ELECTION—THURSDAY, Dec. 17.

[illegible] MORNING, DECEMBER 16, 1857.

[illegible] Express have placed [illegible] for our paper.

[illegible] Commercial.—The official proceedings [illegible] Council, and of their [illegible] will be found in the [illegible] morning.

[illegible] Fire in the Hills of Decatur.—[illegible] Decatur, on Friday, pursuant to the [illegible] of Gen. WALKER, on a day of prayer [illegible] the length and breadth [illegible] It is meet and proper, as [illegible] we humbly bow before [illegible] Great and Merciful God, Author of all good, and especially thank Him for the [illegible] which he has mercifully designed [illegible] during the second year now drawing [illegible] a close.

[illegible] religious worship will be held in the [illegible] of this city and that all the temples [illegible] of the Most High will be [illegible] of praise.

[illegible] of the municipal government in the City Hall, as will be seen by the notice of Mayor [illegible] will be closed for the day at 10 o'clock this morning.

Assessors Appointed.—Our readers will find at the head of this paper the names of three worthy and substantial gentlemen, put forward as candidates for election to the Board of Assistant Assessors, viz. Messrs. H. J. Ranney, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. B. Campbell; and Mr. Henry Gibbs, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. N. E. Bailey—both of the Third Ward, First Municipal District, bounded by Julia street and Canal and the river and the lake.

Both of these gentlemen are in all respects qualified for the position—have a large, abiding and permanent interest in the city—and belong to that class of men who should be entrusted with our municipal legislation. They are summer and winter citizens, not adventurers or Sparrows.

Mr. David Stickney is the candidate in the Eighth Ward, Third District, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. S. P. DeLabarre. He is a most worthy and competent citizen, as we have taken occasion before this to say.

Of none of these gentlemen will he elected without opposition, as they should be.

The voting products are described in the notice of the Central Board of Commissioners, which may be found in our advertising columns.

A-BLAZE GRAPICS FOR INVESTING CAPITAL.—As may be seen by referring to another page, Mr. B. Rodrigues has offered for sale some valuable property in different parts of the city, among which several beautiful residences on Bayou Road may be particularly mentioned. The house that Mr. R. at present occupies, situated at the corner of Bayou Road and Pond street, is one of the most spacious and magnificent in this city, and, we may say, State. The dwelling, out buildings, [illegible] are all in good order and repairs, while square of ground in a neighborhood is one quite genteel and respectable. All that taste and the requirements of a fashionable mansion dictate has been applied to make the house spacious and comfortable. The flower gardens are filled with the choicest flowers, shrubbery and fruit-trees. The kitchen garden is large, well laid out and cultivated, producing [illegible] which can be used by any family, however large. In the rear, but adjoining and fronting on Pond, the dwelling and gardens are the stables, coach houses, carriage houses, stables, cow houses and poultry-yard. These are arranged with all the modern improvements and are made to meet the requirements of a large establishment. The dwelling is fitted up throughout with gas, and water is supplied to every chamber from a reservoir in the attic. Water has also been laid in the stables, so conveniently arranged that one can hitch horses immediately after arriving from bed, if not being necessary for one to leave the room. In a climate like ours, this has to indeed a luxury. For a family with the necessary means and disposition to enjoy life, a better place is not to be had, to our knowledge, and Mr. Rodrigues informs us that he will dispose of the whole establishment, furniture, plate, etc., exceedingly low and on liberal terms.

Mr. R. has other pieces of property in the same neighborhood, which offer great inducements to parties with small means.

We would also call the attention of the public to that part of Mr. R.'s advertisement in which his line of omnibuses are offered for sale. This line is one of the most popular in the city, well conducted and exceedingly profitable. An idea may be formed of the extent of the business, when we say that there are at present attached to the line over one hundred head of mules and horses, and thirteen omnibuses, yet it is constantly necessary to increase the number of stock and carriages to meet the increasing patronage of the line, Bayou Road being one of the great thoroughfares of the Second District, and is every day becoming more popular for suburban residences. This is indeed an opportunity for profitable investment.

GRAND DISPLAY OF THE FINE ARTS.—At Mr. Jewett's magnificent saloon, on Camp street, last evening, we witnessed the most astonishing displays of jewelry and fancy goods that we have ever seen in this city. The collection embraced not only the most valuable specimens of the jeweler's art, in diamonds, but a number of articles which glittered with a double lustre, from their historic associations.

Thus we saw the massive finger ring, with a watch in the seal, which was so long worn by George the Third, a diamond enamel brooch, a pearl obelisk, and other articles of enormous value, which once decorated the wrists and heads of princesses, and lesser lights in the constellation of European nobility; a very large snuff, made of papier mache, inlaid with pearl enamel, and gold—once the property of Dost Mohammed; and a tortoise shell and gold framed dressing mirror, and other articles of the greatest richness, that was once royal property. These articles were the special curiosities of the display.

The remainder of the display consisted of jewelry of the richest and most unique patterns; a great variety of galvano-plastic ware, embracing salvers, toilet boxes, cigar boxes, dishes, and vases; busts and statuettes of bronze and marble; the richest Severe porcelain, and a variety of other articles, well calculated to captivate the fancy of all lovers of the beautiful and the rare.

This splendid collection of goods was brought to this country, and to this city, by Dr. Henry Gibbes, whose opportunities of collecting rarities in Europe have never been excelled by those of any other living man. The articles have been arranged for display, at the salons named, and to-day they will be open to the inspection of the public. To-morrow, Mr. Gardner Smith is to hold a dispersing of them by auction; and we can state to our readers, that gems will probably roll around before they can have an opportunity of purchasing from another such collection for holiday presents.

BEAUTIFUL BOOKS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Mr. J. B. Wasson, No. 69 Common street, opposite the City Hotel, has on hand an assortment of books well worthy the inspection of those who intend making holiday presents in that line. They comprise everything of standard literary merit, and the most splendid binding and illustration. We advise our friends not to miss Mr. Wasson's establishment, in their gift-hunting rounds.

RICH SILVERWARE.—The display of silverware at Messrs. Hyde & Goodrich's, corner of Royal and Canal streets, is one of unsurpassed richness and brilliancy. Prettier ware for the joint purposes of use and ornament in a household, could not possibly be manufactured anywhere, or be desired by the most extravagant taste in housekeeping. This ware, it should be remembered, is manufactured by Messrs. Hyde & Goodrich, themselves, and they justly challenge the world to produce any thing of the kind more tasteful or beautiful. The assortment comprises every article requisite to the complete garnishment of table and sideboard. We advise housekeepers to go and inspect for themselves. See advertisement in another column.

FOR MEMPHIS AND CAIRO.—The Memphis packet line steamer Ingomar, Capt. J. W. Gwins, connecting through to St. Louis and Louisville by first class packets from Memphis, and by Illinois Central Railroad from Cairo, leaves at 5 P. M. this day. J. H. Fridge, agent—office under St. Charles Hotel.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE—NICARAGUA.

We intimated yesterday morning, that we intended reading the whole of President Buchanan's ponderous message to Congress. We still intend to accomplish that feat, although we haven't done it yet. Great labor impeding longer time than light labor, and besides, we prefer to despatch heavy documents by read, instead of by wholesale. At all events this latter course is more convenient to ourselves, and will no doubt prove more palatable to our readers. If we ventured upon a review of the entire production in our article, we should not expect it to be more than a hundred fold more generally perused than the message has been, and we question whether it has been attentively read in the Parish of Orleans by five hundred persons since its publication day before yesterday.

We have only looked over, with any degree of care, two portions of the President's annual manifesto—that relating to Kansas and that relating to Nicaragua. With regard to Mr. Buchanan's views on Kansas affairs, we had a few observations yesterday morning, and expect to have a good deal more to say on the same subject hereafter. With regard to his views respecting Central American questions, including Nicaragua, we are constrained to express decided dissent and disapprobation. We do not consider them well founded in truth, or consistent with our boasted national honor, or at all friendly to the spread or development of our Southern institutions in a southerly direction. Having, by freesoilizing the North-west, interposed a wall of adamant to an expansion in that quarter, safe, impracticable and humiliating neutrality laws are invoked to preclude our direct or indirect occupation of regions peculiarly suited to the employment of slave labor, and from which, if we could not derive any sectional strength, we might build up a large and lucrative trade. The doctrine laid down by Mr. Buchanan would hem us in on all sides, and is wholly at war with the bold and manly American principles enunciated in the celebrated Ostend circular, of which Mr. Buchanan, then Minister to England, was the first signer, Mr. Mason, Minister to France, the second, and Mr. Soule, Minister to Spain, the third. The air at Ostend and the air at Washington must be radically different. In the one place Mr. B. was as bold as a lion, in the other place he is as gentle as a dove.

Mr. Buchanan says that it is our duty and our interest to cultivate friendly relations with the independent republics on this continent, and that we should "rejoice in their prosperity," but that "unfortunately for both them and us, our example and advice have lost much of their influence in consequence of the lawless expeditions which have been fitted out against some of them within the limits of our country." Here Mr. Buchanan draws a very long bow, and rests his conclusions upon a basis that the facts do not warrant. The reason why the United States have lost their "influence" in the so-called Central American Republics, is because the Government of the United States has never enforced the rights of its citizens there; has never exacted full immunity for outrages committed; has never thrown the aegis of protection, sure and absolute, over our commerce or our wayfarers in those regions. Had the United States acted as England always acts, our "influence" would have long since preponderated in Central America. Then, again, have "lawless expeditions" proceeded from this country to Central America? This is questionable, to say the least. Gen. Walker first went to Nicaragua on the invitation of the then existing government of that Republic. In going, he violated no law. In returning, he returned as the duly and rightfully elected President of Nicaragua. With him he took a number of emigrants on a vessel regularly cleared from the Custom-House of a neighboring city. Was there anything "lawless" about this? Nothing we are able to discover.

"Ever since the administration of General Washington," says Mr. Buchanan, "acts of Congress have been in force to punish severely the crime of setting on foot a military expedition within the limits of the United States, to proceed from thence against a nation or a State with whom we are at peace." If we are not very much mistaken, Mr. Buchanan, in the renowned Ostend Manifesto, very emphatically intimated that if we could not obtain Cuba peacefully, by purchase or otherwise, that it was our right and our duty to take it any how! The opinions of the veteran politician have undergone a wonderful change. Filibusterism, when it is popular and enables a man to reach the loftiest position, is all right; but the goal of ambition once reached, it becomes a "crime."

Mr. Buchanan then proceeds to unveil the means put in force to prevent the President of Nicaragua—Gen. William Walker—from peaceably and legitimately proceeding to the shores of his adopted country. The Secretary of State, and the Secretaries of the Army and Navy, together with the United States Marshals and District Attorneys, and the "appropriate army and navy officers," were required to enforce the neutrality acts of 1818. "Notwithstanding these precautions," naively remarks Mr. Buchanan, "the expedition has escaped from our shores." Probably his philanthropic and kindly nature would feel relieved if Gen. Walker and all his men were incarcerated in some gloomy dungeon for the awful offense against the laws of a republican country, of striking for rights as high and dear as those our fathers struck for in the days of the revolution. He then says that the "leader of the recent expedition" was arrested in New Orleans, but discharged on bail in the "insufficient sum of two thousand dollars." We would like to know what right Mr. Buchanan has to say that any bail is sufficient or "insufficient." Neither the laws nor the Constitution clothe him with any authority to make declarations in the premises. That is a matter left exclusively with the judicial tribunals. But, would'nt Judge McCaleb's official head be struck off quite quickly if the President had the power, which, fortunately, he has not.

The President then recommends Congress to pass more stringent laws against filibustering, and then closes the chapter on this subject. "Old Buck!" is almost as hard upon the filibusters as Nero was upon the primitive Christians at Rome. If he wielded the power Nero wielded, we are not positively certain they would be much better off than were the aforesaid Christians. He would crush them out to a dead and a moral certainty.

YOUNG MEN'S SOCIETY BALLS AT ODD FELLOWS' HALL.—The first of the series of the Young Men's Society balls, mask and fancy dress, is to take place at Odd Fellows' Hall to-morrow night. The excellent management, brilliancy and general popularity of the balls given at the same place by the same management last season, will be certain to characterize the coming series, and add still more to the high estimation in which the young gentlemen managers are held by the fashionable dancing community. We are indebted to the managers for tickets of invitation.

A NEW PEN.—We have been favored by the manufacturer, Mr. S. DeWolf, of Cincinnati, with samples of new pens made of copper and erodium, which are warranted not to corrode in any ink. If what is claimed for them is correct, they will certainly soon come into general use, being far less expensive, and possessing quality equal to the gold pen.

☞ Facts cannot be questioned when the people of any country bear testimony in mass, as in the case of Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Not only have we the individual evidence of the land, but almost every paper in the Union is commenting upon the great benefit derived from the use of these celebrated Bitters; besides various diplomas awarded them, among which is one from the Ohio Mechanics' Institute, at their thirteenth annual exhibition at Cincinnati, where the committee was composed chiefly of physicians in the city. These are weighty facts that cannot help but convince the most credulous that it is at least worthy of trial. For Dyspepsia in any form these Bitters are a certain cure when used as per directions on the bottle. For sale by all druggists and dealers generally. d14 2p6t&3t&1tW

☞ During hot weather, when the system is debilitated and the dangers of epidemic diseases commencing their ravages, like the plague in London and the yellow fever in our own Lemisphere, Woodman's Cherry Expectorant strengthens the whole body, and enables it to throw off successfully the first appearance of disease, and fortifies the system against every threat. It is the only remedy for general weakness, pulmonary affections, and galloping consumption.

Save Your Children!

Every one who has a family of dear children must know how liable they are to accidents, and the numerous injuries they sustain, notwithstanding the greatest possible care, from Cuts, Scalds, Bruises, and a thousand other injuries. How their little cries rend the heart! What mother, under those appaling circumstances, but would give almost a portion of her heart's blood to secure the little one from torture! We can tell her at once how it can be done. Have on hand a box of

Dalley's Magical Pain Extractor,

Apply it, and all pain will cease!—all inflammation will subside, and all trouble will be at an end—all tears will cease! Is this good news? Is it consolatory? If so, take care and remember

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR.

☞ Be sure to have it by you.

Sold in New Orleans, wholesale and retail, by

J. WRIGHT & CO.,
