RAILROAD PETTY FRAUDS, and GREAT IMPOSITIONS.—On the 13th of August last, three gentlemen—one a citizen of Chicago—purchased at the proper office in Chicago three tickets through to New-York, expressly stipulating and agreeing with the Company there, and they for all the Companies on the route, that these gentlemen should have the privilege of traveling only days, stopping off nights, and also stop off at Saratoga as long as they might choose.
Arriving at Buffalo at about 12 o'clock of a Saturday night, two of the company decided to remain in Buffalo over Sunday, and the third went to Chittenango to spend the time with friends. On leaving Buffalo, one of the gentlemen inquired of the Conductor, who came around to examine and mark or punch the tickets, whether such process would kill the ticket to Albany, as he was desirous of stopping at Schenectady, to visit Saratoga for a few days. The Conductor replied no, but stated that when they arrived at Utica the gentleman must get from the Conductor from that place a stop-over ticket, as was their custom. After passing Chittenango, they were rejoined by their friend, who informed them that in consequence of the Conductor having punched his check, he had been compelled on coming on the cars, by the new Conductor, to repay his fare, under penalty of being put off the cars if he did not. In order to save a repetition of this trouble and expense, when the Conductor came around after leaving Utica, the gentleman who proposed to stop at Schenectady civilly stated to the circumstances, exhibited his ticket, good on the face for a ride over the road for a fortnight, and requested either that he would not punch the ticket, or else give him a ticket to stop over as agreed upon. To which the Conductor in a most insolent manner replied that he would accede to neither request, but that he should punch the ticket or turn the passenger out of the car. The gentleman very properly declined to submit to all these civilities, whereupon Mr. Conductor stopped his train—it being about 12 o'clock at night—and calling in the assistance of a brakeman, succeeded in forcing the gentleman with great violence and against much remonstrance, off from the train, causing him considerable personal injury, and leaving him in a strange country, without his baggage or shelter. It is barely possible that the strong arm of this giant and infamous Railroad Corporation is omnipotent enough in this State to shield it from legal punishment for such outrages. The above is an unvarnished story, and is only one of large numbers which have occurred. It is proposed by the present party, well known and honored at home, to test this question for the benefit of the traveling public as well as himself. One principal object of this statement is to reach the attention of two gentlemen (strangers) who occupied the seat immediately in front, and who heard and saw all that passed. Should this notice meet their observation, it is hoped they will send their addresses to Messrs. PARSONS, RIGGS & RIGGS, Attorneys, No. 10 Wall-st., New-York.
