Message from the President.

WASHINGTON, March 3, 1859.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

An imperative sense of duty compels me to make an appeal to Congress to preserve the credit of the country. This is the last day of the present Congress, and no provision has yet been made for the payment of appropriations and to meet the outstanding treasury notes issued under the authority of law. From the information which has already been communicated to Congress by the Secretary of the Treasury, it is manifest that the ordinary receipts into the treasury, even under the most favorable circumstances, will scarcely meet the ordinary expenses of the Government during the remainder of the present fiscal year, ending on the 30th of June. At that time nearly eighteen millions of treasury notes will have become due, and many of those not yet due are daily paid for duties at the different ports, and there will be no means in the treasury to meet them. Thus the country, which is full of resources, will be dishonored before the world, and the American people, who are a debt-paying people, will be disgraced by the omission on our part to do our duty. It is impossible to avoid this catastrophe unless we make provision this very day to meet the lawful demands on the public treasury. If this were the first instead of the last session of a Congress the case would be different. You might then be convened by proclamation for to-morrow morning. But there are now thirteen States of the Union entitled to seventy-eight Representatives, in which none have been elected. It will, therefore, be impracticable for a large majority of these States to elect their members before the treasury shall be compelled to stop payment.

Under these circumstances, I earnestly recommend to Congress to make provision within the few remaining hours of the session for the preservation of the public credit. The urgency of the case not only justifies but demands that, if necessary, this shall be done by a separate bill. We ought to incur no risk when the good faith of the country is at stake.

JAMES BUCHANAN.

The Overland Mail.

The overland mail which left San Francisco at noon on the 11th of February arrived at San Francisco on the 5th inst. From the Republican we extract the following:

The travelers report that in the Pacheco pass a violent snow storm prevailed, and that for several days thereafter they encountered considerable rain. What is very unusual, quite a severe rain storm had occurred on the California desert. For two days previous to this storm the heaviest sand storms ever experienced had prevailed.

There was also a snow storm at the Tejon Pass. With these exceptions the weather during the trip has been excellent, and the roads very good. There was a loss of about a day on the route owing to the scarcity of stock. The passengers passed a drove of two hundred mules at Guadaloupe Pass, en route for the various stations this side of El Paso, to supply the deficiency in the present stock. On one section four mules hauled the stage sixty miles, when two gave out, and the remaining two were made to pull the vehicle some twenty miles further to a station where fresh mules were fortunately obtained.

Mr. Fulsom has been since last August at the Gila gold mines. He confirms all our previous reports of the unprofitable condition of the country. There has been occasionally a claim where parties have made money, but in the great majority of instances but slight gains rewarded the labor of the miner. The late report of the rich claim on the Colorado is also confirmed by Mr. Fulsom. Parties were still going to the Gila, but leaving there as soon after arrival as possible.

The passenger injured by the upsetting of the last coach and left at Seneca Springs, was fast recovering. His knee was not so badly injured as it was thought. Lieut. Gazelle, who was injured in the fight with the Comanches, was also rapidly improving. The company were still in pursuit of the fugitives with orders to follow them for several days. A party of rangers was also out on the trail of some red-skins who had been committing depredations in the neighborhood of Sherman.

Several men were met at Connelly's station by our travelers, seeking information of the whereabouts of the Rangers, for the purpose of joining them.

The passengers met no Indians immediately on the road, but at night they frequently saw their camp fires off in the distance.

A party of cavalry were passed in Texas. They had abandoned Fort Belknap, and were proceeding to Camp Cooper, on the clear fork of the Brazos, about sixty miles from Fort Belknap, to await orders.

The passengers complain of a great want of the commonest articles of food at several of the stations between Guadaloupe pass and Fort Chadbourne—all on one division. The agent was at Fort Yuma, and must be unaware of the prevailing destitution. For some 400 miles they report that a pound of flour cannot be obtained, and at many of the stations corn laid in for the mules was the only article of food they could obtain. This they pounded into meal, and with such provender were made to satisfy the appetite rendered keener by travel. It is thought that some of these stations will be abandoned, as the men have barely corn enough to last for a few days, and it will take two or three weeks at least for provisions to reach them.

Magnus Colorado had returned from Sonora. He had succeeded in stealing a large number of mules and horses, together with chickens and other booty. He had removed his people from the Apache Canon, and had gone westward.

At Fort Buchanan, Capt. Ewell was making preparations for an expedition against the tribe of Apaches, which had committed double murder at the Fort in January last. Two sergeants were killed by these Indians, and four mules were stolen. The name of one of the sergeants was Kelly. Kelly survived his wounds forty hours, but the other died immediately.

It was reported at Tucson that several Camanche squaws had visited their place for the purpose of informing the Indian agent, Col. Walker, of the coming of their chief on a mission of peace. Col. Walker had previously sent messages to this chief, informing him of a desire to make a treaty with him.

EDITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The New York Papers

Are luxuriating in the blissful surfeit of tragic scandal supplied them by Sickles-Key affair, and of course have got to fighting like dogs over the feast. Some want Sickles hung in reality and some Key hung in effigy, as no more vengeance can be wreaked upon his body feeling. Some pity Mrs. Sickles, extenuate her offense, and will probably soon justify her conduct as their tone has a strong tendency to that end. They are firing away at each other morning and evening discharges of stinging "leaders," and we should not be surprised if the merely morning papers begun to issue evening editions so as to be on a par with the "double-barrel" contemporaries who have the advantage of firing two shots to their one. Their columns are not roomy enough to afford space for the tremendous amount of "new developments" matter which daily pours in—and which "new developments" have not as yet developed anything newer than rehashes of the first accounts. The "Satannic press" is in clover—most luxuriant, choice, "four-leaved" clover, and will browse on it until the pasture is bare of the minutest item of pabulum for a paragraph.

The Horse Cars

For the railroad which is being constructed to traverse Broadway, New York, weigh but two thousand pounds each, accommodate twenty-four passengers, and are drawn by one horse each. The full complement of cars for this road, on which they will start every other minute, is twenty, and they will all be in circulation in opposite directions at the same time, save the few seconds occupied at the start, thus forming ten continuous streams of travel flowing through the great artery of New York.

Parisian Gossip

Is touching an unique fancy ball, lately given in the salon of the Freres-Provençaux, and called "The Ball of One Hundred." There were fifty masquers of each sex, and the design was that each should appear in a costume never before conceived of. Those mentioned as the most novel and remarkable were "a bush," a "gold cup," and others representing musical instruments, and which excited wide comment even among the Parisians. We had costuming quite as extraordinary here in New Orleans, the "Paris of America," last Tuesday night, when the mysterious members of the "Mistick Krewe" walked about as veritable musical instruments of various kinds, one of them representing "a bush" also, another "a pitcher"—quite as grotesque a fancy as seeming to be "a cup." We have no record of features of the Paris masque beyond those referred to above, and which constitute the subject of a paragraph "going the rounds," but if more were mentioned we suppose we could parallel them with oddities of the Comus concerts of Mardi-gras night.

It occurs to us

That Nature made a great mistake in not endowing the system of the female sex with the beard growing power. The beard is an article that is altogether more for ornament than use, and therefore should pertain to the ladies. How much better they would manage it! Into what fanciful conceits would they not cultivate it! What "killing styles" of moustache and whisker would they not devise! How the razor would enable the display of the clear complexion of youth and a matronly beard hide the sallow or wrinkled skin of advancing years, now concealed by plastering of cosmetics, lily white and rosy rouge! Nature is certainly in error in this matter! It is as unworthy the dignity of man to waste his time in sedulous, daily attention to mere matter of facial adornment, as it is hard that femininity should be deprived of a privilege so properly its own.

Kossuth is in the Field

Again, traveling through the discontented States of continental Europe, with a trunk full of inflammatory proclamations, a passport designating him as "Mr. Clarke," an American gentleman; said passport being furnished by the French Government, by the way. Kossuth is unable to speak anything but English at this time, and is apparently an excessively verdant traveler for pleasure, entirely ignorant of European affairs and politics. He is "an emissary of France," sent forth to incite to desertion and revolt the Hungarian soldiery of Austria. Shouldn't be surprised if this dangerous and dishonorable masquerade got the great Hungarian humbug into hot water. He should be sensible enough to stay quietly in his sumptuous retreat and spend the money contributed by the gulled American public "to the cause of Hungarian independence."

Musical, Dramatic, etc.

The best singers who can be engaged for money are appearing in the "Popular Concerts" at St. James' Hall, London, admission to which is but one shilling, though the aristocratically inclined may have seats reserved by the payment of an additional sixpence. Sims Reeves and M'me Viardot Garcia recently appeared in this democratic sort of entertainment, and by the act of course wrecked forever any chance of successful musical starring in democratic America, where lions must come with princely, noble or exceedingly aristocratic antecedents.....A new prima donna, M'me Penco, a Neapolitaine, has created a furore in Paris in "Semiramis," which she sings accounted in an amplitude of crinoline, to the disturbance of the shades of old Assyrian belles. Penco's voice is pronounced melody itself, and her execution "the pure maccaroni." The Parisian endorsement she has secured is the "philosopher's stone" of her fortunes—the talisman of a worldwide success.....An unfortunate individual recently threw an "immortelle" to Mrs. Selby, while on the stage of the Strand theater, London, and was immediately arrested by the police and removed from the house. Being brought before a magistrate—a learned Dogberry—in due time he was sentenced to apologize to the lady for heinous offense, and on such condition to receive the discharge of the court. He humbly complied with the sentence. The presentation of the funereal plant was interpreted as the expression of an opinion that the actress ought to be dead and buried—not very flattering, certainly. Wonder if it is an offense amenable to English statute, or only adjudged a misdemeanor by a petty magistrate, inflated with the importance of a little brief authority, as we have known officials of that class to be, in a place a good many thousands of miles from London.....Barney Williams and Mrs. Barney are about closing business in Great Britain, and will carry away cash evidences of the refined dramatic tastes and predilection for humbuggery which maintain in that kingdom to the amount of $5000 net, for each and every month of their long sojourn in it. We rejoice in their success, for we hope they will soon get money enough together to induce them to leave the stage forever, and that their precious "school" of dramatics will die with them.

MURDER IN MISSOURI.—The St. Louis Republican publishes the following letter:

CAIRO, March 4, 1859.—A shooting affair occurred at New Madrid yesterday between two men named Chriswell and Moore, which resulted in the death of the latter. Chriswell had married the mother of Moore's wife, and there had been unfriendly feelings between the two for some time, on account of the distribution of some family property.

Yesterday, Moore went to Chriswell's house, and was ordered out by Chriswell. He refused to go out of the house, saying that he would leave when he chose to. Chriswell threatened to put him out, which Moore dared him to do. Chriswell took hold of him to put him out, when he drew a pistol and shot Chriswell through the arm. The latter then drew a pistol and shot Moore, killing him instantly. Chriswell is described as a desperate character.

PRENTICIANA.—Mr. J. G. Spott, a small office-holder in Minnesota, complains bitterly in a card that some of his own political friends are resolved to get him out, but predicts that they will fail. No doubt Mr. Spott thinks they will succeed as badly as Lady Macbeth when in her despair she exclaimed "Out, damned spot."

The Opposition papers very properly object to entrusting Mr. Buchanan with the purse and the sword. He would no doubt handle the sword very awkwardly, but he would wield the purse tremendously.

The editor of the New York Herald says he has no considerations for trifles. We suppose 'tis but his mode of confessing his want of self-respect.

The Democrat, in reply to the declared determination of the Opposition to beat the Democracy, asks if we ever saw a man eat a whale. We can't say we ever did. But we understand that many a man has harpooned a whale in spite of all his spouting, and helped eat the very small portion of him that was eatable.

Come over to the Democracy—the door is open.

[Louisville Democrat.

Which door, neighbor? Buchanan and Douglas, like Gog and Magog, keep careful watch at two different portals. The door may be open, but, like the hand of the miserly chart which was always open to the poor, there's nothing in it.

The editor of a Locofoco paper says he was born a Democrat. Without a second birth, there can be no hope for that fellow.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU.

JOY TO THE AFFLICTED.

It cures Nervous and Debilitated Sufferers, and removes all the symptoms, among which will be found—

Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, General Weakness, Horror of Disease, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Dreadful Horror of Death, Night Sweats, Cold Feet, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Languor, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Often Enormous Appetite, with Dyspeptic Symtoms, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Pallid Countenance and Eruption on the Face, Pain in the Back, Heaviness of the Eyelids, Frequently Black Spots Flying before the Eyes, with Temporary Suffusion and Loss of Sight, Want of Attention, Great Mobility: Restlessness, with Horror of Society. Nothing is more desirable to such Patients than Solitude, and nothing they more Dread for fear of themselves, no Repose of Manner, no Earnestness, no Spectatior, but a Hurried Transition from one question to another.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on—which this medicine invariably removes—soon follows LOSS OF POWER, FATUITY and EPILEPTIC FITS—in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say that these excesses are not frequently followed by those direful disease—INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION? The records of the INSANE ASYLUMS, and the melancholy deaths by CONSUMPTION, bear ample witness to the truth of these assertions. In Lunatic Asylums the most melancholy exhibition appears. The countenance is actually sodden and quite destitute—neither mirth nor grief ever visits it. Should a sound of the voice occur, it is rarely articulate,

"With woeful measures wan despair
Low sullen sounds his grief beguiled."

Debility is most terrible, and has brought thousands upon thousands to untimely graves, thus blasting the ambition of many noble youths. It can be cured by the use of this

WINER'S CANADIAN VERMIFUGE.

IMPORTANT MEDICAL INFORMATION.

The late Dr. Chapman of Philadelphia has laid it down as a rule, that "worms may be suspected in a child where there is emaciation, and especially weakness of the bowels, accompanied by a discharge of slime and mucus," and all medical authorities agree that to work a thorough cure, the stomach and bowles must be invigorated as well as the worms themselves discharged. Winer's Canadian Vermifuge fulfils both these conditions. It not only extirpates the vermiculus, but strengthens the digestion, increases the solvent power of the gastric juice, and imparts a healthy action to the bowels. Hence its cures are complete and permanent.

THE IDEA OF THE LIVING BODY

Being the receptacle of greedy worms, is sickening; and yet six out of every ten children are more or less afflicted with them. Why should this be the case when there are volumes of testimony to prove that a few doses of Winer's Canadian Vermifuge will eradicate the disease? Parents make a note of this established fact, and remember that the medicine is free from all deleterious substances.

PAINLESS IN ITS OPERATION,

Certain in its results; free from all mineral substances, and invigorating to the system; these are the merits of WINER'S CANADIAN VERMIFUGE, a preparation which eradicates every class of internal worms, with a degree of dispatch that is as agreeable as it is astonishing.

GREAT DISCOVERY.

Ample tests, both by able practitioners and chemical analysis, have demonstrated the great value of Prof. De Grath's beautiful combination, called for the relief and cure of pain. But the people themselves are rendering their verdict in a manner both unmistakable and satisfactory. More than twenty thousand bottles have been sold in a very short time—a great proportion to those who heard others recommend it, who had tried it. That it's a splendid discovery is everywhere acknowledged, and nothing like it was ever before prepared.

The only genuine ELECTRIC OIL is Prof. DeGrath's, which is to be had at all the respectable Druggists in this city, and at wholesale and retail, at the proprietor's prices, of the Agent.
