DAILY CRESCENT.

MIGRATION.—Wisconsin is absorbing the great body of the migration to such an extent that Michigan finds herself rather neglected, and the papers of that State are discussing means for diverting the stream of settlers to their own vacant lands. According to the Detroit Free Press, much of the popularity of Wisconsin with emigrants is to be ascribed to the judicious laws passed by the Legislature of that State to encourage emigration thither. The Detroit Free Press says that 200 Norwegians passed through Buffalo from Quebec a few days ago, on their way to Wisconsin.

A few days ago a gentleman was riding over the old Cambridge bridge at Boston, on the top of an omnibus, when the collector jumped on and demanded his fare. He presented a one dollar bill on a New York bank, which was refused. "You must change me a larger bill, then," remarked the gentleman, and took from his wallet a fifty dollar bill on the Mechanics' Bank, Boston. Just at that second, a whirl of wind took the bill and carried it into the air, and then it dropped into the water. The coach was stopped and a boat procured, and the whole company spent some time in looking for the bill, but it was not recovered.

In the last number of Wilmer & Smith's European Times, it is stated that the prevailing conviction is, that but for the state of politics in the East of Europe, they should now have a higher range of prices in cotton, yarns and goods; and that, if a peaceful settlement should be speedily effected, a rise must ensue. The paper adds:

"It is now certain that the operatives in this district will succeed both in obtaining some advance of wages and effecting a general restriction of the hours of labor to six o'clock in the evening, and this must tend to higher prices for the produce of our mills, though, as to the raw material, its operation will be in the contrary direction. At the termination of the week's notice, all the mills at Stockport, that were in the Employers' Association, ceased operation, and are now closed. Eight or ten employers, mostly small ones, who were not in the Union, have paid the required advance of ten per cent. In this town some large spinners have effected a compromise. At Preston the masters are under notice. In fact the movement is in active progress in all directions."

COMMERCIAL SUMMARY.

Boston Dry Goods Market.

BOSTON, July 2.—DRY GOODS TRADE.—The trade in Cotton Goods the past week has presented a very quiet appearance. The warm weather and the near approach of our National Anniversary has had a tendency to help matters very much. The sales from Boston to which we have had occasion to refer in previous reports, are applicable to all the leading styles of goods. The stock is now small, and every thing indicates full prices during the fall trade. Brown Sheetings outside and previous prices the article are taken up freely, at not less than 6½c cash. Bleached Sheetings are scarce, and sell at full prices. Drills continue very quiet, but holders are firm at 8c for Brown, 8½c for Bleached, and 9½c for Blue. Print Cloths continue firm, and drawed at our highest figure. Prints are selling at quoted rates, with a steady demand. Jeans, Denims, Stripes, Ticks and Osnaburgs remain firm and stocks small. De Laines are not yet opened to the trade. Ginghams are selling at 10½@11c, and are in good demand.

BOOTS AND SHOES—The Boot and Shoe trade is becoming more active as the season advances. Buyers from the South and West are now daily arriving, and we look for quite an active trade after the 4th. The supply of goods, though small, embraces all kinds of seasonable descriptions, and is fully equal to the wants of the market at present; and, as manufacturers are fully employed, fresh goods will be arriving every week in considerable quantities. In prices we have no change to notice. The market is very firm, with rather an upward tendency. Besides the active demand anticipated during the season from the South and West, shipments to California will still be pushed forward to some extent, notwithstanding the unfavorable advices received from there for several months past. The shipments the past week to that market have been large, comprising 1512 cases from this port and 441 cases from New York.
