GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

C. F. Olson, an Ex-Member of the Legislature, Convicted.

THE WIVES OF LEWIS.

A Woman from Denver Claims a Portion of the Estate.

There Are Said to Be Two Other Claimants—An Ogden Minister Resigns—Proceedings Before Judge Blackburn—A Timber Case—"Tex" on Trial.

OGDEN, March 2.—Charles F. Olson, ex-assessor and collector of Cache county, and at one time a member of the Utah legislature, was this afternoon found guilty of embezzlement by a jury in the Fourth district court and will appear for sentence on Friday, March 10. At that time his attorneys will move for a new trial, on the ground that the verdict was merely a compromise.

The trial of this case has occupied three days in Judge Miner's court, and its progress was watched with great interest. Olson was arrested last year on complaint of the territorial officers, who had found a shortage of about $6,000 in his accounts as assessor and collector of Cache county. The amount was made good by the bondsmen. The jury found that he was only guilty of embezzling $500.

PURCHASED STOLEN CATTLE.

John Hipwell, a young man of West Weber, is on trial charged with grand larceny, he having, it is alleged, purchased two head of beef cattle from Alexander Robb, notwithstanding the fact that he knew they had been stolen by Robb. The case will be finished today.

Still the grand jury maintains the strictest secrecy regarding the decision reached by it in the case of the Frenchman who killed George Lewis.

A MINISTER RESIGNS.

Rev. James H. Fitzwater, who has filled the pulpit of the First Methodist Episcopal church since October of last year, tendered his resignation last night, having been appointed to the presiding eldership of the Lima district of the Central Ohio conference. During his residence in Ogden the reverend gentleman has accomplished a great work. He found the new church building covered with a $30,000 plaster and today through his personal endeavors it is free of encumberances. Until the June conference Rev. Fry of Ohio will occupy the pulpit.

Three hundred and sixty sacks of Australian mail went west today. It will go out on the steamer Australia.

LEWIS ESTATE CLAIMANTS.

Elnora Lewis, who claims to be the legal wife of the dead gambler, Thomas A. Lewis, or George Lewis, as he is known, is in Ogden to present her claims to the estate of the deceased. She says she was married to Lewis in Denver, where he represented himself asa western cattle king, in the year 1887. Professor T. B. Lewis, the brother of the gambler, also the executor of the estate, is investigating the affairs of his brother, and should the woman establish her claims she will be dealt with equitably. It is understood there are two other women who claim to be the legal wives of Lewis, one in Missouri and the other in Texas.

THE PROVO COURT.

"Tex," the Notorious Horsethief, on Trial—Other Cases.

PROVO, March 2.—Judge Blackburn charged the jury in the Jones rape case, instructing it that it might find a verdict of assault with intent to commit rape, should it find the act had not been proven. The jury is still out.

Edwin H. Refern was arraigned, charged with fornication committed with Josephine Steggell in Grand county, Oct. 15, 1892. The case will be heard immediately after the meeting of the supreme court.

A RESERVATION TIMBER CASE.

The case against John Foreman, Joseph Harracks and Albert Carlisle was tried. These men are charged with unlawfully cutting down timber on the Uintah Indian reservation in August, 1891. Deputy Marshal Goodsell saw the men on the reservation with newly cut timber on their wagons in July, 1891. Marshal Monahan saw the defendants disposing of dry timber which appeared to have been freshly cut, and he found it had been taken from a grove within the reservation. Mr. Wayman gave evidence defining the bounds of the reservation.

King moved for an acquittal on grounds of there being no proof of any timber having been cut down, and the judge granted the motion, instructing the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

"TEX" ON TRIAL.

Charles Durango, or "Tex," the notorious horsethief who has been operating in Emery county for some years, and who is now serving a term in the pen for grand larceny, came to trial today, charged with stealing a gray horse in June, 1892, in the county above named. Zane prosecuted and H. Warner looked after the defense.

One witness stated that three horses were taken from a pasture near Helper May 31 of last year, one of which was the gray horse belonging to James Stewart.

Sheriff Fowler gave evidence of the capture of the defendant, which was the scene of a tragedy wherein "Tex" was wounded in the hip and a horse shot down. The gray horse was in possession of the outlaws, who were three in number, viz., "Tex," Howard Olds and Louis Venetia. The case is still on trial.

OPEN THE RESERVATION.

Several prominent people are in from the Uintah reservation. They assert that there is a strong sentiment throughout that section for the opening of the reservation.

P. P. Hindmarsh is rebuilding his grocery store, which was recently burned.

Theatre-goers were disgusted with the "Peck's Bad Boy" performance which was seen at the opera house last evening. Provo has been treated to a sorry lot of attractions during the past winter.

L. Holbrook has re-leased the Roberts house for a term of ten months.

Some most beautiful furnishings have been placed in the I. O. O. F. hall. The carpet, which is covered with emblems of the order, is a thing of beauty.

JONES AND "TEX" GUILTY.

Edwin Jones was found guilty of rape by the jury in his case and was recommended to mercy. Ten days' arrest of judgment was granted by the court.

"Tex," the horse thief, was found guilty of stealing a gray stallion from James Stewart and was sentenced to one year's confinement by Judge Blackburn.

Mrs. Wiseman's Case.

EDITOR HERALD:

Your informent relative to the death of Mrs. Wiseman of diphtheria in Sugar House recently, and that she had left an invalid husband with six small children, is incorrect. Mrs. Wiseman died last October but not of diphtheria as reported. Mr. Wiseman lost a little boy of this dreaded disease not long ago and has been materially aided by the charitable residents of Sugar House, who, as a rule, look carefully after their poor and afflicted. Mr. Wiseman is not an invalid but a hard-worker in the employ of the Utah Central railroad, and when the quarantine is raised from his premises will be found hard at work again. Mr. Wiseman has had a great deal of trouble through sickness of late and wishes to extend thanks to all who have aided him in this, his hour of trouble. W. C. A. SMOOT, JR.

New York Stocks.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The stock market continued to show a dwindling volume of business today while interest in trading, aside from specialties, was concentrated entirely in Industrials. These shares all developed marked strength and imparted a firm temper to the rest of the market. Considerable early selling in Sugar and Cordage resulted in an early decline of both, but on returns of dividends sugar mounted quickly from 129 to 134¾, and Cordage from 58 to 63⅝, which advances were well maintained. Other Industrials were decidedly strong with the single exception of Distillers, which closed a shade higher. Cotton oil rose 2½. There was considerable realizing in Northern Pacific preferred. Reading was stronger and advanced, and the final change was an insignificant gain. Coalers and Grainers inclined to advance. The close was rather heavy, though at fractional advances for the day. Railroad bonds comparatively active and firm.

Government bonds dull and lower.

We do not know why Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil is so useful in those simple but varied conditions which you know as "having a cough." We cannot explain it: we only know the fact from experience.

It may be due to the combination of tonic effects of cod-liver oil and the hypophosphites; it may be partly due to the glycerine. There are many effects in medical practice the causes of which appear to be plain, but how those causes produce those effects we do not know at all.

A GREAT LITERARY BARGAIN!

Cooper's Famous Romances of the American Forest!

An Entirely New Edition of

THE LEATHERSTOCKING TALES,

By JAMES FENIMORE COOPER.

The first and greatest of American novelists was James Fenimore Cooper. "His popularity," says a writer in the Century Magazine, "was cosmopolitan. He was almost as widely read in France, in Germany, and in Italy as in Great Britain and the United States. Only one American book has ever since attained the international success of these of Cooper's—'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' and only one American author, Poe, has since gained a name at all commensurate with Cooper's abroad." The great author is dead, but his charming romances still live to delight new generations of readers. "The wind of the lakes and the prairies has not lost its balsam and the salt of the sea keeps its savor," says the same writer above quoted. Beautiful indeed are Cooper's stories of the red man and the pioneer, full of incident, intensely interesting, abounding in adventure, yet pure, elevating, manly, and entirely devoid of all the objectionable features of the modern Indian story. No reading could be more wholesome for young or old than Cooper's famous novels. An entirely new edition of the Leatherstocking Tales has just been published, in one large and handsome volume of over three hundred large quarto pages, containing all of these famous romances, complete, unchanged and unabridged, viz.:

THE DEERSLAYER, THE PATHFINDER,
THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS,
THE PIONEERS, THE PRAIRIE.

This handsome edition of the Leatherstocking Tales is printed upon good paper from large type. It is a delightful book, and one which should have a place in every American home. It contains five of the most charming romances that the mind of man has ever conceived. A whole winter's reading is comprised in this mammoth volume. All who have not read Cooper's stories have in store for themselves a rich literary treat. Every member of the family circle will be delighted with them. We have made an arrangement with the publisher of this excellent edition of the Leatherstocking Tales whereby we are enabled to offer this large and beautiful book almost as a free gift to our subscribers. Such an offer as we make would not have been possible a few years ago, but the lightning printing press, low price of paper and great competition in the book trade have done wonders for the reading public, and this is the most marvelous of all.

A New and Complete Outfit. Best work at Eastern Prices.

IT IS A BOON TO READERS.

We ask every reader to consider the offer made in our advertising columns of a complete set of the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica for the small sum of $5.00 on delivery of the complete set, and $2.50 a month for ten months. This proposition is made solely on condition of your subscribing to this paper for one year; all our present subscribers are entitled to all the advantages of this offer. Such a proposition was never made by any newspaper before, and the fact that we are able to make it is a striking illustration of the wealth producing progress of the world in this wondrous age of electricity and steam. The cost of producing the encyclopædia has considerably exceeded $1,000,000. That such a work should be placed at the disposal of every resident of this section at a price so small that the saving of eight cents daily for eight months will cover it, and on terms so easy as to involve no inconveniences of economy—this surely is a triumph of modern intelligence and labor combination.

What the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica is, however, is a matter as to which information is not generally diffused. The Encyclopædia Britannica is regarded by all students and literary men as the standard reference authority of the English speaking world. For nearly one hundred and twenty years it has stood at the head of its peculiar class of literature, employing on its nine editions the most celebrated writers of successive generations, and sparing no expense necessary to secure the services of the foremost men in every department of human knowledge. Essays, dissertations and descriptions by such men as Macaulay, Jeffrey, Leigh Hunt, Faraday, Mill, Tyndall, Huxley, Clifford and Farrar are imbedded in its pages, making it not only an encyclopædia of facts, but a most delightful assortment of literary treasures as well.

This is the work which forms the basis of the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica, which is, as its name imports, the original Britannica remodeled, amended and, where necessary, enlarged to fit it to occupy in American homes the place held by the original work among the people of England. Articles on subjects peculiarly interesting to Americans—such as the histories and descriptions of American states and cities, accounts of military operations on American soil, descriptions of peculiarly American industries and institutions—have been entirely rewritten and greatly enlarged, the space alloted to matters uninteresting except to Englishmen being correspondingly reduced. A most complete series of biographies of living persons—of whom no mention is made in the original work, its plan excluding notices of any but the dead—has been added, a number of new maps, including one of every state in the union, have been introduced and the entire work has been corrected to bring it into line with the progress of history and science up to the present year. The net result is a compilation that in interest and reliability surpasses the original Encyclopædia Britannica as far as that monumental work surpasses all others of its kind.

It may not be amiss to say here a few words to one of the uses of a work like the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica, to which many of our readers, perhaps, give little thought. The high price at which the Encyclopædia Britannica and its competitors have hitherto been offered have resulted in limiting their sale to literary men and comparatively wealthy families, and the effect of this limitation has been that by the great mass of American people an encyclopædia is looked on as work of reference and nothing more; something useful to students, but rarely needed by men of non-professional vocations. How mistaken this idea is anybody will instantly see who will take the trouble to glance through a volume of the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica. From end to end it abounds in reading of the most delightful kind—biography, travels, history, narratives of adventure, accounts of strange and distant countries, descriptions of inventions and machinery. There is hardly a page of it that will not hold the mind enchained. The influence of such a literary collection in a family is incalculable. It aids the education of the young; it expands and strengthens the minds of older people; it fosters a taste for profitable reading and saves the young from one of the greatest dangers of our day—the temptation offered by the thousands of cheap, trashy and corrupting books that deluge our country in a perennial stream. A library of reference, a collection of pure and entertaining literature, a vehicle of education and a safeguard against vice—this is what we offer to our readers.
