragedies of the Unprepared" and "Modern Judas." His subject will be announced the day of his arrival. The Lyceum has paid Fletcher more than $150,000 for the first of these. It is recognized everywhere as "standard." It is one of the great masterpieces of the Lyceum and Chautauqua. He speaks the sixth day.

ROY B. GUILD will discuss problems of the church for the help of the church layman and the churchman. He was secretary of the Men and Religion Forward Movement which swept over the country with such astounding effect a few months ago. He is successor to Chas. M. Sheldon and ranks as one of the most aggressive church men of the age. A brilliant ortor and, what is more important, a forceful talker who deals with live issues and practical problems in church affairs. Hear Mr. Guild on the last day.

UEL W. LAMKIN on "The School and the People." He deals with problems of public education, not to tear down any system, but to aid in making more efficient the system we have. A school man of authority who speaks from experience. His address will be entirely along constructive lines, and he will hold conferences with school boards, schoolteachers and school patrons interested in school problems.
