The Plan of the Author in Writing this Series of Books.

Throughout these tales the plan has been to present a picture of ordinary life, with its small daily events, its pleasures, and its trials, so as to draw out its capabilities of being turned to the best account; great events such as be fall only a few are therefore excluded and in the hope of helping to provide such a clue, by example, to the perplexities of daily life, the incidents which render a story exciting have been sacrificed, and the attempt has been made to make the interest of the book depend on the character painting.
