To the Consumptive.
Let those who languish under the fatal severity of our climate through any pulmonary complaint, or even those who are in decided consumption, by no means despair. There is a safe and sure remedy at hand, and one easily tried. WILSON'S COMPOUND OF COD-LIVER OIL AND LIME, without possessing the very nauseating flavor of the article as heretofore used, is endowed, by the phosphate of lime, with a healing property, which renders the oil doubly efficacious. For sale by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, No. 166 Court-st., Boston, and No. 168 Broadway, N. Y.

REVISED EDITION.
As the plates of Wells's "Every Man His Own Lawyer" were destroyed by fire, and consequently, the publishers forced to get up new plates, it afforded a good opportunity for an entire and thorough revision of the whole work, giving such alterations and additions as were required to make the Special Laws in each State and Territory as complete and reliable as possible; and this revision was the more necessary, because some of the States had recently reorganized their Statute Laws, and nearly all of them made many important alterations. In addition to this, there were the laws of two new States, Minnesota and Oregon, to be added, and also the Laws which are now in force in the Territories.
To accomplish this purpose, the Revised Statutes and latest enactments of each state and Territory have been critically examined, and carefully compared with the pages devoted to the different States in the former work, by a thoroughly edu ated lawyer of well-known standing and ability, assisted by a business man who is well acquainted with the wants of the mechanical and commercial communities throughout the Union. It may, therefore, with confidence be affirmed, that there is no work extant which is equal to it in point of fullness and correctness, or so well adapted for the guidance of not only the hundreds of thousands who have had the previous editions, but also of every man and business woman, in whatever business engaged, or whatever located.
The utility of a volume of this character is too obvious to need commendation. The design in its preparation has been to offer the professional man, the farmer, the mechanic, and the business man, a comprehensive and reliable work, which will enable him to draw up any instrument in writing that may be required in the course of business, in a legal form; to furnish him with all such legal information as is usually called for in the various avocations of life; and to make a plain, common-sense work, that everybody can understand, and which will enable any man or woman to transact his or her own business in a legal manner, without legal assistance.

THE NEW NOVEL.
THIS SPIRITED AND DELIGHTFUL NOVEL HAS BEEN RECEIVED WITH GREAT FAVOR BY THE PRESS, BEING UNIVERSALLY PRONOUNCED SOMETHING UNUSUALLY FRESH, VIGOROUS, ORIGINAL, AND MARKED BY A GENIUS OF DECIDED PROMISE. A FEW OPINIONS FROM SOURCES OF UNQUESTIONABLE INTEGRITY ARE APPENDED:
From The Boston Journal.
"In many of its best points, startling, strong, and true. . . . There is sound, sharp sense young hope, manhood's wisdom, cheerful philosophy, and true sentiment in the volume."
From The Boston Transcript.
"This work is a vivid presentation of the obstacles which obstruct a youth of talent with the difficulties of practical life. . . . The author is master of a style of singular clearness, directness, and force; every page shows signs of a trained and cultivated intellect."
From The New-York Observer.
"Fresh, lively, and vigorous in its style, original and striking in its plot, and well sustained in its execution, this is a novel of more than common ability and merit. Its characters are drawn with great freedom and naturalness, and the story keeps up the reader's interest, without flagging, from the beginning to the end."
From The Boston Express.
"A delightful excitement carries the reader from page to page in an eager desire to know more of every character. There is not a dull chapter in the book. Brimming full of spirit and animation, this history of youthful struggles in life, and its mysteries sparkles with gems of feeling and passion."
From The Home Journal.
"A book of singular originality and genius."
From The Philadelphia Press.
"In all respects an original and sterling book."
From The Albion.
"The author has a bright prospect before him."
From The Buffalo Courier.
"We should like to give our readers a specimen of some of the literary felicities of the novel. It contains colloquial passages which are worthy of Dickens. Some of the passages-at-arms between Uncle Robert and Old Varly are really inimitable. . . We recommend the book cordially."
One vol., 12mo., cloth. 401 pages. Price $1. Mailed, post free, on receipt of price.
