A CHANCE FOR THE BOYS

How To Earn Some Money, And At The Same Time Compete For A Shetland Pony

The Evening Times will pay boy canvassers for subscriptions taken in any town or city in North Dakota the following commissions:

On a 3-mos. subscription to the Evening Times, at $1.00 paid in advance 25c
On a 6-mos. subscription, $2.00, in advance . . . . . 50 cents
On a year's subscription, $4.00, in advance $1.00

In addition to these cash commissions, there will be a prize of a valuable given to the lad who will secure the largest number of paid in advance subscribers before April 1, 1906.

SHETLAND PONY

The pony will be delivered to the winner free of cost.

Contestants are not confined to any particular part of North Dakota or Minnesota as a field for convassing

As the contestants enter the race the result of their work from day to day, as sent to this office, will be published in The Evening Times so that the relative position of each will be known daily.

Reports must be made daily.

Those who desire to engage in canvassing for The Evening Times will be supplied with necessary blanks and full instructions by addressing this office.

A bright active boy in every community--no matter how limited the population--can earn good wages by devoting an hour or so each day to the work. At the same time he will stand a good show of winning a valuable Shetland Pony absolutely free.
