New York Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, May 10....FOREIGN DRY GOODS—Trade is dull, and importers are clearing out such goods as much of necessity he sold the present season; the stocks are greatly reduced; and notwithstanding the large importations the amount of spring goods to be carried over is small; the country absorbs an immense importation without difficulty.

The large operations at auction are composed of rejected articles at private sale; very few staples are offered at public sale.

Some of the sharpest Boston jobbers are making what would have been termed liberal offers, twelve months since, for autumn goods; there seems to be a general impression that goods will continue to advance, and that selling must be strong when the jobbers are willing to purchase so far ahead of their actual wants. Staple goods of all kinds are very firm; Silk Cotton and Woolen, although this last are the firmer of the three. Heavy Woolens are very firm.

DOMESTIC DRY GOODS—Have been in fair request for the season; prices are well supported, and in some instances a slight advance has been obtained. Woolen goods are firm, without any probability of declining this year. Flannels and Blankets are firm, medium and common qualities of the latter are in light supply and active demand. The clothing trade have commenced operations for the Fall trade, consequently there has been a little more inquiry for Cloths, and prices are well supported.

The reduced stock gave more confidence to holders....BREADSTUFFS—Flour during the week had advanced 2d ⅌ bbl, with large sales to the home trade....Wheat had advanced 1d ⅌ 70 lbs.
