SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN—PROSPECTUS.
VOLUME FOURTEEN.
Begins Sept. 11, 1858.

Mechanics, Inventors, Manufacturers and Farmers.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has now reached its Fourteenth Year, and still advances upon its Career in the Brilliant Satisfactory. It is the only widely popular of the kind published in this country, and is universally admitted to be the ablest Journal of its class in the Union. It is not, as some might suppose from its title, only a dry, abstruse work on technical science; on the contrary, it is a popular paper, and is read by the mechanics, farmers, and men of business throughout the country. It is a perfect mirror of the mechanical and industrial pulse of the country. If the mechanic or artisan wishes to know what is going on in his vocation, he has only to peruse and investigate the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, and he will be sure to find it. If the inventor wishes to get a review of the latest improvements in his line, he has only to peruse the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, and he will be sure to find it. If the manufacturer wishes to know what is going on in other establishments of his class, he has only to peruse the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, and he will be sure to find it. If the farmer wishes to know what improvements are being made in the agricultural implements of his class, he has only to peruse the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, and he will be sure to find it. If the lawyer wishes to know what patents are being granted, and what are the claims of the patentees in his business, he has only to peruse the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, and he will be sure to find it. If the man of leisure wishes to know what are the latest discoveries in the world of science and art, he has only to peruse the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, and he will be sure to find it.

THE EFFICACY OF A. A. PEYCHAUD'S TONIC-AROMATIC BITTERS.

CERTIFICATE.

Having been affflicted for a long time with a painful dyspepsia, and having tried in vain the most celebrated remedies for the cure of this disease, I was induced to try your Bitters, which I do with pleasure, as they have proved to me the most efficacious remedy I have ever taken for the complaint. The medicine has given me a good appetite, and I now feel free from the pain and uneasiness which I formerly suffered after eating. I do not hesitate to ascribe my cure to the use of your Bitters, and I have no doubt they will be found equally efficacious in other cases of dyspepsia. I am, very respectfully, yours, &c.
