A Lasting Peace.—Reader, Peace is a blessed thing; What is so immense evil. Peace ought to be prayed for night and day by all who love their country. But, after all, there is only one peace which is lasting, and that is THE PEACE WITH GOD WHICH FAITH IN CHRIST GIVES.

There is no happiness compared to that which this peace affords. A calm sea after a storm, a blue sky after a black thunder-cloud, health after sickness, light after darkness, rest after toil—all, all are beautiful and pleasant things; but none, none of them all can give more than a feeble idea of the comfort which those enjoy who believe in Christ and have peace with God. It is a peace which passeth all understanding.

It is the want of this very peace which makes many in the world unhappy. Hundreds have everything that is thought able to give pleasure, and yet are never satisfied. Their hearts are always aching. There is a constant sense of emptiness within. And what is the secret of all this? They have no peace with God.

It is the decline of this very peace which makes many a heathen so much in his idolatrous religion. Thousands have been seen to mortify their bodies and vex their own flesh in the service of some wretched image which their own hands had made. And why? Because they hungered after peace with God.

It is the possession of this very peace on which the value of a man's religion depends. Without it, there may be everything to please the eye and gratify the ear—forms, ceremonies, services, and sacraments—and yet no good done to the soul. The grand question that should try all is the state of a man's conscience. Is it peace? Has he peace with God?

Reader, this is the very peace about which I address you this day. Have you got it? Do you feel it? Is it your own? Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall have lasting peace.

Happy Nancy's Secret! Or, Confidence in God.—There once lived in an old brown cottage a solitary woman. She was some thirty years of age, tended her little garden, knit and spun for a living. She was known everywhere from village to village, by the name of "Happy Nancy." She had no money, no family, no relatives; and was half blind, quite lame, and very crooked. There was no comeliness in her, and yet there, in that homely, deformed body, the great God, who loves to bring strength out of weakness, had set his royal seal.

"Well, Nancy, singing again," would the chance visitor say, as he stopped at her door.

"Oh, yes, I'm forever at it."

"I wish you'd tell me your secret, Nancy; you are all alone, you work hard, you have nothing very pleasant surrounding you; what is the reason you're so happy?"

"Perhaps it's because I haven't got anybody but God," replied the good creature, looking up. "You see rich folks like you depend upon their families and their houses; they've got to think of their business, of their wives and children; and then they're always mighty afraid of trouble ahead. I ain't got anything to trouble my self about, you see, 'cause I leave it all to the Lord. I think, Well if he can keep this great world in such good order that sun rolling day after day, and the stars shining night after night, make my garden things come up the same, season after season—he can certainly take care of such a poor, simple thing as I am; and so, you see, I leave it all to the Lord, and the Lord takes care of me."

"Well, but, Nancy, suppose a frost should come after your fruit trees are all in blossom, and your little plants out—suppose——"

"But I don't suppose; I never can suppose; I don't want to suppose—except that the Lord will do everything right. That's what makes you people unhappy; you're all the time supposing. Now, why can't you wait till the suppose comes, as I do, and then make the best of it?"

"Ah, Nancy, it's pretty certain you'll get to heaven, while many of us, with all our worldly wisdom, will have to stay out."

"There you are at it again," said Nancy, shaking her head; "always looking out for some black cloud. Why, if I was you, I'd keep the devil at arm's length, instead of taking him right into my heart; he'll do you a desperate right of mischief."

She was right. We do take the demon of care, of distrust, of melancholy foreboding, of ingratitude, right to our hearts. We enter every pleasure with this gloomy fear of coming ill; we seldom trust that blessings will enter, or hail them when they come. Instead of that, we smother them under the blanket of apprehension, and choke them with our mistrust.

It would be well for us to imitate Happy Nancy, and "never suppose." If you see a cloud, don't suppose it's going to rain; if you see a frown, don't suppose a scolding will follow; do what you have to do, and there leave it. Be more whatever your hands find to do, and there leave it. Be more childlike toward your Heavenly Father; believe in His love; confide in His wisdom, and not in your own; and above all, "wait till the supposes comes and then make the best of it," Depend upon it, earth would seem an Eden, if you would follow Happy Nancy's rule, and never give place in your bosom to imaginary evils.

"What is it to cast the care on God?
Is it to keep the heaviest load,
And lay some trifling weight aside,
Still taking thought for every hour,
As if the Lord's providing power
Were still unknown, untried?"

By M. J. MICHELET,
Author of
LOVE (L'Amour)—WOMAN (La Femme) etc.
One large volume. Price $1 25.

THE SEA (LA MER.)
This is another of M. MICHELET'S exquisite volumes—half science and half fancy, with a blending in both of tender suggestion. Michelet is a man of genius, and shows a poetic nature in the treatment of his themes. His works have produced an impression upon the reading public almost without parallel in late years. Such subtlety and delicacy, such vigorous analysis and tender sentiment were scarcely ever before so effectively combined.

The thousands who have read "LOVE" and "WOMAN," will need no urging to purchase his new book, "THE SEA." It is as philosophical, as instructing, and as fascinating.

The June Number commenced the Twenty-Third Volume of HARPER'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE. The object of the Publishers, as stated in the first number issued in June, 1850, was to present a periodical "which no one who had the slightest relish for elegant reading, or the slightest wish to keep himself informed of the progress and results of the literary genius of his own age, would willingly be without. And they intend to publish it at so low a rate, and to give it a value so much beyond its price, that it shall make its way into the homes of the family circle of every intelligent citizen of the United States."

Its unparalleled success, from month to month, and a constant demand for back numbers and complete Sets, evince that the Magazine meets the wants of the great body of American readers. No change will therefore be made in its general character. The Magazine contains at least twice the amount of matter of the leading English Monthlies. It is therefore enabled to present the best productions of European Novelists and Essayists, besides furnishing a larger amount of original matter than is given in any other Magazine of the day. Each Number contains an amount of reading equal to that in an ordinary octavo volume, with abundant pictorial illustrations of every subject to which the Artist can aid the Writer. More than Seven Thousand illustrations have already appeared in the Magazine.

The want which the Magazine was established to meet still exists, and the Publishers, while guaranteeing that the periodical shall maintain its high character, confidently rely upon a continuance of the liberal support which it has received for eleven years.

The Publishers of HARPER'S MAGAZINE, aware of its permanent value, have carefully put every page. They can, therefore, supply any Number from the beginning upon the following terms:

Any Number will be sent by Mail, post-paid, for Twenty-five Cents. Any Volume, comprising Six Numbers, neatly bound in Cloth, will be sent by Mail, to any part of the United States within 3,000 miles of New-York, post-paid, for Two Dollars per Volume. Complete Sets will be sent by Express, the freight at the charge of the purchaser, at a discount of Twenty-five per Cent from the above rate. Twenty-two Volumes, bound uniformly, extending from June, 1850, to June, 1861, are now ready.
