THE DAILY CRESCENT

Is a circulation which renders it a desirable medium for advertisers. AS A FAMILY PAPER it circulates largely, reaching many hundreds of homes at an early hour, and being read before the approach of business hours, consequently articles for family use may be advantageously published in its columns.

THE WEEKLY CRESCENT

is published every Monday morning at $3 per, invariably in advance. Having an extensive circulation throughout Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama, Texas, and other States, it presents a favorable mode to advertisers of reaching likely users and commodities known. Advertisements inserted for $1 per square, each insertion.

THURSDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 11, 1858.

☞ We are under obligations to the Hon. James Biggs, of the State Legislature, for valuable public documents.

☞ We are under obligations to the pursers of the steamships Tennessee and Mexico for valuable favors.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.—The official proceedings of both Boards of the Common Council, had at their meeting on Tuesday evening last, will appear in the Double Sheet Crescent to-morrow morning.

LIST OF LETTERS.—The uncalled for letters remaining in the Post-Office, will appear in to-morrow morning's Crescent.

DR. BOYNTON'S LECTURES.—Dr. Boynton will give his third lecture to the school children, at Odd Fellows' Hall, this afternoon.

At night he will deliver the fifth of his regular course. The subject will be the coal formations of the earth; and at the close he will introduce his great iron battery—the greatest in the country—and perform a number of startling and beautiful experiments with it.

This being the first lecture of the last half of the course, the expenditure of a dollar will procure admission to the four. There is much entertainment and instruction yet in store for those who have not yet attended.

THE COURT OF DEATH.—A large crowd assembled at the opening exhibition of Rembrandt Peale's great painting at Armory Hall, last evening. The painting was highly admired by all, as it justly deserved to be. A more forcible or comprehensive allegory has certainly never been put upon canvas. The idea is to represent the certainty of death to all the human race by personations of the different agencies through which King Death sends forth his fiat.

A shadowy-draped figure, representing Death, sits enthroned in the center; the dark surrounding dimness portraying the mystery of death. The right hand is extended, signifying that the awful decree has gone forth; and the right foot rests on the breast of a lusty young man, dead by some sudden casualty. The corpse lies across a rock, the head and heels dipping in a surrounding pool. This pool typifies Oblivion; and its contact with the corpse the origin and the end of man. Kneeling at the verge of the pool is a voluptuous female, Pleasure. She offers an intoxicating draught to Youth, who yields; and the after consequences are portrayed by startling figures, typifying Remorse, Delirium, Suicide, Fever, Apoplexy and Consumption. On the other side of the picture, an armed man strides with reeking blade from a slain enemy, and over a helpless widow and her child. This is War. He is preceded by Conflagration with her torch, and followed by the gaunt and dreadful figures of Pestilence and Famine. The crowning part of the picture, however, is Virtue—a very feeble, tottering old man, his countenance bearing the record of a life well spent. He is upheld by Faith, a shining female figure; and thus supported, bows meekly to the tyrant Death on his throne. Each figure of the whole group is perfect in all the details which make up fine painting, and as a whole the picture may be gazed upon for hours with pleasure, and, we may add, with some profit.

Dr. Boynton delivered the explanatory lecture last night, to the great satisfaction of the audience. The painting will be open to the public day and evening henceforth until further notice; Dr. Colton, the manager, giving the accompanying explanation. We advise everybody to go and see it.

BENEFIT OF M. PREVOST.—The popular leader of the Orleans orchestra takes his benefit to-night. The grand opera of "Ernani" is to be produced on this occasion, for the first time. M. Prevost cannot fail to receive the benefit he merits.

GREAT TROTTING RACE AT THE METAIRIE.—There is to be some extra sport in the trotting way at the Metairie this afternoon—in fact, some extraordinary sport. There is to be a trotting race, in harness, at mile heats, best three in five, in which five famous trotters are entered, to-wit: Tom Hyer, Gray Frank, Buckeye, Sam and Tom Murray. We cannot remember of having ever seen a more attractive make-up for a race of the kind. The race begins at 3 o'clock, and we doubt not an immense crowd will go out to see it. A pacing race, with four crack entries, is announced for to-morrow.

ST. CHARLES THEATER.—Miss Cushman's Rosico, last night, afforded the highest pleasure to a densely-crowded house. Miss Reignolds' Juliet, though something out of her usual line, and one of those characters to which she makes no particular aspiration, was very creditably done.

To-night we are to have Miss Cushman as Queen Catherine, in "Henry the Eighth." Mr. Farren is to undertake the part of Cardinal Wolsey, and Mr. Hamblin that of the King.

THE AMPHITHEATRE.—The splendid tableaux of "The Golden Shower," by the Kellers, is strongly typical of the scene at the box-office of the Amphitheater each night, for the crowds roll in with a rush, and drop their money freely. The crowd last night was as dense and fashionable as ever, and the tableaux of the Kellers, and the dances of the sweet little Young Americans, were received with the usual unstinted manifestations of delight. Another fine programme, and a changed one, is to be given tonight. Go early for your seats.

FIRE IN PLAQUEMINE.—On Saturday night last, the Catholic Church in Plaquemine, called the College of the Immaculate Conception, was destroyed by fire, together with the parsonage. Loss, $40,000.

SUCCESSION OF THE LATE GEN. C. LACOSTE.—We are requested to call special attention to the sale which will take place to-day by N. Vignie, auctioneer, in the rotunda of the St. Louis Hotel, of the following property and slaves: A very valuable tract of land in Iberville parish, and fronting on the river; twelve lots and houses in Algiers; two lots and houses in the Third District; a cottage residence in Baton Rouge, and about forty valuable field hands, carmen, ploughmen, cooper, cooker, cook, washers, ironers, and sick nurse. Terms very liberal, and settlement.

WOODMAN'S CHERRY EXPECTORANT.—This valuable and famous medicine, for pulmonary complaints, is always to be had of Mr. O. O. Woodman, corner of Magazine and Common streets, and of Messrs. J. Wright & Co., Nos. 21 and 151 Chartres street. See advertisement.

FOR LOUISVILLE.—The splendid, new and swift passenger packet Pike, Capt. Sturgess, leaves for Louisville and all way landings this evening, at 5 o'clock, carrying the New Orleans and Cairo U. S. mail. Messrs. Bell, Buchanan & Co., are her agents.

THE VIRGINIA FOR MOBILE.—The fine iron packet steamer Virginia leaves for Mobile to-day, on the arrival at Milneburg of the 12 o'clock cars. A safe and speedy trip and a luxurious time generally is in store for all who go upon her. Mr. Edward Toby, No. 27 Camp street, is the agent.

PORTABLE CIRCULAR SAW MILLS.—Planters and millers are respectfully invited to read the advertisement under the above heading, in another part of this morning's Crescent. It will be seen that the different sizes of the saw mills, with the engines and all necessary gear, are offered at prices which amount to nothing when the cost of sawing in the old fashioned way is considered. The engines, too, are adapted to the running of grist mills and cotton gins, as well as saw mills. One of the mills is in operation at No. 58 Perdido street; and it is well worth a visit from all interested in such machinery. Mr. Ivens, the agent at No. 10 Common street, will give all needful information about the mills.

JURY EXEMPTIONS.

In his last annual report, the Attorney-General states that "the greatest practical difficulty in the way of a just enforcement of the criminal law, is the exemption from jury duty allowed to a large number of the citizens of New Orleans." A wide discretion being lodged with our juries in capital cases, whether to render verdicts of manslaughter, of guilty without capital punishment, or of guilty, without qualification, he considers that unless those juries are composed of our most intelligent citizens, there can be no certainty that proper punishment will follow crime. Out of the twelve thousand voters in New Orleans, it is estimated that at least one-third are either exempt by law or necessarily excused from service. In view of these facts, he recommends that the exemptions be repealed. Not possessing the legal learning and experience of the Attorney-General, we are unable to perceive how this measure would afford an adequate remedy for the evil, which is, undoubtedly, a serious one. It appears to us that those instances in which crimes of the most atrocious character escape the penalty of the law altogether, or meet with only a secondary punishment, are to be attributed, almost invariably, to the obstinacy, corruption or imbecile prejudices, of one or two individuals, rather than to a general lack of intelligence on the part of our juries. The Attorney-General recognizes this abuse of the discretionary power—often practised by a single juror in cases where his fellows are unanimously agreed upon the guilt of the accused—but, without material modifications in the crime of murder, he is not in favor of withdrawing the discretion vested in juries. He believes that the evil can be remedied by infusing a greater degree of intelligence into our juries. We grant that intelligence, or at least decided common sense, is a quality quite as desirable in the jury-box as even honesty, of which we fear there is sometimes little enough. But then some minds are so constituted that education only serves to fix deeper the root of early prejudices, and fortify the individual in mulish obstinacy whenever he fancies that he has formed his opinion. Such a person precisely we should select as the "single juror" spoken of by the Attorney-General, who, "exercising the discretion vested in him by law, in a spirit of narrow mercy, or of stubborn contumacy, can force a verdict by which the example that should be made of a great criminal is converted into a secondary punishment, comparatively without terror."

But, admitting, as we do, that intelligence in the jury-box is indispensable to the proper administration of justice, and that there is often a woful lack of it in our juries, how is a reform in this respect to be effected to any great extent by withdrawing the jury exemptions? Are those exempted generally of a higher order of intelligence than the citizens who are liable to jury duty? Are they less fallible and more conscientious in the discharge of their duties? The Attorney-General will hardly contend for their superiority over their fellow-citizens in any of these particulars. The sole advantage, then, it seems, to be derived from withdrawing the exemptions, would be to afford the means of empanneling juries more readily, not of improving their composition. How, in fact, can the latter desirable result be effected simply by increasing the material to form a panel? Will the Attorney-General, when he has satisfied himself that the candidate for juratory distinction is acquainted with the nature of an oath, proceed to question him upon the particulars of his life, and investigate his moral status and his mental qualifications, natural and acquired? Unless he adopts some such plan, we do not clearly see how he is to discriminate between the intelligent and the comparatively stupid, or by what process he is to set aside the latter when he has found them out.

There are services rendered gratis to the public (by the fire department for instance,) for which exemption from jury duty is certainly not an equivalent, and yet is about the only material return made. We are decidedly of opinion that the cause of justice would derive no benefit from the withdrawal of that privilege at all adequate to the importance of such a measure, and we think the ingenuity of the Attorney-General would be sorely tested in devising ways and means of compensation to those entitled to exemption.

WASHINGTON FEMALE SCHOOL.—We spent an hour or two very pleasantly yesterday at the examination of the public schools for females, corner of Magazine and Terpsichore streets, First District. We learned from the several teachers that there are over three hundred pupils in attendance upon this school, varying in age from six to sixteen, and a more orderly, well conducted set of pupils can nowhere be met with. The school being divided into two departments, primary and elementary, and each department into three separate rooms, we had not an opportunity of hearing and seeing all the exercises; but, in passing from room to room, we heard classes examined in geography, mental and practical arithmetic, and reading, in all of which the pupils acquitted themselves in a manner highly creditable to both pupils and teachers. We were really surprised at the readiness and distinctness with which some of the lesser misses answered questions which caused their seniors to hesitate and ponder. The questions were not asked in regular order, as is too often the case, but promiscuously, which showed that the questions and answers had not been learned by rote. We did not hear the compositions of the more advanced pupils read, but examined a few of them, which we found written in a fair and clever style. We were surprised to see so few of our citizens present at this examination. It would appear that the public do not take as much interest in the public schools as their importance merits and demands. They should be the pride and boast of every citizen of New Orleans. Examination of Marshall and Franklin schools to-day.

THE COMPLIMENTARY BALL TO MR. RUFFIER, The musk society hall, gotten up in compliment to Mr. Ruffier, takes place at the Orleans theater to-morrow night. The managers have our thanks for complimentary tickets. Mr. Ruffier has catered long and ably to the dancing festivities of New Orleans, and we may be sure that his friends, in thus acknowledging their indebtedness to him, will make their ball a most brilliant and delightful one.

☞ "I say, John, that man with the consumption, whom the doctors gave up, is still living and going to get well, I believe. He has only taken one bottle of BRADDOCK'S COUGH MIXTURE, and he says it has done him more good than all the medicine he has taken before, and has faith to believe that a few more bottles will entirely cure him. Go to No. 3 Camp street at all hours of the day and you will find a constant rush after the article."

☞ Faded Flowers—It causes sad reflections to take up a bouquet once smiling with beauty, and gaze upon its withered leaves and faded anthers. But how many faded flowers do we see on the great bouquet of humanity, men and ladies, too, whose beauty has fled with all the lightning's speed, and whose forms are shaking with premature decay. What a pity it is that all such do not know that our disease has taken hold upon the vital parts, a simple preparation would restore them to health, to joy, and to beauty. Such a preparation, for instance, as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which relieves away despondency, strengthens the weaker parts, and restores the whole system. It is recommended by physicians, and commended by all who have used it. Sold by all druggists, grocers and dealers generally. fd 2p&4tW

☞ Light is not more necessary to the growth and health of plants in the vegetable kingdom than the free use of Woodman's Cherry Expectorant in all diseases of the lungs. The distressing cough in consumption in all its varied forms, leaves debility if not complete prostration of strength behind; by the timely use of this wonderfully soothing medicine, the harrassing cough is, as if by magic, allayed, and the debility so much to be dreaded is prevented in its career—in short, the worst symptoms are outpurged to its stimulating, strengthening and renovating properties. fd 2p&4tW

☞ If you are sick, the probability is that the rest of your suffering is in the stomach. From a weak stomach proceed dyspepsia, languor, oppression in the diaphragm, jaundice, headache, nausea, bodily weakness, diseases in sight, heartburn, costiveness, dysentery, and a host of other tormenting diseases. Indigestion produces thin blood, and therefore destroys the strength and vigor of the system. To restore the tone of the stomach, and enable it to throw off and dismiss forever all these tormenting and dangerous complaints, nothing is necessary but a persevering use of Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, Philadelphia. There is no mistake, no failure in their sanative effects. For sale by druggists and storekeepers in every town and village in the United States, Canadas, West Indies and South America, at 75 cents per bottle.

Sold in New Orleans, wholesale and retail, by J. WRIGHT & CO., Nos. 21 and 151 Chartres street. fd 2p1m&W

Pantascopic Glasses,

MADE OF GENUINE PEBBLES.

56 Camp street ..... 56 Camp street.

These Glasses, which are introduced by Dr. F. A. VON MOSCHZISKER, the well known Oculist, are the only true Glasses which have hitherto been constructed, and are founded on the most scientific principle, and in accordance with the philosophy of nature in the peculiar form of an Ellipse, and most admirably adapted to the Organ of Sight, and perfectly natural to the Eye, affording altogether the best artificial HELP to the human vision. The material, too, out of which the Glasses are ground, is like glass superior to any commonly called Scotch or other Pebbles; it has the virtue and hardness of all these, and is yet purer and perfectly colorless.

In consequence of Dr. Von M.'s professional engagements, Mr. GRAEFE has been obliged, from the great demand for these Glasses, to transfer the Optical Department, both for his own and the convenience of purchasers, from the St. Louis Hotel to No. 56 CAMP STREET, in the Store of Mr. J. RAFEL, where he will be in attendance from 9 A. M. until 6 P. M.

Accurate examinations made of both Eyes by the OPTOMETER and VISIOMETER, by which means Glasses are suited to the exact focus, by A. GRAEFE, Optician, from the Royal Optical Institute of Berlin.

NEW ORLEANS, August 11, 1857.

W. P. COLEMAN, Esq.:

Dear Sir—The twenty-four inch Mill which I purchased from you for Mr. T. J. Packwood's plantation, has been attached to the sugar-mill engine, and put in operation last week. I am much pleased with it in every respect, both in regard to its simplicity, durability, and quantity it grinds. I timed the mill when in operation several times, and found to my surprise that the mill was grinding one bushel per minute. I therefore expect the mill to grind regularly thirty bushels per hour with ease. To Sugar Planters I would especially recommend your Mills believing them to be superior to any mill ever manufactured.

Yours, respectfully,

JOHN S. McDONALD, Engineer.
