DAILY CRESCENT.

LINES BY WALLIN, THE SWEDISH POET.

[Written a few hours before his death.]

Repose O weary soul! in peace repose;
Let thy last thoughts and cherish'd hopes ascend
To the eternal home, where, in the end,
A great light shall make clear what no man knows.
Repose, my soul, repose!

Lie, weary arms, cross'd meekly on my breast—
Cross'd meekly for a prayer in that dread hour.
For now I strive to speak, and lack the power;
Strength leaves me, and I draw near to my rest.
Lie, cross'd upon my breast.

Sleep, weary eyes! Let those best struggled sore;
But now behold the hour of peace is near—
One holy thought for those who linger here,
And then lie down and sleep, and strive no more.
Lo, then last struggled sore!

B. A. FAHNESTOCK'S VERMIFUGE used at the last moment with success.

A neighbor of mine, who had the misfortune to have the Physician attending it exerted all his skill for its recovery, but without avail. They sent to Lancaster for Dr. L. to have some over the counter, upon an estimation of the case approved of all the attending physicians had done, but could do nothing more for it. The child was given up, Dr. L. then said there was one chance in a million in trying Fahnestock's VERMIFUGE, and thought they had better get some. They sent to my store, and procured mine. After administering the first bottle, according to the directions, the child threw off a large quantity of Worms. Then gave it about half of another bottle, when it passed between TWO AND THREE HUNDRED WORMS, and immediately after commenced improving, and was completely restored to health.

Various the preparations which have been recommended or extolled for the purpose, but experience has proved that all more or less ineffectual; the end however has at length been attained, and a remedy found which has never failed to destroy Worms, wherever it has been used. This remedy is the celebrated WINER'S CANADIAN VERMIFUGE, and has been pronounced by the highest authority of the most eminent physicians and respectable individuals in the country. ☞ Read!
