Late Fire in Maiden-lane.—Messrs. S. C. HERRING & Co.—Gentlemen: On the night of the 17th inst. my store, No. 56 Maiden-lane, with my stock of merchandise, was entirely destroyed by fire. My loss, though heavy, would have been much more so, but that I was fortunate enough to have one of your PATENT CHAMPION SAFES, which preserved uninjured my most valuable books, papers and some bank notes, after being 18 hours exposed to a very severe and scorching flame. My old papers, &c., which I could not find room in the safe for, were intrusted to a vault in the wall; they are a mass of ashes.—New-York, Feb. 18, 1858.

Respectfully yours, CHARLES AHRENFELDT.

The above Safe can be seen at our depot in Water-st.

The sale of tickets commences This Morning.

THE HUGUENOTS,

TO BE PRODUCED IN THE MONTH OF MARCH.

THE HUGUENOTS has been in preparation upwards of three months. Over two hundred persons are employed in getting this Opera up. The Director believes that, through unremitting labor on his part, and on that of the artists and the employees, he will be able strictly to fulfill the tempting promises held out in this announcement.

SYNOPSIS OF THE MISE EN SCENE.

1. Five new scenes, painted by Allegri, Calyo and Helster, being principally copies of those used in Paris at the Imperial Opera House.

2. About three hundred dresses; part of which has been made in Paris, by the costumer of the Grand Opera, the rest has been manufactured here from original drawings; they will exactly correspond to the epoch in which the action takes place (1572).

3. A regular chorus of seventy, instead of the usual number of thirty-five.

4. In the conjuration scene (in which the destruction of the Pretestants is plotted by the Catholics), an extra chorus of one hundred and thirty will be added; thus making the united choral force two hundred strong, being the largest number ever employed in any Opera House of Europe or America.

5. The regular Orchestra of sixty, instead of the usual number of forty, to which will be added in the third act, when the Queen and her ladies of honor arrive on horseback, an extra band of twenty.

6. A cast complete in every particular, comprising the talents of La Grange, D'Angri, Siedenburg, Tiberini, Gassier, Taffanelli, Rocco, Pikaneser, Dubreuil, Beutier, Oehrlein, Barratini and Carl Formes, who will sing the most important part of Marcel, the Huguenot; which, jointly with that of Bertram in Robert le Diable, is considered his greatest part.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—THE "HUGUENOTS"—A FEW WORDS TO THE PUBLIC.

I have given you the longest and most brilliant season of grand opera that has ever taken place in America. I have had to struggle against greater obstacles than any other manager. I allude to the late financial revulsion. The direction of the opera has always involved great risks under the most prosperous circumstances; you can therefore easily imagine how much I had to work to achieve the gratifying result I have obtained, in spite of a monthly outlay of over $25,000, occasioned through the production of so many grand and comparatively new operas by a company so numerous and costly.

In bringing out the "Huguenots" in the style which will distinguish the work, I have taxed my resources to the utmost. The new scenery and dresses alone cost over $6,000, and the general expenses of extra chorus, extra orchestra and extra rehearsals will swell this amount to fully $10,000. This exceeds, by many thousands of dollars, the largest sum ever expended on any opera given in this country.

From present appearances, and the actual inquiries for seats and boxes, even before the day of the first performance is definitely fixed, there is no doubt that this opera will attract immense audiences for many nights; but however full the houses may be, I cannot make my expenses at present prices, and I cannot but lose by my attempt to bring out a celebrated opera in a style fully equaling that of the first opera house in Europe.

Will you permit this? Assuredly not, or I am greatly mistaken in the proverbial liberality of the New-Yorkers.

Every manager has been in the habit of taking one or more benefits during the season. For reasons which it would be too long to detail, I consider this custom more honored in the breach than in the observance. I intend appealing to the public in another, and what I believe to be a more rational shape.

I request the public to pay, on such nights when the "Huguenots" is given, $1 50 for the admission tickets, instead of $1, as on other nights. This is a mere trifle to every individual person, but it will be a substantial assistance to me, which must bring me, in the aggregate, a clear gain of $5,000.

Do you think I have some claim upon you? Will you pay the price, and will you do so cheerfully? You have done so for Sontag, Alboni, Mario and Grisi, and the old worn-out Operas they have appeared in.

The price for a decent place to see the "Huguenots" in Paris is $3, in London $5. Those who go to see the "Huguenots" at the Academy will perhaps find a superior performance.

To those who know me, I need not assure that every cent thus obtained will be faithfully employed by me toward making next Winter's season still more brilliant than that which will expire in a few weeks. I have been honored by the unanimous vote of the Directors and stockholders of the Academy with an extension of my present lease of one year to one of four years, and thus encouraged I can safely promise you for next Winter a succession of brilliant Operas, got up in a style fully equaling that which can only be found in an European Opera-House enjoying a large subvention by Government.
