FINANCE AND COMMERCE

THE CLOSING QUOTATIONS OF MONEY.

Offerings and Sales at the Richmond Tobacco Exchange—Internal Revenue Collections—Foreign Advices.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from 3½ to 5 per cent.; closing offered at 4 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 5@7. Sterling exchange quiet and firm; posted rates, 486½@488½; commercial bills, 485@487. Government bonds dull and steady; Southern State bonds dull and featureless; railroad bonds active and generaly firm.

The stock market was generally less animated to-day, and the preponderence of the few stocks, principally Reading, Sugar and Distillers', which at present monopolize the speculative interest, was even more marked than for any day during the past week. Fluctuations, notwithstanding the activity in these stocks, were confined within narrow limits, and the final changes were generally insignificant, being irregular generally for small fractions. The money market continues very easy, and there was a stiffening in exchange, owing to some increase in the demands as to the exchange market, which is being watched very closely. Reading was again very largely dealt in. Most of the day it was weak, especially in the forenoon, from the effects of the realizing sales, which were helped, to some extent, by professional selling. The final loss, however, in the stock was only ¾ per cent. The action of the Jersey Central is still regarded as of little real importance to the combination, but the report of its alliance with the Pennsylvania lifted the price of Reading in the forenoon. Lackawanna dropped on light business, and closed the day with a loss of 1 per cent. The two leading Industrials, Sugar and Distillers', fluctuated over a range of something more than 1 per cent., but both yielded in the afternoon under slight advance in the early dealings, but the loss, however, was recovered in each, and their final changes are without significance. Among the Industrials the Cotton Oil stocks were the special features, and the talk of a dividend in the common stocks helped stimulate some speculative buying, and although no confirmation of the report was to be had both classes of the stock closed at considerable advance. The market after the activity of the forenoon gradually fell into dullness, but relief of the pressure brought higher prices. There was no real strength until the last hour. The strong feature of the market was Manhattan, in which some buying in the forenoon occurred, and an advance of 2 per cent. at that time was held for the rest of the day. The general bearish temper of the forenoon led to the realizing on the late advance in the Grangers', and Rock Island scored further advances at first, but it was entirely lost later in the day. The sales aggregated 345,000 shares.

Treasury Balances—Coin, $85,361,000; currency, $5,121,000.

The Courier-Journal of Monday morning, January 9, 1893, reports the Louisville, Ky., tobacco market for the past week as follows: The sales for the week foot up 2,724 hogheads, of which 431 were private, against 4,176 last year. Of these 2,198 hogsheads were of the crop of 1892; 1,891 were burley and 833 dark. Rejections have been 624, against 81 last year. The rejections have been nearly 16 per cent. of the sales. The market for new tobacco has been somewhat lower than during the closing week of 1892, and quotations are reduced accordingly. Receipts for the week have been 1,656 hogsheads against 3,684 for the corresponding week last year.

Registered at the Tobacco Exchange to-day: W. G. Dunnington, Farmville; Henry Pendleton, Louisa; H. E. Harris, Winston.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—It was a wicked market in pork to-day. An advance of nearly 50c. was followed by raiding, and the quotations at the close were about where they rested last night.

Lard declined 17½c. and ribs 25c.

The wheat market was fairly active and firm. It gained ½c. on its closing price of the day before.

Other grain markets were firm but inactive. Corn and oats are each ⅛c. higher. The interest in pork and lard far exceeded all else on the floor. There was more uncertainty to the market than at any time since the big bull market started, and yet the highest price of the year was recorded for pork ($19.42½). The market was rather easier at opening on account of the receipts of hogs overrunning yesterday's estimates by 5,000 head. The market soon released itself from the latter influence, and prices began to soar for pork. Ream and Armour brokers were again credited with liberal purchases at the start, but sold again on the advance. Wright was a free seller of lard, which Hately bought. The expected receipt of 36,000 hogs to-morrow, raiding by the wheat crowd and outside realizing sales, caused pork to drop what it had gained early in the day and knocked lard and ribs considerably lower than yesterday's closing prices. A cholera dispatch, dated Hamburg, relating to a ship from New Orleans, may have had some influence.

BISMARCK ON WAR SCARES.

In His Opinion Neither France Nor Russia is Thinking of Hostilities.

"Why grant this enormous peace strength?" asked Bismarck while talking with a London Times correspondent recently. "Who will be the conqueror in the future? He who can win the first two or three battles, and those battles will no more be fought by millions of armed men than they have hitherto been, but by some two or three hundred thousand men at most. Large masses cannot be directed by a single general, not even with the help of a balloon. The chief things, as hitherto, will be good leadership and superior tactics, and for these an enormous increase in the army affords no kind of guarantee. With our present forces we can perfectly well operate on two fronts if we have the right kind of leadership. Count Caprivi himself spoke not so long ago with conviction against 'la rage des nombres.' Why is he all of a sudden converted to a belief in numbers, and mere numbers?

"Again we are told that the danger of war is greater. I, for my part, cannot see it. On the contrary, I believe that war cannot break out for the next two or three years. France is incomparably more peaceful and less ready to strike out than she was in 1888. Then Boulanger had to press the button and his dynasty was founded. Now any form of monarchy is more dangerous to the maintenance of peace with Germany than the republic. A monarchy would find it much easier to conclude alliances with monarchical States, especially with Russia.

"That the present rulers on the banks of the Seine are not thinking of war is shown by the Papal blessing they have asked and obtained for the Republic. The Pope has done us no harm in granting it, for its effect was to lay the spirit of internal strife in France, to satisfy the great and universal and sincere desire of the French people for peace and to make things smoother and easier for those in power. The latter, moreover, know quite well that the first thing a victorious French general would do would be to sweep them away with a dictator's broom. As for Russia, it is the fashion to describe her as panting for war with Germany. But who wants war in Russia? Not the Czar. He is a cautious gentleman, who asks for nothing beyond peace and quiet at home so long as he can get it. The vast majority of the Russian people do not want war. The only warlike elements in Russia are the press, the Poles and the Jews."
