[illegible] Crescent.

[illegible] Crescent will be [illegible] a vast amount of ex[illegible] including poetry, tales and [illegible] generally.

[illegible] Weekly Crescent.

[illegible] Weekly Crescent is issued this morning [illegible] to be had at the office counter, or at the [illegible] of J. C. Morgan & Co., Exchange and [illegible] It contains an extraordinary [illegible] matter on all subjects and of [illegible]

A NOVEL PROJECT.

[illegible] Steam Company has given up its [illegible] of getting a ship canal through the sands of [illegible] and the feasibility of a [illegible] project is being considered. The new plan [illegible] the tedious stumbling block to [illegible] has features both of novelty and [illegible] and if thoroughfished the work will be the [illegible] of the age. It is nothing less than a ship [illegible] to the Red Sea, the [illegible] to be prepared, shall not consist of two [illegible] of a number of parallel railroads [illegible] elevated to the level of the road by [illegible] and after being safely "checked [illegible] the rear and interesting phe[illegible] will be presented of a heavily laden India[illegible] 30 miles buried, dashing away into the [illegible] over high and dry land, for a dis[illegible] miles, to be launched in a few [illegible] waters of another hemisphere, to reach [illegible] would otherwise have been compelled to [illegible]

[illegible] nations, particularly England and [illegible] a fund determination to solve this [illegible] which has been fretting them [illegible] a half a century, and recently made a [illegible] at it with a great canal scheme, to which [illegible] subscriptions to the movement of sixty-[illegible] of dollars were made. But that has been [illegible] because the canal could not be made, [illegible] the cost would be so heavy that the en[illegible] would not begin to pay. The ship railway [illegible] to be commenced for more economically than the [illegible] and it really does seem as if the undertaking [illegible] be accomplished, if enough money be expended in [illegible] work. The country through which the [illegible] is comparatively level, and the [illegible] steps very gradually. The ter[illegible] would pass down into the dock, where [illegible] would be unhooked and the ship floated [illegible] up to the level grade by power[illegible] engines, or legs are dragged from a [illegible] carriage and railway. Three or [illegible] of locomotives on the different rails would [illegible] the distance in eight or ten hours, and [illegible] of the kind per diem, at a toll of a couple [illegible] dollars or so each, would make a paying [illegible] for the great ship railroad, and commer[illegible] interesting interests would be benefitted im[illegible] It would not be altogether a good thing [illegible] for it would bring Europe too near [illegible] interests of the Pacific coast, which an[illegible] great things in the way of Asiatic trade.

[illegible] VALUABLE TRACT OF LAND AT PRIVATE [illegible]—We call the particular attention of purchasers, [illegible] chances of investing in valuable lands—the [illegible] advertisement in the world—to an advertise[illegible] of Mr. J. B. Walton, Auctioneer, No. 16 Bank [illegible] to be seen in our paper. He advertises that [illegible] for sale, at private sale, one of the choicest [illegible] of land in one of the choicest parishes of the [illegible] It is in the parish of Iberville, not far from [illegible] is richly and heavily studded with an im[illegible] growth of cypress, and the quality of the soil [illegible] equal to any in the parish. The terms, which we [illegible] are quite reasonable, may be ascertained [illegible] the office of the auctioneer.

[illegible] AND CRANBERRIES.—We learn, says the [illegible] News, that the early frost has played the [illegible] with the cranberry crop of that State, and [illegible] bushels were gathered last season it [illegible] be hard work to find one bushel this, and they [illegible] of a much poorer grade. In some counties of [illegible] the cranberry crop has far exceeded in [illegible] the grain crop, and its loss will be [illegible]

[illegible] IN MISSISSIPPI.—The Grenada Republican [illegible] a difficulty occurred a few days at Water Valley, [illegible] Mr. Bennett and a Mr. Lancha, in which [illegible] killed with a stick of wood in the [illegible] of the former. We have no further particulars [illegible]

[illegible] BLOWN DOWN.—During the storm in New York on the 17th, a four story brick tenement on [illegible] street was blown down. No person was killed, but six of the inmates were taken out consid[illegible]

THE FLORIDA RAILROAD.—The Fernandina Flo[illegible] reports the Florida railroad finished, and ready [illegible] on the 19th, to the Chunky Pond, [illegible] miles beyond Gainesville, making the [illegible] of miles traversed and in running order one [illegible] and twenty-two.

[illegible] ACCIDENT.—On the 5th inst., Hugh [illegible] was instantly killed, at Limeport, Bucks [illegible], by the premature explosion of a blast. [illegible] rock above one hundred feet high, and fell into [illegible] twenty-five yards from the quarry. One hand [illegible] was found seventy-five yards from the [illegible] the remains of clothing, and pieces of his [illegible] were scattered over nearly an acre of ground.

MELANCHOLY LESSON.—A friend presented us with a [illegible] yesterday, which we feel loth to describe, for fear of doing our character for veracity with friends [illegible] readers can call and see for themselves. It was grown at Enterprise, in Florida, and except in color, resembles the largest size egg plant. Upon subjecting it to the scales and tape, we find its weight just four pounds, is eight and one-[illegible] inches in its shortest circumference, and twenty-one and three-eight inches in its longest. [Savannah (Ga.) Republican, Sept. 13.

THE JEW AND HIS PURSE.—A Jew, residing at Lyons, lately lost his purse, containing 1,200f., and he advertised the loss in the canal way. The next day he received this letter: "Amisible Israelite—It is I who have found your 1,200f., and you may weep for them any you will never get them back again. I am leading the life of a Sardanapalus. Here is an account of what I have this day had for breakfast and for dinner. (A detail of the two meals was here given.) I shall continue to live in this manner, gracious Hebrew, until your 1,200f. are exhausted, and I will finish by drinking a glass of wine to your health."

On the edge of a small river in the county of Cavan, in Ireland, there is a stone with the following inscription:—"B. B.—When this stone is out of sight 3 ft. not safe to ford the river." But this is even surpassed by the famous post erected a few years since by the surveyors of the Kent roads: "This is the bridle path to Feversham; if you can't read this, you had better keep the main road."

MARBLE MANTELS, GRAVES AND BUILDERS' HARDWARE.—We direct the attention of the public to the advertisement of Messrs. Lemonchelo Bros. & Co., 114 Camp street, near Poydras, who have now in store a magnificent stock of mantels in the variation of marbles and in great diversity of patterns, at all prices. Also, Yale's bank and safe locks, and a heavy stock of builders' hardware—such as locks, bolts, hinges, nails and sashes. Builders should certainly inspect the stock of the Messrs. L. & Co., for they will find it very complete and very cheap.

OPELOUSAS RAILROAD.—Shippers of Texas freight are referred to a notice published by Mr. A. Seger, Superintendent of the Opelousas Railroad.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF BOOTS, SHOES AND BROGANS. The particular attention of buyers is called to the extensive sale of boots, shoes and brogans to take place this day at 10 o'clock, at E. Roper & Co.'s auction rooms, No. 32 Old Levee street. Terms—over $50, nett 6 months.

TEXAS.—The enterprising proprietor of the South[illegible] Hotel, Galveston, has on hand the choicest and freshest of fruit and great game, which is fully attested by the patronage it receives which he now enjoys, and which is increasing every day. See his advertisement this morning.

THE PRESIDENT'S PRODIGALITY.

We think that letter writers and editors ought to let old Buck alone, for he is fully competent to damn himself to all intents and purposes without the aid of his enemies being called in requisition to assist him with their kicks down the headlong path to political perdition. These Washington letter writers are a baleful, poisonous class, who have a mistaken idea that it is their duty to their consciences and the public to show up all the shortcomings of the federal powers that be, and expose them to the just indignation of the republican public. When a man or an administration is going down hill why not let him or it "go it alone," instead of pitching in and helping him or it on the downward track and thereby dividing with him or it the credit of working his or his own ruin. Old Buck's maladministration of the gravest matters of State has been shown up, and his errors in all large things unfeelingly exposed, as if he who pledged himself to a confiding Democracy and a suspicious Opposition to do everything right should not be allowed to fulfill Democratic pledges in the usual way by doing everything wrong, and thus answer the expectations of a few long-headed old political infidels that he and his supporters could not quite come the Oily Gammon over them.

But though sufficiently and justly condemned everywhere for his official course, there has been one credit generally allowed him on all hands, and that was that he spent his twenty-five thousand a year like a gentleman, or a prince, in entertaining the country's guests at the White House, and even apprehensions were felt that the regal munificence of his hospitality would impoverish the Chief Magistrate, his admiring organs having promulgated the report that his salary could stand no such drain, and that he must be making disastrously heavy drafts upon his private purse to support the magnificent expenditure which his sense of the dignity of his office suggested as the handsome thing. Much compassion was thereupon excited; there was a popular call that the salary of the President should be raised to a proper figure, and much was written in favor thereof.

Yet, it seems old Buck is to be robbed even of this poor credit of being a pecuniary martyr in his country's cause, for a meddling letter writer must needs come out and give the result of a close investigation into the President's affairs which his prying disposition has induced him to make, and this result is, that so far from his expending a fabulous amount of money over his salary, the head of the Administration will clear, in actual cash, at least sixty thousand of the one hundred thousand dollars which Uncle Sam makes over to him in requital for his valuable services during his term of office. This shows how much wiser, smarter, and shrewder a man is Buchanan than Millard Fillmore, who neither had the disposition nor the faculty of "laying by out of his salary." This disreputably inquisitive correspondent is "Occasional," a scribbling fellow who has somehow got the reputation of being rather more reliable than letter-writers for the press are commonly esteemed to be, and he says that the keen Pennsylvanian "has reduced, by the closest calculation, the domestic management of his establishment to a science," and "there can be no doubt that whatever others have done, the present occupant of the Presidential chair makes money out of his office," for "he has restricted himself within a certain circle, and he will not go beyond it. My impression is that he will wave at the end of his term, out of the one hundred thousand dollars appropriated to the President by Congress, at least sixty thousand." The correspondent goes on to give his reasons for his conclusion, by entering into the detail of the President's domestic arrangements, but we really cannot follow this needlesome edition of Paul Pry in his indecorous investigations, which show that the President's public dinners, which first induced the injurious suspicion of his hospitable prodigality, and which occasion his only public outlay, "under a system of close management, cost a comparatively small sum." We cannot close without suggesting that as Mr. "Occasional" has displayed so shrewd an acquaintance with kitchen affairs that should Douglas prove victorious, to the overthrow of Buchanan Democracy, he should be complimented with the post of head scullion in the household of the new occupant of the White House.

AN ENVIABLE DISTINCTION.

The New York Post tells with exultation how "Miss Sarah P. Remond, of Salem, Mass., a well educated and refined colored young woman" who is now in England, and "the guest of two noted fugitive slaves from the United States, William and Ellen Crafts, who are comfortably settled in the great metropolis," was treated with the most distinguished and complimentary consideration by "the most illustrious man in England." After an appropriately jubilant introduction, the Post quotes from a London paper which relates that "Miss Remond was called down stairs one day by the servant (of Ellen and William Crafts) who told her that an old gentleman had come in his carriage to see her, and was waiting for her in the parlor. This old gentleman was none other than the most illustrious man in England, that world's wonder, Henry, Lord Brougham. Lord Brougham remained for about an hour in conversation with Miss Remond. We have not heard what they talked about, or what they thought of one another, but it is certain that of the thousands of white ladies who annually cross the Atlantic to see the 'lions' of the old world, very few, indeed, on their return, can boast of having had such an interview with such a man."

As Lord Brougham has the reputation of being one of the greatest of English statesmen, we may take him as a fine sample specimen of the class, and come at a reasonable idea of the mental material requisite to make a man a leader in English politics. We should think that the Post's republication would have a tendency to weaken the fancy of our Northern countrywomen for crossing the Atlantic on lion hunting expeditions, seeing that a negro woman is preferred before them as the recipient of the distinguished honor, not only of taking Lord Brougham by the hand, but of being closeted with the political sage for a long and delightful hour. They may think also that such favor is no great distinction after all, since it is so obligingly vouchsafed to such a party, the preference of the whilom Premier of the realm of British Empire being dictated by amalgamation instincts which do not suggest agreeable reflections. If English greatness is made of such material, it is hardly worth the while of right-minded Americans to respect, much less to lionize it, though it may be adored by "colored young women" of Massachusetts and their white-skinned associates. Think of "the most illustrious man in England" waiting, in all the state of anointed nobility, on a negro wench and doing the agreeable to her by the space of one hour! Probably the eminent statesman gathered from such authoritative source much valuable information on the affairs of the United States, which will be ventilated for the information of the British Government and people on the earliest occasion.

☞Among the many preparations now before the public, as certain cures for the Fever and Ague, none have been received with such especial favor as that known as Dr. J. HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS. This tonic has been circulated, and its many virtues promulgated throughout the States, and every day the proprietors are greeted with the intelligence of some dreadful case vanquished by the use of their calebrated "Bitters." In our principal cities there are but few families who neglect the "Bitters," in furnishing their medicine-closets. As a tonic, it is both mild and agreeable in its taste, and stimulating in its action upon the system. For a certain cure for the Fever and Ague, Fistulency, Dyspepsia, and all other morbid diseases, it is unrivalled and unequalled.

☞Startling Discoveries have been made within the past few years, by eminent French and German chemists, concerning the great difference in the quantity and quality of iron in the blood, and it has been found that prevalent cases of female debility, loss of healthy complexion—chlorosis, fluor albus, etc—impurities of the blood and general prostration were occasioned by the diminished quantity of iron in the blood. The most eminent physicians of Paris, London, Vienna, and recently of New York, have adopted Dr. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE PILLS and Aperient and Stomachic preparation of Iron, by hydrogen, and are now prescribing them with most extraordinary success. Good appetite, complete digestion, rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow their use. As a grand stomachic and general recuperative it has no superior and no substitute.

Singer's

SEWING MACHINES.

The fact is now established that SINGER'S SEWING MACHINES, with recent great improvements, have no rival, either for the fine or coarse sewing. That they have given universal satisfaction has been shown by certificates published in nearly all the newspapers in this State, and no other certificates have been published, or can be given, of the like success of any other Sewing Machine.
SINGER'S FAMILY
—And—
PLANTATION SEWING MACHINE,
combined, has no rival for fine work, and will sew a leather trace beautifully, using either cotton, silk or flax thread. Servants learn readily to use them in one or two hours, and they are so substantial that they cannot be put out of order, except by violent misusage or abuse, and will last a lifetime. Those who will take the trouble to inquire, will find that nine-tenths of the clothing and shoes sold in this city are made on Singer's Sewing Machines, and there is no doubt they are more used than all others put together.
The undersigned has sold over two thousand Singer's Machines, not one of which has been returned, though they are all guaranteed eighteen months.
No Family Sewing Machine can compare with Singer's, either in the beauty and delicacy of the stitch, or in the simplicity, elegance and durability of the Machine.
Singer's Machines are now beautifully ornamented and sold in handsome cases if desired.
I have just received a large supply of Machines by the Catawba, and all those who have been obliged to wait can now be supplied forthwith.

A Card.

SHIP MAY QUEEN,
New Orleans, September, 1859.
Mr. H. Fassman—Dear Sir: I have received from the New Orleans Cotton Press about two hundred bales of cotton, bound in your "new iron tie," and think it superior to any of the rope-bound cotton yet taken in my ship. Cotton, in your tie, are compact and well shaped, stow well, and in no instance have I seen either the hoops or ties give way; the iron-bound cotton stows better than the rope bound. I take an interest in the matter, and have made a trial of what you sent me, and am convinced that cotton bound in iron, with your tie, is the best for the ship; it does not expand and enables the vessel to carry more.
I saw the compressing and think your gang can handle the iron-tie as readily as the rope. Recommending it to the use of all shipmasters, and hoping soon to see it brought into general use, I remain yours, respectfully,
F. E. JORDAN, Master.
NEW ORLEANS, September, 1859.
H. Fassman, Esq—Sir: As the Stevedore of the ship May Queen, I had a good opportunity of observing the advantages of iron-bound cotton. I found the cotton you sent her in iron remarkably well pressed, better than that in rope, enabling me to store, with greater ease, the same, or a greater amount, in the same space.
Your tie, being free from the objection raised, that hoops will unhook and come off, will obviate all the difficulty in that respect, and I am persuaded will give shipmasters perfect satisfaction. Respectfully, yours,

UDOLPHO WOLFE'S
PURE COGNAC BRANDY IN BOTTLES.
I am now supplying the trade with pure Cognac Brandy, in bottles, both for medical and private use. The immense success that has crowned my efforts to place a pure Gin within the reach of all, under the name of Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps, and to drive out of the market the pernicious compounds sold as Gin throughout the country, led many leading druggists, apothecaries and medical men, for some years past, to solicit me to pursue the same course in regard to the article of Brandy. I should have complied with these requests from all quarters long ago, but was deterred from it by the fact, that owing to the exorbitant prices of Brandy in France, consequent upon the shortness of the grape crop for some years, there was no chance of my being able to import the choicest Brandy, bottle it and sell it at moderate prices. Fortunately for me, the grape crop for the last and previous year (and the prospect for this) was abundant, and prices of Brandy have fallen to the standard of ten years ago. The duty on Brandy is also seventy per cent. lower, and I have now made arrangements with four Brandy exporters in France, of the highest repute, and am regularly receiving consignments of the best Cognac Brandy, which I am bottling and selling as Wolfe's Genuine Cognac Brandy. I guarantee with my seal, labels and certificates, the Brandy so bottled by me, as the pure, unadulterated article, and it will be found, when used as a medicine, a beverage, "a cordial, healthful and invigorating. It has been a matter of universal complaint, that a bottle of pure, unmixed French Brandy, was very difficult to obtain, and the purchaser, nine times in ten, was deceived with a vile manufactured imitation. Of all descriptions of ardent spirits, Brandy, from its high price, has been the one article that mixers and sellers have turned their attention to, and millions of gallons of the so-called French Brandy have been scattered annually through the land, and have been the primary cause of murders, suicides, cruelties and crimes, and have sent thousands to an early grave, self-destroyers, from delirium tremens, mania-a-potu and horrors, names unknown until unprincipled men began to make maddening compounds and sell it as the pure French Brandy.
The virtues of pure French Brandy need not be told by me. They are known throughout the world as a medicine or a mild stimulant. It is, as the French nation poetically name it, "Eau de la vie," the water of life. But this applies to it only when pure and unadulterated. Manufactured with the fearful ingredients that make a good imitation, it becomes a death drink to innocent tens of thousands of our race. To remedy a fearful evil, I have commenced importing Brandy, bottling it, and selling it as "Wolfe's Genuine Cognac Brandy." I am daily receiving orders from the druggists and apothecaries in all parts of the Union, to sell it for medical purpose.

ANDREWS' PATENT

CENTRIFUGAL DRAINING PUMP,

Grist Mills, French Burr Mill Stones, Newell Cotton Screws, Circular Saws, Gin Saw, Steel, etc.

These Gin Stands are of the superior patent formerly made by our Mr. R. D. Gullett, when a member of the firm of Messrs. Gullett, Gladney & Co., of Aberdeen, Miss., and are especially distinguished for combining great ginning speed with a much improved sample of Cotton, enhancing its value from ½ to 1 cent. per pound. Price, $5 per Saw.

Being the manufacturers principally of our own Machinery, we are enabled to thoroughly adapt it to Planter on use and Mechanical purpose, and to furnish it to our customers upon the most favorable terms.

All articles sold or furnished by us will be fully guaranteed.
