NEW ORLEANS:

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 27, 1858.

Official Correspondence.

The Washington Union of the 20th publishes correspondence and documents communicated by the President to the House of Representatives.

No. 1.—A letter dated October 3, 1857, from Mr. Trisarri to Secretary Cass, calling upon the United States Government to arrest Walker's contemplated expedition to Nicaragua, and asking to be recognized as Minister from Nicaragua.

2.—A letter dated November 10, 1857, from Mr. Trissarri to Secretary Cass, contradicting statements in a letter from Gen. Walker to the Secretary; denouncing Walker as a burner of villages, a despoiler of national property, a trampler upon all rights, and an assassinator of the defenders of Nicaragua; denying that he ever was recognized in any part of Central America as President of Nicaragua, and asserting that he never was nor ever could be President of that State, because its constitution prevents any one not a native from exercising executive power; protesting against the expedition of Walker, and declaring that he and his men would be received and treated by Guatemala, Salvador and Nicaragua as pirates. (Trissarri sets out, in this letter, by claiming to be Minister Plenipotentiary from Salvador and Guatemala.)

3.—A decree signed Thomas Martinez and Maximo Xeres, purporting to be issued on behalf of the "Supreme Government of Nicaragua." From it we extract the following articles:

ARTICLE 1. The republic of Nicaragua protests against all and whatever attempts which freebooters and pirates, of any denomination or from any quarter, may make against her independence, or against that of any other of the States.

ART. 2. From the moment that such freebooters may make their appearance, and that it shall be known that they are preparing a new invasion, or that in effect they intend such against the republic or against the other States of Central America, the transit shall be suspended, as all the effects of the agreement entered into with the Maritime Canal Company on the 15th of June.

ART. 3. Should such an attempt or invasion take place after the re-establishment of the transit by said company, and the latter have complied strictly with the conditions of the contract relative to assistance to Nicaragua in defending her independence, her sovereignty over the isthmus, and the neutrality of the same; or should said company, before the restoration of the transit, lend efficient aid and co operation in said defense, it will, in the former case, continue in operation; and in the latter, the transit shall not be closed, nor will any change be allowed in the exercise of the rights stipulated for the company in said contract.

4.—A letter from Mr. Trissarri to Mr. Cass, dated December 13, 1857, calling attention to a supposed expedition, organized at Mobile by Gen. Henningsen, to reinforce Gen. Walker after the latter had landed at Punta Arenas, and demanding that it be prevented from sailing, and the violators of the neutrality laws punished.

5.—A letter from Mr. Trissarri to Mr. Cass, stating that on the 15th of the previous month Gen. Martinez had assumed the Presidency of Nicaragua, and had confirmed the appointment of the writer as Minister to the United States; that the Constituent Assembly of Nicaragua had approved the contract with the American Atlantic and Pacific Ship Canal Company, vesting said company with the exclusive right of carrying across the Isthmus and of bringing immigrants or colonists into the country; and finally, thanking the Governments of the United States in behalf of Nicaragua, San Salvador and Guatemala, for the seizure and breaking up of Walker's expedition.

Recent Publications.

We have received from the publishers, through Mr. J. B. Steel, copies of the following:

LUCY HOWARD'S JOURNAL. By Mrs. L. H. Sigourney. New York: Harper & Brothers.

This is not the least charming of the many good things which have trickled from Mrs. Sigourney's graceful and womanly pen. The "Journal" is a series of jottings, begun by a school miss at the age of ten, and left off at the womanly age of twenty-two; her style changing as her age advances. The quiet little incidents of a girl's home life are scattered along through the Journal, amidst the happiest embellishments of moral and religious reflection, and the warmest and purest heart-feelings of woman. "Lucy Howard's Journal" is a charming book for the home fireside. It is a handsome blue-bound volume of 340 pages.

DERFF AND CARROT. Translated from the German of "Gustav Freytag," by L. C. T. With a preface by Christian Charles Josias Bunsen, D. D., etc. New York: Harper & Brothers.

A novel, by the editor of the Grenz Bote, (Border Messenger,) at Leipsic. The Chevalier Bunsen, in his preface, pronounces it the greatest story in the German language; its popularity being attested by the public demand, which has required six editions of it in two years. As a novel, it is pronounced able and unusually exciting; whilst its great feature, or fundamental idea, is to favor "the fusion of the educated classes and the total abolition of bureaucracy, and all social barriers between the ancient nobility and the educated classes in the nation, especially the industrial and mercantile population; the just and christian bearing of this united body toward the working-classes, especially in towns; and the recognition of the mighty fact that the educated middle classes of all nations, but especially of those of Germany, are perfectly aware that even the present, but still more the near future, is their own, if they advance along the legal path to a perfect constitutional monarchy." It is a neat book of 500 pages.

From Mr. B. M. Norman, No. 14 Camp street, we have received copies of—

THE AMERICAN ALMANAC and Repository of Useful Knowledge, for 1858. Boston: Crosby, Nichols & Co.

The twenty-ninth issue of an invaluable book of reference for the politician, merchant and citizen of every degree. It contains the usual annual calendar, with much valuable kindred information, in astronomy, meteorology, magnetism, horticulture, etc.; complete lists of all the officers in all the branches of the Federal Government and its different services, with their salaries; government statistics of all kinds; statistics and general information concerning each State and Territory of the Union; statistics of Europe; American and Foreign Obituary for 1857; Chronicle of events, etc., etc. It is a book of upwards of 400 pages; but contains a mass of information, which could not be culled from thousands of pages in other books.

LADIES' ALMANAC FOR 1858. Boston: Damrell & Moore and G. Coolidge.

This is a red-and-gilt bound bijou, not larger than a pocket-memorandum, and will serve as a beautiful little present to any lady. It is rather an annual, containing fine steel plates and an elegant literary miscellany, with a calendar and monthly diary at the beginning. It is really an exquisite little thing.

To Mr. Morgan, of Exchange Place, we are also indebted for a copy of the American Almanac, above described.

A postmaster, puzzling out a very uncertain superscription on an Irish letter, jocosely remarked to an intelligent son of Erin, who stood by, that the Irish brought a hard set of names to this country. "That's a fact, per honor," replied the Irishman; "but they get harder ones after they arrive here."

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16, 1858.

Our noble John Bull-Buchanan-Bennett Administration finds time to be very gay in spite of President William Walker and his suffering companions, who sit in rage at our hotels, and find no better lodgings at night than the watch-house. Bull, Buchanan and Bennett propose to dismiss the Nicaraguan question very summarily. Paying no attention to the eloquence of Quitman, or the logic of Stephens, they secured the reference of the question to the Committee on the Judiciary, and look confidently to that body to mystify the subject out of sight and out of recollection. Meantime, the carnival-like parties are kept up from house to house of the Cabinet officers, and the rights of Walker, the hopes of the South, justice and honesty, are thrown out of doors along with the corks of the champaigne bottles and the fragments of broken plates and dishes. In like manner, Louis Napoleon is wont to get up a great rare-show to distract the attention of rebellious genius, and to drown the clamor of those who hunger for bread.

Of course we of the South will humbly submit to all this. Submission and concession have all along been our habit, and it would be strange indeed, at this day and time, to set up a claim to right Southern Rights! Bah! the song is so old that even a Northern organ grinder can afford to play it without attracting the slightest notice. When Bennett begins to howl the old, familiar tune, we may begin to suspect that he knows its value. True the Herald twangs its black harp in behalf of Kansas and not of Nicaragua. The mockery is just the same. Our representatives here can only use the force of argument and they have used it well. But they may argue until the crack of doom—and the cause of Walker and the South be no whit the better for their argument. Something besides talking must be done; and now or never.

Contemplating the present attitude of Mr. Buchanan in relation to Central America, a member of the French Legation writing to the Courrier des Etats Unis, at New York, chuckles over the supposed fact that Buck, by the necromancy of the Trissarri treaty, has completely outwitted Mr. Bull, and laid the foundation for a peaceful occupation of that country. The writer, with characteristic French modesty, proposes that Mr. Buchanan shall undertake the very easy task of throwing the distracted republics into a homogeneous government, under the control of Costa Rica and under the protection of the United States. This is stuff and gammon of the purest variety. Mr. Bull is a gentleman doing an extensive carrying trade and knows the importance of short-cuts through isthmuses as well as the next man. He has had an understanding with Mr. Buchanan on this subject. Else why does my Lord Gore Ousely linger in Washington, instead of attending to his business in Nicaragua? It remains to be seen what Mr. Buchanan and Ousley are going to do for the South in this connection. Will they do what Walker would have done? Not they. A President who admits that his officer has violated law and transgressed orders, and yet proposes to let the violation pass, and, possibly, to vote the violator a gold medal, is not the President to act impartially under any circumstances. The occupation of Nicaragua, under his auspices, will redound to the benefit of the North and England.

The funniest of the many foolish notions that have sprung up during the agitation of this question, is the proposition of Blair, to colonize Central America with free negroes. Idiocy itself could not have begotten a more ridiculous absurdity. The man spoke well, indeed gave so many evidences of sanity, that it is clear he must have been in fun. The joke would have been complete if he had substituted asses in place of free negroes—the one is as capable of developing the resources of a country as the other. But Blair (he is the son of Francis P.) is quite a young man. Perhaps he may have been in earnest.

Opinions are pretty evenly balanced in reference to the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution. Noses have been carefully counted, but to no purpose, for the nose that so-day stands stright up for the Administration may to-morrow be twisted entirely out of joint by some one or more of the innumerable "developments" that are taking place. Gentlemen entitled to the highest confidence assert that the Buchananites will gain the day beyond the shadow of a doubt. Others entitled to quite as much confidence, assert the reverse. If it be true, as has been asserted, that no Administration ever failed to carry a measure when its whole strength was concentrated upon it, the question is settled—Kansas will come in as a slave State. This power of the Administration to force its measures through Congress, is said to be true even of Administrations which have been in the minority.

James B. Clay has covered himself with Democratic glory by making a speech against General Walker and the South. He did not sell himself by halves—soul and body he belongs to the party in power. The son of his father is rather a feeble vessel. He seems not to have been materially injured by the vitriolic showers with which Prentice drenched him. His manner is grave and subdued. There is little in his appearance to remind one of the gallant Harry, and nothing in his thought—certainly nothing in his present political position.

It is said that, at a recent Republican caucus, Seward advised that the slavery question be dropped, and some attention paid to legislation. The resolution passed. This, if it be true, is a very pretty dodge. "The slave power has forced Kansas into the Union. We, the meek Republicans, submit. Our whole strength avails nothing when opposed to an Administration backed by the slave power. The men of the North may now see how terrible this power is, and what they are to expect from it. Let them look to their liberties, and see to it that in 1860 the affairs of the Government are entrusted to freemen." This is the language with which they will go back to their constituencies, and it will tell. Or is it possible that Seward's eyes were opened at his recent visit to a Culpepper corn-shucking? Or have the recent proslavery leaders in the London Times operated a magical change? Or may not the whole story be a fib?

MALOU.

THE LOST STEAMSHIP PACIFIC.—The Bottle Picked Up.—Some time since we published an account of the discovery of a bottle which had floated ashore on the coast of France, containing a paper purporting to have been written by a passenger on board the Collins steamship Pacific, just as she was going down. This story was supposed to be a hoax, but there is another chapter of it. The editor of the Norwalk (Ct.) Gazette, believing that the paper was written by Legrand Smith, of Norwalk, a passenger on the steamer, wrote at once to a friend in Paris, Dr. Evans, to make inquiries about the affair, and especially the handwriting of the note found. By the Africa an answer was received, in which Dr. Evans says he feels there can be no doubt about it. He had obtained possession of the slip of paper found, and states the circumstances as follows:

I was on a professional visit to the Empress the other day, and in conversation mentioned the subject, in which she became most intensely interested. The Emperor here entering, the Empress said: "My dear, Dr. Evans has been telling me of the possibility of ascertaining the fate of the Pacific." Then repeating what I had said regarding the receipt of your letter, etc., the Emperor, who is a man of noble heart, at once entered into the details of the subject. Upon my relating it to him he said it interested him exceedingly, and he would immediately send for the scrip of paper. He, being a very prompt man and full of kindly feeling, did so, and sent me, directed by himself and sealed with his own private stamp, the said paper, which I now have in my possession, and which is acknowledged by all who have seen it, to be an American's handwriting. It is hastily written in pencil.

Now I wish to obtain through you, his own handwriting, to compare with what I have, as of course, I cannot send you the original, but will have a fac simile taken, if possible, to send you."

The Gazette anticipates that further investigation will decide the question, beyond doubt, as to the genuineness of this curious waif. The friends of the lost Smith are, as may be expected, greatly interested in the result.

A CRAZY COUNT.—At Paris, recently, an Italian Count was discovered to be in a state of lunacy. On endeavoring to take him for the purpose of placing him in an insane asylum, he shut himself up in his house and took a fancy, for the purpose of frightening his pursuers, to disguise one of his servants as the devil—an original idea, worthy of the Chinese who painted their faces to frighten the English. He stripped off her clothes and painted her in three colors, red, green and yellow. He was about manufacturing a tail for her from some window curtain cords, upon the fearful effect of which he counted a great deal, when his rooms were broken into and he was seized and carried off in spite of the object of terror he had created. They were compelled to use spirits of turpentine to remove the paint from the person of the poor woman, which was by no means a delicate affair.
