CITY ITEMS.

CHARITY HOSPITAL.—The following is the report of this institution for the week ending Friday evening, October 5, at 6 o'clock:

Admitted	225
Discharged, (30 of yellow fever)	175
Died, (27 of yellow fever)	41
Remaining	430

THE WEATHER has lightled about—clouds, rain and mild southerly winds. Thursday night and yesterday were decidedly juicy, with an occasional spurt of sunshine. The weather in the beginning of the week was too pretty to last long.

HAND ORGANS.—There was a time in this city when the arrival and departure of these patent nuisances annually marked the advent and exodus of business and festivity. Not it was so on the past summer. There was no blessed blatter in the organ grinding nuisance. All through the past year have the sleepy, miserable-looking grinders lugged their machines, and dreaded their ditties, through the suburban streets, pictures of ease of perpetual motion, human callousness, and the sweetness of hope. We have encountered them much in our idle rambles, and, but for our sympathy for that tender class of the community who "delve" data upon the subject, we could heartily wish to see them sent to some "leaky ships," etc. The organs, we presume, have become acclimated, and, by reason of that, lay stronger claims to the affection of our outdoor population than they did of yore.

We have noticed a system in the nuisance, which leads us to suppose that the grinders are leagued together, somewhat after the fashion of the "Sicilian gang" for the purpose of making the community suffer. For instance, though we may encounter a dozen of them in an afternoon's ramble, we never see two within two squares of each other. They either have their regular beats, like watchmen, or else, by their infernal din, never get within or beyond a certain limit of each other—as if, by sound, by mutual attraction and repulsion, like the planets in their spheres. The horse hand organ, however, is an exception. In its mighty majesty it comes athwart the orbits of the lesser organs, and penetrates, pierces, like into the very heart of the city, where the small organs never think of coming. It seemingly pays no regard to the small organs, yet, as we have not heard of its coming in collision with any of them, we suppose that although it is subjected to different laws, it is still a part of the grand organic system of universal nuisance.

Music, even of the organic kind, with a proper admixture of smith, we believe to be a great and delightful stimulant to the juvenile mind; but without mirth, it has a sober, lackadaisical effect that is really injurious; and of such a nature is the street music we have at present. Our juveniles are growing up under a blight in consequence. It is true, they have some notion of harmony, as evinced by their occasional waltzing and polking exhibitions on the sidewalks and elsewhere; but these displays are so spasmodic and automaton-like, as to give pain to any keen observer.

All this, as our readers will apprehend, is owing to the abolition of monkeys by the grinders. There used to be a monkey attached to every organ; now there are none. Children used to learn to cut up monkey-shines well enough to dance; now it is all dance, and no shine. The poor innocents of the present day are egregiously swindled. They give up their best pleasures for the stale old music, without knowing that they have a right to monkey. It is really too bad; and as a friend, admirer, and lover of the newly-fledged generation, we raise our voice against it.

What has become of the monkeys is a question upon which we can throw no light. We suppose they have either danced themselves out of being into the shades, or that the grinders have emancipated them through a false philanthropy, as the British did their cousins in Jamaica. If the latter be the case, we do not see why they could not be employed on the coffee plantations. The forests of Yucatan are almost human with monkeys, and transportation, considering the object in view, is cheap.

Without further speculation upon this painful dearth of monkeys, and the consequent blight inflicted by it upon the rising generation, we raise our voice against it, (We call the attention of the Mayor or the Chief of Police to the matter.) They can, we think, be justly arrested for petty larceny and fraud; for if it be in larceny, in the first place, to take the best pleasure of a simpleton, soapless child, while it is a fraud to palm off their abominable substitute as something worth paying for; and we hope they will at once be arrested, and the law invoked, and compelled there to remain until they can catch show a monkey atop of his blasted instrument.

OFF THE TRACK.—A locomotive on the Pontchartrain Road took "the stands" yesterday morning at the Depot—got off the track, with a full passenger train waiting—and couldn't be got on again, by as many men as could lay hands on it. Another locomotive had to be sent for.

SWEET TENANT.—Mrs. Elizabeth Waeller, who keeps a boarding house at No. 117 and 119 Royal street, yesterday lodged the following affidavit before Recorder Ramos: "One Louis Dubuo, one of her tenants, to whom she rents as a shop a portion of the lower front of her premises, has this day, and for several days past, created disturbances in her premises, and by behaving in a way to vex the deponent and her boarders, by walking at any time up stairs, through whatever part of the house he chooses, and entering any portion of the building, demolishing with force and violence the doors of whatever apartments he finds closed and locked, and paying no attention whatever to the repeated remonstrances of this deponent, but using the most opprobrious and indecent language towards her, such as bitch, etc., etc., the whole in contravention of law and against the peace and dignity of the State." A warrant was sent out after the sweet-mannered Louis.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—Robbery.—The white woman, Bridget Boyce, and the seven slaves arrested on a charge of robbing the residence of Edward W. Herrick on Poydras street, between St. Paul and Gironde streets, during the night of the 29th ult., and the residence of Harvey A. Harding, on Gironde street, between Poydras and Lafayette, during the night of the 22d ult., were examined before Recorder Bright yesterday. The evidence against the accused was altogether circumstantial, the valuables stolen from both houses being found where they were all living together, in a house adjoining that of Mr. Herrick. The white woman, Bridget, who it seems was the mistress of the slave man, Willis, was committed for a trial in the First District Court, and the negroes were committed for a trial before Justice Jonte—all of them being sent to prison to hide their crime.

Assault and Battery.—John Flanagan was sent down for beating Fred. Hecker in his own coffee-house, at the corner of Orange and Religious streets, on the 30th. He furnished bail to appear.

Assault with a Pistol.—Patrick Hanley, was committed for trial, on a charge of assaulting James Kelly and Mary Bixby with a leaded pistol, at the corner of Bolivar and Poydras streets, on Sunday last. He gave bail.

BAIL REFUSED.—The application of J. B. Cresse, in the parish prison awaiting trial for larceny, to be admitted to bail, has been refused by Judge Robertson.

HOMICIDES.—Santo Michel, residing on Main street between Dauphine and Bourbon, was yesterday arrested, on a charge of having chased his wife Sarah and his brother-in-law Hezekiah McKinney with a knife, with bloody threats and murderous intent. He gave bail to appear when called for.

A warrant was issued for one Isole, for a charge with stopping the mug of Henry McGee, if not, at the corner of St. Louis and Dauphine streets, and with carrying concealed weapons.

A warrant was sent out for T. Pons, at the corner of St. Louis and Treme streets, charged with throwing down and beating Joan Daley, alias "Picallion."

ROBBERY.—Louis Abrendt and Freidrich Munger, yesterday made a joint affidavit before Recorder Ramos, charging a certain individual whose name they did not know, with rifling their joint pockets of $47 51, while they were asleep on Thursday night, in Joseph Schuh's boarding-house, No. 21 St. Philip street. A warrant was sent out.

DIRTY BUTCHERS OR HUCKSTERS.—Commissary Montamat yesterday complained to Recorder Ramos that eleven persons in the Beef Market keep dirty stalls in defiance of the city ordinances. A warrant was issued for their arrest.

DISCHARGED.—Joseph Rigby, accused by John McGovern of robbery, was yesterday discharged by Recorder Bright. McGovern being among the prisoners, Michael Gallagher, John Callaghan, and Patrick Shea, charged of threatening Dennis Shannon, were also discharged.

WORKHOUSE, ETC.—Bridget Mack, for drunken indecency in Carroll street; Margaret Hammond, for sleeping in negro-quarters on Magnolia street; and Rose O'Neil, alias Bartley, for cutting up on Dryades street, were yesterday sent out to the Work-house.

Patrick Hardin and Morris Nolan, for driving their drays furiously in Tchoutoulas street, were fined $10 each.

James McGuran was fined $10 for getting drunk and shouting "watch" without reason, in Dryades street, and Peter Carey was fined $10 for knocking down a man on Perdido street, without cause—both on Thursday night. Both paid.

Pierre Peter, the Salvender in Dryades Market who wouldn't let Commissary Destruy take away some putrid fish he had, was bound over in $200 to keep peace for six months.

COMMERCIAL MATTERS.

REVIEW OF THE MARKETS.

SATURDAY MORNING, Oct. 6, 1855.

A fair degree of activity prevailed in our general market, and prices for most articles are well sustained. The principal exception, as regards the latter, during the past week, has been our great staple, Cotton, which has been depressed by the accounts from Europe by the steamers America and Pacific. A pretty good business, however, has been done during the week. Sugar and Molasses have been in some request, but at a considerable decline for the latter. Flour has met with a good export demand, and with a limited supply, prices have been firmer. Corn and Wheat have advanced, and Provisions of all kinds have been very firm. Shipping has been scarce and in request at very full rates, while Exchanges have further declined, with an extremely dull market.

On Thursday morning we published a telegraphic summary of the Pacific's accounts, embracing Liverpool dates to the 22d of September. They reported a dull and drooping Cotton market at Liverpool, with sales of only about 32,000 bales during the week, including 1000 for speculation and 6000 for export. Our quotations indicate a decline in prices of ⅛@¼ ₰ lb. The stock in port was 547,000 bales, of which 350,000 were American.

COTTON.—We left the Cotton market, at the close of our last weekly report, with a heavy appearance, the sale of Friday having reached barely 1500 bales. There was but little improvement in the demand on Saturday, and only about 1800 bales were disposed of during the day, but on Monday, with a reduction of about ⅛ in prices, purchasers were found for 3500 bales. On Tuesday factors were willing sellers at the decline of the previous day, and succeeded in disposing of about 5000 bales. The demand was fair on Wednesday, resulting in sales of 5500 bales, with some irregularity in the rates for Middling and lower grades while the better qualities were firm. On Thursday the market was depressed by the Pacific's accounts, and prices for the grades below Good Middling gave way about ⅛@¼ ₰ lb, with sales of nearly 5000 bales. Yesterday barely 1200 bales were disposed of, making the entire business of the week 22,900 bales, the market closing at the range of our quotations, which are reduced about ⅛@⅛ for the middling and lower qualities:

TOBACCO—At the close of last week we reported a sale of 500 hhds on private terms. On Saturday the same purchaser closed for a lot of 372 hhds Admitted and Refused Clarksville, at 3¼c, cities which we have heard of only a few sales, embracing about 200 hhds, and including the following particulars: 4 hhds at 2c, 4 at 2¼, 10 Selected B, at 2¾, 14 A. and B. (drop of 1853) at 3¼c round, and 5 Selected Clarksville at 10¼c, and yesterday 55 Refused at 6¼c, 4 at 6¾, 37 at 6½, and 20 hhds at 9c ₰ lb.
