"The courteous and able organ of the Unitarian denomination in this city."—[New-York Tribune.
"A model paper."—[Boston Journal.
"One of the ablest religious newspapers published in America."—[Yonkers Herald.
"It is full of life, learning and liberality."—[Sunday-School Gazette.
"The ably-conducted organ of our Unitarian fellow-Christians."—[Montreal Herald.
"One of the ablest Unitarian journals in the country."—[New-York Daily News.
"This paper—which, in our view, is the best religious journal in this country—is deserving of the widest encouragement on the part of all who profess to be Liberal Christians. Its hearty sympathy with all enterprises which have for their object the amelioration of the condition of mankind, of whatever clime or sect, and its earnest and hearty recognition of all that is good and just in other denominations, should commend it to those who believe in progress, both in religious and social matters. Its selections are of a very high order of excellence."—[Dedham Gazette.
"This able journal, published weekly by the Unitarian Association of the State of New-York, well maintains its character as a candid, liberal and fearless religious newspaper. The independent and vigorous earnestness with which it discusses the religious questions of the times, make it a powerful auxiliary to those who are striving for the attainment of a vital piety. Its selections are eminently judicious, and those who are so fortunate as to be numbered among its patrons, have presented to them, in its well-filled pages, the gems of thought uttered by the most eloquent and profound religious thinkers of the age. It is invaluable as a family visitor. We are glad to learn that its success indicates a just appreciation of its merits."—[Boston Transcript.
"The Christian Inquirer, the organ of the Unitarian Association in the State of New-York, is a firm and able supporter of the Broad Church movement, scholarly and unsectarian in tone, and outspoken in its convictions of right. Many of its articles show more of the research and finish of the Review than is usual in papers of its class. It is one of the very best religious papers with which we are acquainted."—[Christian Union.
"Your paper is the richest of our religious weeklies."—[Rev. Theodore Clapp.
"Its articles, both original and selected, possess high literary merit, and the greater part of them are not sectarian in their tone, but are such as Christians of all denominations can agree with and approve."—[Canada Tribune.
"The Christian Inquirer is one of the oldest and most talented theological publications of the day. Every liberal Christian should patronize it."—[Tipton (Iowa) Journal.

XII..Critical Notices.
XIII..New Publications Received.
The Publishers would commend this Review to the attention of the American public, as a work which, dating almost from the commencement of the literature of our country, has always sustained a high reputation whenever our language is known, and one which presents the strongest claims to their favor.
It is to America what the Edinburgh and London Quarterlies are to Great Britain, and takes rank with them both in Europe and America.
Nearly all the great authors of our country were first brought before the public through this Review. Webster, Everett, Sparks, Prescott, Bancroft, with scores of other noted men, of whom our literature is proud, have been among its contributors, and its pages continue to reflect the best talent of our times.
THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW is published quarterly, in numbers of nearly three hundred pages each, at Five Dollars a year.
