THE DRAMA.

Notes from the Stage Here and Elsewhere.

GOSSIP ABOUT THE ACTORS.

What is Doing in the Mimic World—Mrs. James Brown Potter.

Mr. J. W. Pigott will star next season in Fitznoodle.

Lawrence Barret carries $120,000 insurance on his life.

Rose Coghlan's starring tour will begin on October 1st at Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Comstock will sail for Europe early in June.

John S. Clarke got $141,000 for his Broad Street Theatre in Philadelphia.

Nellie McHenry wears a massive gold serpent twined about her thumb as a ring.

Miss Carrie Perkins will be the merry little mountain maid in Adonis next season.

Messrs. Richard L. Nevill and Wallace Peck have written a romantic historical play entitled The Deserters.

Imre Kiralfy owns the right for all countries of Messrs. Maeder and Teal's dramatization of Mathias Sandorf.

Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett will be in Leavenworth, St. Joseph, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Dubuque and Davenport this week.

Arthur Bird was married to Mrs. Wilhelmina Denker, at Petersborough, England, February 29th. Mr. Bird is an American composer.

Bolossy Kiralfy has secured the release of Mlle. Paris from her engagement at the Alhambra, London, and she will therefore continue to dance in Dolores.

Miss Julia Marlowe's manager for next season has not yet been settled upon, and there is an apparent scramble to see who will secure the young star.

Emily Winant, the contralto, has already been engaged by the Handel and Hayden Society of Boston for Messiah and Elijah, to be produced in Boston next December.

A new trio has been introduced in The Pearl of Pekin, and is sung by Miss Irene Verana, Miss Clara Lane and Mr. Herbert. It is entitled "Oh, What a Subject to Paint on a Fan!" and the music is by Mr. Kerker.

Manager J. M. Hill is so well satisfied with the success of A Possible Case that he has determined to keep it in reserve for the reconstructed Union Square Theatre next season. He has refused all out of town engagements.

Maud Powell, the violin virtuoso, will undertake another Western tour. She has been engaged for the Kansas City Festival, April 26th, 27th. Sunday evening, April 22d, Miss Powell appeared at the Liederkrans anniversary festival at Steinway Hall.

Mattie Earle, leading lady with R. L. Downing, while resting in New York during Holy Week, heard J. H. Connolly read his play, Rank, and was so pleased with it that she has its purchase under consideration for her starring tour next season.

Kate Pursell has for obvious reasons changed the name of her drama, Calamity Jane to The Queen of the Plains. Chas. Benton is interested with H. T. Wilson in the management of her company. Early in May, with a notablyf large support, Miss Pursell will begin a tour of New England.

Mme. Alboni says that in all her career she never faced an audience without being scared half out of her wits. Even now, having long retired from the public stage, though her voice is still as perfect as ever, she says she cannot stand up to sing before a dozen friends in her own parlor without a bit of nervous trembling.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Abbey and family sailed for Europe April 7th. On the 6th Mrs. Abbey was sued by Nellie Danzig for $643.64 for costumes furnished when the defendant was Florence Gerard. In her defense Mrs. Abbey stated that the costumes were furnished on the order of Isaac Bloom, on the credit of Eric Bayley, with whose company she was then playing. The jury returned a verdict in favor of Mrs. Abbey.

The Mystery of a Hansom Cab was acted for the first time in America April 16th, at the Amphion Academy, Williamsburg, N. Y., by a special company, under A. M. Palmer's management, and including Henry Lee, Sydney Armstrong, W. A. Lackage, Augustus Cook, M. B. Snyder, Rose Snyder, W. S. Harkins, E. H. Vanderfelt and wife and Carrie Jamison. The week was originally contracted to Clara Morris, but she canceled and Mr. Palmer took the house.

Sparrow & Jacobs, the proprietors and managers of the Theatre Royal, Montreal, Can., have recently given to managers of combinations playing at their house, the benefit of a weekly insurance upon the properties, scenery and costumes held in the Theatre Royal during their engagement there. The scheme seems worthy of careful consideration, and has already been duly taken advantage of by some half a dozen or more well known managers of prominent traveling companies.

It is the rarest thing in the world, to use one of the common exaggerations of speech, that a stage wig does not betray itself. Aside from the fact that it rarely is in keeping with the complexion of the wearer, for the skin of the face, or face and shoulders and the hands or arms, is seldom, if ever, except in the case of blacks, Arabs or Moors, made up to suit the color of the false hair. And what is true of wigs is also true of stage mustaches, whiskers and beards. In the case of men with short hair or women with hair dressed up on the head the stage wig usually, leaving aside its color, makes its falsity known at the back of the head and especially about the ears. This is often due to carelessness on the part of the wearer, either in putting the wig on or in choosing one that does not fit. It seems also almost impossible to keep such wigs close fitting at the neck when the head is held in any other position than perfectly straight. Of course, in the case of long hair wigs, either for men or women, the neck effect is all right. Such wigs usually show what they are by allowing a sight of the natural hair at the temples or by the front of the ears. A common mistake with actors is to wear hats too small for their wigs. These observations may furnish food for reflection on the part of the dramatic profession of stage "dressers" and stage wig makers.

What a diversity of circumstances often conspires to bring a Thespian into substantial repute, both in the profession and with the theater going public! There is winsome Fannie Batchelder, who has just been engaged for one of the most exclusive stock companies in this city. Two years ago she was hardly known outside of one of Mr. Hoyt's farce companies, in which she played a sprat-and-biscuit part. One night, however, the students of Columbia College attended in a body a performance at the Standard Theater. Out of compliment to the guests the actors all wore the blue ribbon of the college—all, that is except Miss Batchelder, who, being a Bostonian, evinced her loyalty to Harvard by wearing a band of the Cambridge crimson. The Columbia men raised a great cry at this, and when Miss Batchelder refused to quiet the uproar by removing the ruddy ribbon her instant resignation was asked for. The plucky girl gave it promptly, withdrew from the stage, studied with excellent purpose for two years, and now secures a place in one of the best American school of actors—and all because of that red ribbon.

Mrs. Potter.

To-night at the Grand Opera House Mrs. James Brown Potter will open in Loyal Love. Mrs. Potter has received a good deal of attention through the papers and will draw large houses through her engagement here as she has in other cities. She arrived in the city in her special car yesterday morning and will be well rested for the performance to-night.

A Woman's Example for Women.

The success of Mrs. James Brown Potter, in her stage venture, is gratifying in this, that it is not only a compliment to a woman of force and intellect, in which all who believe in the advancement of women will rejoice, but a practical evidence of what a woman can do who means to do something. The best that society can do for men and women is to allow them to do the best they can for themselves. In England we have seen ladies of high birth and gentle culture going sensibly into business, and with good results. Industry and courage brought them independence, as industry and courage almost invariably do.

It is a false view of a woman's position to suppose that she invades her womanhood by honest employment. Mrs. Potter in going upon the stage has not only achieved a triumph in art, but a success which must be gratifying to all who believe in women having the nerve to help themselves. —[New York Herald.

WILLIE SHARP

Falls From Grace and is to be Corrected.

A party, who formerly furnished music for the Fatherland saloon, called at the police station on Saturday night and asked for police interference in the case of Willie Sharp, a precocious youth of 16 years, who is earning a livelihod by playing the piano in certain places of doubtful repute. The man who professed to have Willie's welfare so much at heart, stated that the lad was the son of very respectable parents in San Francisco, but running away from home, had found his way to this part of the State. Willie is a musical prodigy, and was for five years in the employ of this man, who says in all that time he never knew Willie to take a chew of tobacco, smoke a cigar or touch a glass of liquor. Until within the past few weeks Willie, with other select company, helped him to furnish music for the saloon. When the order was issued prohibiting saloon music, Willie engaged himself to play in a museum during the day and at night he thumps the piano in a house of ill-repute in the lower part of the city. This is what Willie's solicitous friend objects to. The clerk at the police office instructed the gentleman to advise the boy's father to come after him, or else petition the authorities to have him sent home. In the meantime, if any of the officers find Willie on dangerous ground he will be taken up and dealt with as the law directs for the protection of such callow youths.

PEACE DISTURBERS

Arrested by the Police Yesterday Morning.

Tim Crane and John Kirby disturb the peace of Alameda street yesterday morning by creating a disgraceful row on the street. Officer Appel bore down upon them with all his war feathers on, and Crane, the nimbler of foot, made good his escape. Kirby, a powerfully built man, stood his ground, and when the officer came up struck him two sledge-hammer blows. The gallant officer, however, stood up bravely before the belligerent, but did not succeed in making him a prisoner until Officer Romans came to the rescue. Kirby was just drunk enough to be ugly, and the two policemen had a hard struggle before they got him safely manacled. After the bracelets were on the prisoner struggled so that they were bent, in consequence of which it took three-quarters of an hour to get them off after arriving at the station. Kirby's wrists were in bad condition, but the punishment was self.inflicted. It seems that Crane was the instigator of the disturbance, and Officer Apple started immediately in search of him, after seeing Kirby secure in the cooler. At about 2 o'clock he got sight of the man, and shortly had him behind the iron bars. Both will appear before Judge Austin to-day.
