New Orleans Daily Crescent.

MONDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 28, 1859.

Anniversary Events—Feb. 28.

1755—Earthquake at Brussa, killing 800 people. A city stood in this time and destroyed a great part of the town.

1836—The American steamer Black Warrior was seized by the Spanish authorities at Havana. Same year, Battle of Lexington, Ky., attended by a [illegible] victory.

1837—Pentland Street Church, Eng., destroyed by fire which had been nearly 600 years.

1845—The great comet of the year first seen in the southern hemisphere.

1847—Death of Adam Stanley, in Davidson county, Tennessee, aged 105. He was a soldier of the Revolution.

1848—Death of Hadrian Mathias, a Canadian giant, seven feet eight inches high, and weighing 520 pounds.

1853—The U. S. frigate Constitution, 44 guns, capture the British frigate Cyane and sloop Levant, 54 guns, after a battle of 1 hour, 36 killed and 60 wounded; American loss, 1 killed and 11 wounded.

1806—Pichegru, the conqueror of Holland, was strangled in Paris by order of Napoleon.

1808—The British frigate Sybille captured the French ship La Vestale. Same day, Napoleon reached Madrid in triumph.

1848—Five hundred emigrant sleighs passed through Albany in one day, on their way to the settlements of the Western country. During three days in the year 1848 sleighs passed, loaded with emigrants and furniture for the then far-west of the Western country.

1848—Death of William Stockton, a New Jersey signer of the Declaration.

1808—The Spanish fleet under Elliott defeated the French fleet under Thurot; capturing three frigates and killing Thurot. So great a terror had this celebrated corsair been to all the seaports of England, that his death was celebrated with the greatest rejoicing.

1793—The Pope permitted the Bible to be translated into the language of the Catholic States.

1814—Battle between the French fleet under Du Perrier and the British fleet under Saunders, near Tortola, in which the French were worsted.

1775—Parliament was extended to the British colonies in America, in any drinking among the poorer classes, having a high duty on all sorts of spirituous liquors. It was stated that none of the low drinkers ever had this for their sign; "Drink for a penny, dead drunk for two-pence, and a clean straw for nothing."

1811—Bloody battle in Spain, in which the Persians were defeated with the loss of 10,000 men, and the Turks, killing 20,000 men, with a loss of their own force.

1812—Lewis and Harkinson left Fort Osweegeee, on the Missouri, to trace the Mississippi to its source. They followed the river till they came to a fall, which they named St. Anthony.

1848—Charles II's veto of the militia bill was overruled by the House of Commons, who declared his action to be public nuisance, and passed resolutions impeaching the course of the counties which had raised the militia for a state of defense.

1848—The Scotch House of Commons complained of King's extravagant liberality to his Scotch favorites.

1848—Death of George Buchanan, a Scottish poet and historian, who spent the last twelve years of his life in writing the history of his country in Latin.

1848—Death of Henry, Duke of Gloucester, was numbered among the victims of his rivalry with Cardinal Beaufort, and the leader of affairs in England.

1848—Battle of Dunbar Moor.

1848—Lucius Junius Brutus, the avenger of the violated chastity of the republic of Rome, was killed in the fields of the Glavian Fields. In this battle the Tarquins were vanquished and expelled Rome, and the victors lost 11,000 men.

EVENTS OF FEB. 29.

[Though Feb. 29 comes but once in four years, and then comes again till next year, we append a few of the events to keep up the connection.]

1504—Expulsion of the great gun, the Peacemaker, on board the U. S. war-steamer Princeton; killing a number of Government officers and wounding many others.

1848—Denmark declared war against Sweden.

1704—The French and Indians attacked Deerfield, Mass., burning the town, killing 47 people, and carrying 112 into captivity; among the latter, Rev. John Williams and family. Seventeen of the captives died or were killed on the march; Mrs. Williams was among those killed; 57 were afterward redeemed, including the minister; but a daughter of his refused to be redeemed; she adopted the manners and customs of the Indians, staid with them, and married one of them. The bell was taken from the Deerfield church; and this bell, it is said, now hangs in an Indian church at St. Regis.

FANCY GOODS, DRESS TRIMMINGS AND TOYS.—The advertisement of Pitts & Sons, 122 Canal street, is the widely known place to which you may see the most extraordinary collection of fancy goods, dress trimmings and toys to be found in this or any other country. Everything desirable in these lines manufactured in Europe, America, Asia or anywhere else, contributes to making up the completeness of the stock of nick-nack articles and so long have these dealers been in the business that their connections are unrivalled, and they are enabled to offer such inducements as cannot fail to sell upon sight, the profits of importing on their own account. Everything fancy which can be found anywhere else, may be obtained at "Pitts'," to whose advertisement we would direct attention.

CLOTHING FOR EVERYBODY.—Clothing for everybody and everywhere, no matter, be he large or small, rich or poor, young or old, no matter what sort of an order—to operate upon. The Shakspeare Clothing Establishment of L. W. Lyons & Co., at the corner of St. Charles and Common streets, may safely claim to have now in store one of the largest and most complete stocks of all sorts of garments, including ready made clothing, furnishing goods, and underclothing, ever collected in this city, or any other, and are selling at prices and on terms very satisfactory to all purchasers. We recommend the establishment to home or abroad—to the city or country. L. W. Lyons & Co.

CHAPP & BRIDEN'S.—If any body wants to see the finest, most beautiful printing in Louisiana, let him go to the office of Chapp & Briden, in Commercial Alley, and he will see what sort of an order—to operate upon. Since their removal from the upper story of the building on Commercial Place, they have raised their business to a very comparatively inaccessible thorough-fare. It should be borne in mind that Messrs. C. & B. do all their job printing; do it expeditiously, and quickly, and cheaply.

"TITBITS."—Undoubtly, the most perfect gem of a jewelry establishment anywhere in the country does not surpass, in variety of arrangement and excellence of goods that of Mr. Pyne, 140 Canal street. His jewelry is of the most elegant and recherche style, and the most costly materials—the finest of gold, the select of jewels, and of workmanship the most finished. His watches are from the most celebrated manufacturers and are of unrivalled excellence. Various fancy goods may also be found there, and a large assortment of fine arms. We call attention to his advertisement.

FINE JEWELRY is offered for sale by Mr. W. A. Wilson, Jr., Jewelry, at No. 62 is one of the most attractive and popular institutions of Canal street. The warranted watches sold by Mr. Wilson has given him a wide reputation as an importer of choice timepieces, and he keeps in hand an article unsurpassed in the world for reliability and durability. In all kinds of jewelry his stock is very full, stylishly made and well finished, and he would commend any the desiring to purchase to call at his place and look in upon him.

NEW ARRIVALS OF SPRING GOODS.—New additions to the spring stock of Mr. John Todd, 12 and 14 Chartres street, have been made by recent arrivals, among which are many of the latest designs and patterns which will be the rage of the spring and summer. Many coatings of stress fabrics in silk, wool and cotton, of the latest patterns may upon being up with the style when any other house and themselves in these goods. Mr. Todd has also received a new invoice of fine laces, embroideries, etc., which have only to be seen to be admired and desired, and he may be had at low prices.

CHAS. FARRE CHAMPAGNE.—This celebrated brand of wine has the public with repeat testimonials to its excellence. It is the simple which dictates the serene palate of the Prince of Prussia, and Napoleon Bonaparte's Imperial nose has hunted the exquisite aroma of its bouquet, and the jewels of royalty have sparkled with liquid diamonds the hairs of its innumerable bouquets. His real and that of the Prince of Prussia, Prussia, and the Instruments of certification to its excellence are on file in Chicago by Mr. A. Maurice, 30 Carondelet street, the agent for its sale.

FASHION LITERATURE.—Messrs. J. C. Morgan & Co., Fashion and Commercial Places, are always in receipt of the latest publications as early as they can come to hand. This house also advertises various new and valuable books, and intimate they will be pleased to show them to all who may call. In Plato, the Argonthe Confederation, Mormon Prophet, Mormon Prophet, Mormon Prophet