CITY ITEMS.

THE PASCAGOULA ROBBERY.—We mentioned yesterday, that on Saturday morning last, a house at Pascagoula was entered and robbed of $1,000, by two men who were supposed to have made their escape in a little sail-boat called the Jim. We learn now, that two other houses were entered, and a quantity of jewelry and other articles stolen, by the same rogues. Saddle vessels were sent in pursuit in all directions, but to no purpose. The news of the robbery reached this city, and the police at the lake were put on the lookout. The person robbed of the money was Mr. Henry Gillam, a gentleman of this city, who states that he was robbed of over $1,000 in bank notes and gold. On Monday, a boy at Milneburg told officer Richardson, who was stationed there, that he saw several men dividing a large pile of money between them. Richardson got on their track, and from information furnished by him, Sergeant Salisbury and Corporal Stoner got a search warrant from Justice Lingenfelt, and searched a certain house kept by an old woman named Hennessy, on Mandeville street, between Lee and Gentilly road. They did not find any of the stolen money there, but were astonished to find, instead, all the property recently stolen from Mrs. Gutschalk's jewelry store, 69 Old Levee street, consisting of two gold, silver alloy, and three brass watches; two gold studs; one gold chain; one gold locket; a pistol, and a pocket-book. They were found wrapped up in an old coat, in the bottom of a trunk. Two frequenters of the house, named John Roulworth and Henry Lange, were arrested, and on looking the room of the latter person was found $370 in bank notes and gold, the notes being identified by Mr. Gillam as belonging to him, and the gold also doubtless being his. Upon a further search of the house, several silver spoons, marked A. D., a silver fork, and a revolver with an H on it, were found beneath the floor. Mrs. Hennessy was thereupon arrested as a receiver of stolen goods, and sent to prison with the others to await an examination. Mrs. H's son Philip was arrested and locked up the previous day as a desperado and suspicious character. The above shows that the police of the Old Third are about as wide awake as any of their competitors.

THE LADIES OF THE OLD THIRD.—They "do beat all," sometimes. The last great triumph was at No. 90 Victory street, on Monday night. Mrs. Bridget, a lady of Irish birth, there keeps a bill of a boarding house, and one of her boarders was the comely Mrs. Mary Barton, wife of some ship captain now in foreign parts. Mrs. Whelan, is the Hibernian of her beat, took to spouting the fowy dollars which Mrs. Barton had, and took a mighty interest in her, and requested that she should not stay out at night later than ten o'clock. Now it happened that there was a bit of a ruffle in a house over the way to which the gay and festive Cora Lewis, alias Lemire, found many temptations, forgot her boarding mother, and stayed out till three o'clock in the morning. When she returned, full of gin, she found Mrs. Whelan full of wrath and got such a fowling-piece from her, that Cora or Lemire rose, and she retaliated in somewhat unlady worthy the wife of an admiral sailor. The fact is, they had a genuine tilting of which the newspaper bodied on Victory street for months. Yesterday morning early, Mrs. Bridget, the recorder, appeared in office, their eyes flashing, lips quivering and each brimfull of affidavit. When Mr. Auzet, one of the clerks, sat down to attend to them, they commenced pouring a flood, and begged at him in a frightful manner! In fine, anxiety began the start of each other by making the first affidavit. Mr. A. saved himself by one of those happy choices his which so often relieve men from torture, and proposed a pulling of straws for the precedence. The ladies consented, and fortune favored the fair Mrs. Barton.

The affidavits were then made in peace, and the ladies were about to depart, when the clerk reminded them of a little formality called "giving bail to appear," which had yet to be attended to. The ladies simultaneously opened their mouths; they had come unprepared, and in another moment they were politely escorted down stairs and locked up together in a cell. While they were there we were hard-hearted enough to follow the clerk, who visited them on peacemaking business in order to take a peep at them. They were in good humor, and had nothing or all spoiled each others, only Mrs. S. Stanton, who had left her friends when she felt like it without being asked for it, and Mrs. W. claimed her right to keep the character of her boarders above reproach! and objected. It was quite French that Mrs. Bridget should offer to bail Cora—a very liberal discount from the forty she obtained and seek some other boarding house. This had agreed, and the belligerents then shook hands—politely and smiling, and each was feeling as happy as possible, when the recorder returned and hearing of the reconciliation, gave them a fatherly lecture on their ways of brawling and the probable consequences of another fare-up, and told them to go home. The affidavits were then quashed, and the ladies went their way in wisdom and in peace.

Mrs. Deane, residing at No. 8 English street, made affidavit that Mrs. Jones gave her an awful calling to and threatened to take her life, in her own house, on the previous day. A warrant was issued for the bloodthirsty Jones.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—Breach of Lyceum.—James D. Grosse was examined yesterday before Recorder Bright, upon a charge of breach of trust, preferred against him by Valentine S. Goodin, of the firm of Bell, Dickson & Co., charging him with having appointed the firm out of $65 or $66, by selling for $185 or $190 Lyceum Bonds for $250, which they accepted in April last, and let him have upon his promise to sell it at a fair discount, and by giving them only $155, with the representation that that was all he could obtain for it. The examination, pending in the committal of the accused for trial in the First District Court, under bail of $2500.

Cutting with a Razor.—Charles Reeves, alias Bong Chetley, was examined on the charge of having cut Henry Ottinger with a razor in Bowen's warehouse, at the corner of Gravier and Rampart streets, a fortnight since. Mr. Ottinger, who has recovered, stated that he heard a fuss in the warehouse, and going up to see, arrested Reeves in the act of pulling the blow with a chair, which he did by seizing the chair, and that Reeves then turned upon him, and drawing a razor from his pocket, cut him twice across the breast and once across the abdomen. The testimony of others corroborated this, and Reeves was sent to prison to await a trial in the Criminal Court. The other parties arrested as accessories were shown to have had nothing to do with the cutting, and were discharged.

Assault with a Bread-axe.—John Lemire was examined on a charge of having attempted to kill J. M. Coffey outright, on Recorder Bright's office, with a broad-axe, on the evening of the 14th inst., on a bridge over the new canal. From the testimony of Coffey and other witnesses, it appeared that Coffey crossed an unfinished bridge upon which Lemire was at work; he going over against his will, Lemire gave others permission to cross. When he got over, and was about to step from the bridge, Lemire confronted him and ordered him back, which Coffey refused, asserting his right to cross and stepped off the bridge. Lemire then asked him if he was said finally a son of b——, and Coffey resented by asking him with his cane. Lemire then judged aside, seized a bread-axe, and rushing violently upon Coffey, aimed to split his head with it. Coffey jumped close up to him in an instant, received the blow across the large left shoulder, and clinched him; at the same time the force of the collision threw Coffey on his back, Lemire falling upon him. Lemire then attempted to gouge him, but Coffey got his head under his chin and prevented it, holding him in that way until other parties arrived, and took him off. The Recorder, after inquiring Lemire upon the evil to which intercourse with public works are so abundantly productive, pitching a gentleman and a stranger who may come about, ordered him to furnish $500 bail for his appearance before the First District Court. Lemire then, through his counsel Cyprien, Dufour, Esq., established by making an affidavit of assault and battery against Coffey.

Assault with a Stone.—Sam. Hughes was examined on a charge of having attempted to kill Thomas Reed, at the corner of Julia and St. Charles streets, on the night of the 19th inst., by approaching him from behind and beating him on the head with a stone which disappeared that Reed was a marker, and employed by Patterson in the stand at the corner above named and count the passengers in the omnibuses as they passed; and that Hughes was an habitual drunkard, just lately discharged; and from this the motive of the assault may easily be divined, though no motive was given by Hughes in his examination. He was sent before the First District Court, under bail of $2000, which he failed to give, and was sent to prison.

PROPERTY RECOVERED.—A number of articles, comprising 50 pocket knives, 1 cigar case, 1 ivory mechanical case, 1 pearl mechanical case, 25 pairs monaiss, 24 pairs of stockings, 4 books, 6 silver pencil pens, which had been stolen from the store of J. S. Stout, were found in a store on Camp street, on Monday evening, by virtue of a search warrant issued at the instance of Mr. J. Bloomfield. They had been incorrectly purchased in good faith. It appears from the parties who had stolen them, that the property stolen on the above Monroe the Perrier, who robbed Mr. Marks' store; one of them having been a roller-boy in Mr. Stout's printing office.

CONJUGIAL.—Honora McNamara, a pretty Irishwoman, yesterday complained that her Dutch husband George Meyers had given her a most uncomfortable wallooping on St Anthony street, on the previous evening. The affidavits were then made in peace, and the ladies were about to depart, when the clerk reminded them of a little formality called "giving bail to appear," which had yet to be attended to. The ladies simultaneously opened their mouths; they had come unprepared, and in another moment they were politely escorted down stairs and locked up together in a cell. THE COMMON COUNCIL.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.—Pursuant to adjournment, the Board of Aldermen met last evening. Present—Messrs. Culbertson, Duvoll, Donegre, Price and Pride—on a quorum. The Recorder at arrival was then dispatched to St. Louis street, it being understood that two of the members prior to his call had begun a pleasant game of political pitch-and-toss, at the grand Democratic Convention. The messenger returned shortly after seven o'clock, bringing the gratifying intelligence that he had met one of the gentlemen, in reply to the summons, and he would be home. The Board then adjourned to this evening at the usual hour.

BOARD OF ASSISTANT ALDERMEN.—This body met last evening, Mr. Sitch in the Chair and sixteen members present. The reading of the journal was dispensed with. Other members subsequently entered.

The Treasurer's weekly report, showing a balance of $3350 70, was received and referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication was read from the Acting Surveyor, recommending the completion of a bridge on the New Canal at Magnolia street, and recommending the appointment of a keeper for the same. Referred to the Committee on Streets and Landings.

Communications from the Board of Aldermen, submitting concurrence in resolutions, and asking concurrence in others. A number of them were either concurred in or referred to the different committees.

Petition for the appointment of a Clerk to assist in the Street Commissioner's department, was referred to the Finance Committee. That for reducing the Surveyor's fees was concurred in.

Numerous petitions of petitions were read by title and referred. Many of them were from owners of slaughter-houses, asking not to be compelled to remove them.

Mr. Howell offered a resolution for the repeal of the ordinance of 1837, with subsequent amendments, in reference to the laying of banquettes. Adopted.

Mr. Guest offered an ordinance for regulating the assessment of boats. A motion to lay it on the table was lost, and then it was laid over, under the rule, to mention, the ordinance was subsequently read. It is for bringing fathers "up to law" generally—regulating the whole business, from taking out the license to the printing of initials on the tonnage, with penalties (4) annexed.

Mr. Guest offered a resolution for conferring the Young America Steam Fire Engine Company, putting the machine and its appurtenances into the charge of a company of exempt firemen, who have organized for the purpose. Adopted.

Also a resolution directing the Surveyor to notify the New Orleans Gas and Navigation Company to repair the shell road in accordance. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported upon certain petitions, and offered resolutions—

For issuing a duplicate cash license to the Widow Connor. Adopted.

For paying sundry bills. One item was for $10,000, for paying for the keeping of the inmates of the Parish Prison and Insane Asylum. Mr. Bartlette moved to lay it over. Mr. Roger admitted that it was a large bill; the law authorizing the Board of Assessors to make a special appropriation, and thought it rather unfortunate, in view of the fact that the expense of feeding the boarders in the St. Charles Hotel had been superintended to by only 32 cents a day, and at the Pay Hotel for 25. After a long and lively discussion, by Bartlette and Thomas, the item was laid over, and the others ordered to be paid.

The Committee on Streets and Landings reported against permitting Mr. White to keep a pile of sand on the levee opposite Jackson Square, and upon various other matters (resolutions were offered.

For authorizing the Street Commissioner to cause the completion of work in the Third District abandoned by the Contractor. Adopted.

For authorizing the Street Commissioner to cause the city lamps to be lit at dusk, and put out at daylight. Adopted.

For appointing Joseph Legaut Michel Turpin, for non-enrollment of contract. Adopted.

The Judiciary Committee offered resolutions—

For repealing the ordinance offering rewards for absconding. Adopted.

For referring John Wolf's petition for remission of mortgage from his property to the City Attorney, with instructions to take proper action. Adopted.
